Suave Japanese.
The Prince Receives.
Hijacker, New Style.
Chucunaques Dying.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

JAPANESE envoys, quiet, suave, knowing and obeying the Japanese national will, are in New York on their way to the London naval conference.

They would be charmed to abandon for several years the building of "capital ships." They know that such ships are only targets for airplanes and submarines, as expensive as they are useless.

THEY insist on fast cruisers however, for those can be used to annoy commercial ships.

And they won't even discuss abandoning submarines, or airplanes, both of which they are building vigorously. Wise, practical Japanese.

THE British motto is "business first." No past disappointment, or prejudice of today must interfere.

The Prince of Wales yesterday, amid a brilliant company in St. James palace, received the ambassador from Russia to Great Britain, saying pleasant things about the glory of the Russian people, etc.

KING GEORGE did not receive the Russian for two reasons. The present Russian government killed the czar who was the king's cousin.

And the king, official head of the established Church of England, doesn't like Russia's effort to make religion ridiculous, calling it "the opium of the people."

However, the prince did the receiving well, the ambassador is satisfied, and the British will do business with Russia.

BUT quite new are the hijackers that yesterday raided a government warehouse, tying up the watchman, tearing down a brick wall, driving away with $250,000 worth of Uncle Sam's so-called "Medicinal" whisky.

F. A. MITCHELL-HEDGES, British explorer, back from Panama, says the interesting Chucunaques, survivors of a great Indian nation, will soon vanish.

SPANIARDS long ago landed among them, robbing, killing, and since then they have excluded white people.

The Britisher pretending to be a god, lighting fires around his tent at night, going through an elaborate meaningless religious ritual, impressed them They tolerated him.

Their worst diseases are ignorance and superstition, the diseases that have killed off many races and nations, allowing others less ignorant and superstitious to take their places.

General Plutarco Calles, Mexican fighting general, returning to his ranch near Mexico City will find thousands of peons, his Mexican laborers, lining the road on both sides.

Later he will invite 5,000 of them to lunch with him.

IN THIS country, big industrialists sometimes get Billy Sunday to come and pray with workers, sometimes give workers a chance to buy stock in the company and sometimes lock them out, to settle a strike.

Twelve million five hundred thousand dollars in good American gold went to France on the Olympic and those that lose in the Wall street earthquake, sold stocks to "take losses" and get credit on income tax reports.

HOWEVER, a new year is coming.

Income tax selling will stop on December 31.

The President and others that should know are cheerful about prospects. The employment situation is not encouraging, but it is reasonable to suppose that we are at the bottom of the hill, about to start up again.

F. C. CHICHESTER, cheerful British pilot, started yesterday in a very small "Moth" airplane from London, saying to friends, "Cheerio! I am off to Australia."

He hopes to beat the world's record of 15 days.

Every day there is, in aviation, proof that what men can imagine they will do, even though many are killed doing it.

THOMPSON HINTS HUGE COAL DEAL

Uniontown Ex-Banker Goes Into Court and Indicates $35,000,000 Transaction

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 21.—Instead of a $15,000,000 coal deal, J. V. Thompson has one for about $35,000,000 under negotiations, according to a statement given out here today just before the former coal baron appeared in Orphans Court to ask an extension of his parole which expired today. It was indicated that Judge J. W. Dawson would grant a reasonable period of time for the consummation of the huge deal which, it is claimed, would dump millions into Fayette County where the financial stringency is being keenly felt.

ANNOUNCEMENT SOON

Frank J. Riley, spokesman for Mr. Thompson, said:

"We will have some news of great interest within a short time. It will be particularly welcome news for the people of Uniontown and other sections of Fayette County."

It is hinted here today that the sale of 60,000 acres of the Smith tract in Greene County for about $15,000,000 is near consummation and that overtures already have been made for the purchase by interests believed to be connected with the U. S. Steel Corporation of the 160,000-acre tract. The smaller tract is being sought by the same purchaser, it is said. Another current report is that affiliated interests in the new Republic Steel Company merger are after the virgin coal lands of Greene County.

"Big interests realize now that the coal market has reached the bottom and is on the up-grade," declared Mr. Riley, "therefore gigantic deals seem imminent."

Thompson's part in the deal is that of broker. He is said to hold options on the land at a figure which would allow him to sell the properties at a substantial profit.

Accompanying Mr. Thompson to Uniontown were Mr. Riley and

TUNNEY ASKS SHOWDOWN ON SUIT

Cross-Motion Filed by Former Boxer Says Fogarty Case Was Meant to Defame Him

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The desire of Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty, Fort Worth (Tex.) divorcee, to withdraw her $500,000 breach of promise suit against James J. Tunney, found the retired heavyweight champion today demanding a fight to a decision.

Frank L. Wilder, Mrs. Fogarty's counsel, announced in court yesterday, after he had been granted permission to quit the case as her representative, that Mrs. Fogarty had dispatched a letter authorizing a withdrawal of the action which was brought in Superior Court last May.

Tunney's attorney, Homer S. Cummings, immediately filed a motion for judgment on his cross-complaint, which, among other things, alleges that the suit was brought merely to defame Tunney and to extort money. The motion will be argued next Friday before Judge Carl Foster.

Mrs. Fogarty's letter, Wilder said, was written in Boston and was dated November 4.

At the present time Tunney is living in Greenwich with his wife, the former Polly Lauder, whom he married abroad before the breach of promise suit was filed.

A suit for $500,000 brough against the former boxer by John H. Fogarty, one-time Fort Worth plumber, who charged that Gene's promise to wed his wife influenced her to obtain a divorce from him, is pending.

Mrs. Fogarty charged that Tunney proposed to her in Hot Springs, Ark., June 3, 1925. She accepted, she said, but she found he had a change of heart.

Tunney was in Italy when the suit was filed, but he answered through counsel, denying everything. He also charged that the woman had twice been "bought off" when she threatened to sue him.

RAIL MERGER PLAN ISSUED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—The so-called Porter plan for consolidating the railroads of the country into a limited number of systems was issued today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It provides, in effect, for 19 systems in continental United States and two Canadian-owned systems, and the details are substantially the same as published in a forecast of the report yesterday.

Man Stabbed in Fight Over Another's Wife

B. J. Gabor, 48, of 3901 Forbes street, is in the McKeesport Hospital with a stab wound in the left arm, suffered, according to Glassport police, in a fight over another man' wife.

Police said that as Gabor was walking with Mrs. Joseph Schwerha, of 629 Monongahela avenue, Glassport, last night, her husband approached. Following a quarrel, police said, Schwerha drew a knife and slashed Gabor.

Schwerha is being held in the Glassport lockup.

'Princeless' Mary Sails to Paris Opera

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Mary McCormic, opera singer, was on the high seas today, bound, so she declared on her departure aboard the liner Olympic, for the Paris Opera and not Prince Serge Mdivani.

It was Miss McCormic who, while Pola Negri was suing the Prince for divorce two months ago, announced she was to become his next wife.

ARMY'S 'BEST' PLANE AFTER CRASH KILLING 5

CAPITAL CRASH UNSOLVED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Faced with a mystery, as baffling as that of ships disappearing at sea, the war department searched today for any clue that might explain the crash of the giant Fokker airplane that carried a member of Congress and four companions to death as they started home for Christmas.

The views of every person at the army airport at Bolling Field who had any knowledge of the accident were sought by the investigating board, but so far none have been able to tell what made the ship, powered with three sturdy motors, falter and plunge to the earth.

As the inquiry proceeded, a congressional committee appointed shortly after the accident arranged to attend the funeral services for Representative William Kirk Kaynor, who was starting for Springfield, Mass., to inspect a National Guard unit and be with his wife and six children for the hanging of stockings on Christmas Eve, when the plane crashed to the ground.

Those killed with him were Capt. Harry A. Dinger, a veteran pilot, who had more than 666 hours in the air in tri-motored ships; Stanley B. Lowe, the Congressman's secretary; Arthur A. McGill, who was associated with the Republican National Committee, and Charles (Vladimir) Kuzma, the mechanic.

While the bereaved families prepared for a saddened Christmas, Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, a World War aviator and president of the National Aeronautic Association, made a personal inquiry and called on the nation not to be discouraged over aviation.

The board of inquiry, composed of Maj. R. A. Hale, Capt. Ernest Clark and Lieut. Ronald A. Hicks, followed their preliminary survey of the accident with interviews of eye-witnesses, but opinion prevailed that the explanation of the tragedy's cause m. have perished with the pilot.

Congressman Kaynor, of Massachusetts, met his death in his first plane trip. He was flying home as a surprise Christmas visit to his wife and six children, one new-born.

DEPUTIES FREED IN 6 KILLINGS

BURNSVILLE, N. C., Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Eight McDowell County deputy sheriffs charged with second degree murder in connection with the killing of six textile strikers at Marion, N. C., on October 2, today were acquitted by a jury of mountaineers in Superior Court here.

The not guilty verdict was returned after the jury had deliberated for 22 hours over the fate of the deputies. Their trial, moved to this mountain hamlet from Marion on agreement of opposing counsel, lasted for 10 days. The case was delivered into the jury's hands at 11:20 a. m. yesterday.

The trial had been under way for more than a week. The defendants were: B. L. Robbins, Webb Fender, Robert Ward, William Twiggs, Charlie Tate, Jim Owens, Dave Jarrett and Taylor Green.

The defendants claimed self-defense. The state, however, contended they fired into a group of pickets in front of the Marion Manufacturing Company the morning of October 2, while the strikers were fleeing from tear gas bombs the officers had thrown in their midst.

Chicago Bomb Hits Near Crowded Car

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—One wrecked store and one scarred street car today bore testimony to Chicago's latest bomb The blast tore out the store front last night as a crowded street car was passing, showering its passengers with broken glass. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

700 SAFE AFTER FERRY CRASH

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Investigation was begun today into the ramming of the New York Central ferryboat West Point, with 700 passengers aboard, by a heavily laden car float in the middle of Hudson River here last night.

Nearby tugboats, attracted by the whistles of distress, quickly came alongside and all passengers were safely removed from the damaged ship without serious casualties.

PASSENGERS HURT

For a few minutes after the collision a panic among the passengers threatened to turn the accident into a disaster. As the calmer passengers reached for life preservers, the more nervous grabbed fire axes and smashed through window frames on the lower deck in order to make openings through which to jump to the decks of rescuing craft. A few

U. S. Sailors Clash With Chinese Troops

SHANGHAI, Dec. 21. — (AP.) — An American naval guard on the steamer Iping, of the American Yangtse Rapids Steamship Company, routed a body of unidentified Chinese troops with heavy machine gun fire yesterday after the ship had been subjected to rifle fire.

The Chinese fire on the steamer, which plies the Yangtse River, was so heavy that the guard departed from the usual practice of ignoring such attacks and retaliated vigorously.

Acord, Film Cowboy, Hunted on Rum Count

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—A bench warrant for the arrest of Art Acord, screen cowboy, was issued by the Municipal Court here after he failed to appear for trial on a charge of possessing liquor. His bond of $500 was ordered forfeited.

Miss Marian Morrell, who was taken into custody when Acord was arrested at her Hollywood apartment, was ordered to go on trial alone. She had been accused jointly with the film actor.

CANAL SCHEME OPPOSED HERE

Stunned by the strategy of Youngstown and Cleveland manufacturers in backing a canal project from the Ohio River to the Mahoning basin at Youngstown, Pittsburgh industrial leaders today were unprepared to combat a scheme which is declared to mean serious competition in the iron and steel business in this district.

A bill introduced in Congress by Senator David A. Reed for the authorization of a survey of the Beaver, Shenango and Mahoning rivers is backed by powerful interests in Ohio cities and is regarded by William H. Stevenson, chairman of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board of Pennsylvania, as a "dead-end" project that would leave half-completed the giant plan of a canal from the Ohio and the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence Valley.

SCANNED BY COAL MEN

The Pittsburgh Coal Exchange held a meeting immediately following the publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph of the measures undertaken by Youngstown capitalists. All sides of the question were weighed but no decision was reached.

"We are for a canal from Pittsburgh to the lakes," said

Michelson Retires From College Post

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(INS.) Prof. Albert A. Michelson, physicist of world renown, has resigned his faculty position at the head of the physics department of the University of Chicago, it was announced today.

Ill health was given as the reason for his resignation. Prof. Michelson celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday anniversary Thursday. The university board of trustees, in accepting the resignation, praised him as one of the world's foremost scientists. Prof. Michelson's recent experiments to determine the exact speed of light have brought him world-wide attention.

Bloodhounds Trail 3 Escaped Convicts

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Three convicts, by means of an improvised ladder, scaled the wall around Kilby prison and escaped under fire from guards last night.

CHRISTMAS RUSH ADDS TO CHAOS

Thousands Forced to Leave Trains; Yards Congested; Frigid Spell to Continue

Thousands of commuters, en route to employment downtown, were discharged at the East Liberty station of the Pennsylvania Railroad this morning. Officials explained westbound trains could not be run into the Pennsylvania station due to congestion in the yards.

DEMAND FARE REFUND

Facing a lashing gale and a temperature of from 10 to 13 degrees, the passengers dashed for street cars and buses to complete their belated journey.

SCHEDULES UPSET

At Pennsylvania Station, representatives of the railroad said schedules of trains from the West had been upset by the blizzard. In addition, all trains were being delayed by heavy shipments of Christmas parcels and increasing passenger traffic because of the approaching holiday season.

A score of passenger trains, east and west bound, have been increased to two, three and four sections, because of the increased

BLAZE ROUTS 10 IN EAST END

Fire in the basement of the drug store of H. C. Henderson, 7701 Frankstown avenue, early today, damaged the building $2,000, firemen estimated, and drove 10 persons living in apartments on the second and third floors to the street.

Those driven out by smoke were Mr. and Mrs. John E. Oertel, and their son, and Mrs. W. A. Pittinger two daughters and a son, living on the second floor, and Mrs. Florence Friedman and her two sons, and Mr. and Mrs. William Pittinger and their infant daughter, living on the third floor.

The fire did not reach the apartments, which were damaged by smoke.

Mexico Sends Fund To Victims of Mine

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The government of Mexico has come to the aid of destitute families of 61 miners, killed in a mine explosion at McAlester Tuesday, contributing $10,000 toward the relief fund which, through the aid of the radio, already had reached national proportions. The contribution from Mexico brings the fund to approximately $50,000. The message to the consul here stipulated that the funds were to be applied toward relief for families of Mexicans killed in the disaster.

Ship Aground Off British Columbia

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The coastwise steamship Cardena, of the Union Line, was reported aground last night off the mouth of the Ckeena River and was awaiting high tide in the hope of floating off.

The Cardena is operated on the coast run north from Vancouver and carries passengers and freight.

Wonder Doll Demand Exceeds Expectations

By THE DOLL LADY

Somehow or other when I first came here to give little girls my marvelous singing dolls I thought I would be through before Christmas. But now it looks as though I'll have to stay for several more weeks because the demand has been far beyond any of my wildest anticipations.

Doll Lady

In fact, it looks as though I have only started my work of making little girls of Pittsburgh and vicinity supremely happy.

To be sure, hundreds of little girls have already received their dolls for Christmas and I expect to give away many, many more before Christmas Eve.

OFFICE OPEN AT NIGHT

The rush is so great that I have decided to keep my Doll Headquarters at the Sun-Telegraph open tonight, Monday and Tuesday nights until 9 o'clock.

My headquarters in the Davis Theater lobby will be open every night, except Sunday, until 9 o'clock and so will the headquarters at 135 Sixth street (Roosevelt Hotel). I'm holding receptions at several more places today. You'll find the locations listed in another part of the Sun-Telegraph.

2 Ships Lashed by Gale; Passengers Endangered

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Radio Marine Corporation station here today received an SOS call from the Steamer Santa Anna, of the Grace Steamship Line of New York. The message said the Santa Anna was in trouble 100 miles southwest of the Isle of Pines, (below Cuba). The United Fruit steamer Toloa was standing by.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Messages today from the captain of the American steamer Venator, 626 tons, which plies between New Orleans and Puerto, Mexico, said the ship was aground five miles west of Puerto, Mexico.

The wireless messages said a gale was blowing and the passengers in the boats were trying to reach land.

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Fragments of messages exchanged in shipping circles regarding the steamer Venator, which was reported aground five miles west of Puerto, Mexico, indicated to radio operators at the United States coast guard base here today that the craft was in no immediate danger.

HOOVER TO IGNORE DEMAND FOR STAND ON SUGAR TARIFF

GARNER ASKS POSITION ON LOBBY

Democratic Leader Says Revelations During Quiz Make Statement Necessary

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—President Hoover will ignore the demand of Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, Democratic leader of the House, that he make a "direct, definite and positive" declaration on the sugar tariff testimony disclosed by the Senate Lobby Committee, it was indicated today.

The statement of Garner, issued through the Democratic National Committee, is expected to be followed by other efforts to induce Mr. Hoover to take cognizance of the testimony of H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba Company, involving Edwin P. Shattuck, his personal friend, and Walter H. Newton, a secretary.

HOOVER'S FRIEND

Lakin has told the lobby committee that Shattuck was employed to protect Cuban sugar interests in the tariff fight partly because he was a personal friend of the President. Shattuck has denied discussing sugar with the President.

"Mr. Shattuck's denial that he discussed sugar legislation with the President by no means disposes of the matter," said Garner, who is the House minority tariff chieftain. "There are definite statements in the letters of the sugar lobbyists that imply to the absolute contrary."

IMPEACHMENT HINT

Garner declared that if Alfred E. Smith had been elected President and had been named in such testimony as Lakin's, "impeachment proceedings would have been discussed in the House of Representatives before now."

DRYS THREATEN HOOVER LAW COMMISSION

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—President Hoover's law enforcement commission was threatened with financial extinction today, due to its failure to submit a report to Congress on the trend of its inquiry into prohibition enforcement.

Aroused by the commission's "star chamber" sessions and its failure to report developments, dry leaders on Capitol Hill were ready to abolish it by withholding all appropriations for the coming year. This would automatically eliminate the commission, since the federal statutes forbid anybody serving the government without pay

MAY FILE REPORT

The controversy may be settled during the Christmas recess of Congress by the commission changing its attitude and filing a report with its creator. Unless such a report is sent to Congress, it was quite evident dry leaders would terminate its activities.

Senator William J. Harris (Dem.), of Georgia, an ardent dry, led the movement against the commission. He publicly threatened to tie up its funds if the commission further delayed a report to Congress. In this stand Harris had the support of numerous drys and all the anti-prohibitionists—a clear majority of the Senate and House.

Such ardent prohibitionists as Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, and William E. Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, have approved Harris' position.

"I favor the President' commission making an immediate report to Congress," said Borah, "and I favor a statute directing all federal commissions in the future to make reports to Congress as well as to the President. I entirely support the position taken by Senator Harris."

GLASS INCENSED

Glass went further. He described the commission's policy of holding secret sessions and keeping its actions secret even from Congress as a distinct blow at the legislative body, which created the commission. He was highly incensed and agreed with Harris to tie up the commission's appropriations.

PARIS URGES LEAGUE FIX NAVY SIZE

Notes to U. S., Britain, Japan And Italy Advocate London Meet as Mere Preliminary

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—Reaffirming France's contention that the forthcoming five-power naval disarmament conference in London can be nothing more than a preliminary parley subject to further consideration by the League of Nations, the French foreign office today sent identical notes to the nations attending the parley setting forth in detail this country's views on disarmament.

The communication, dispatched simultaneously to Great Britain, the United States, Japan and Italy, declares emphatically that France is willing to consider the London parley only as a part of a general preliminary disarmament move, with any definite and final decisions left up to the League of Nations.

JAPAN ENVOYS SAIL

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—After pledging their best effort for the success of the London naval conference, the Japanese delegation today was en route to England aboard the liner Olympic

The delegation, headed by Reijiro Wakatsuki, former premier, and Admiral Takeshi Takarabe, minister of the navy, sailed last night after a busy day of sightseeing and as guests at a dinner given in their honor by Japanese residents of the city and at a luncheon given by S. Sawada Japanese consul general.

Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Company, speaking at the consul general's luncheon, pledged the interest of the American business man and banker in permanent world peace.

LEADERS WANT PEACE

He denied as an "outrageous slander" the idea that "men of affairs, manufacturers or bankers, are not averse to war because of the fancied or fleeting material profits sometimes flowing from war."

He declared it was the great business leaders who are the most eager for enduring peace.

EX-PRESIDENT OF FRANCE DIES

MONTELIMAR, France, Dec. 21. — (AP.) — France today mourned Emile Loubet, former president, who died at 9:35 p. m. last night at the age of 91.

He spent most of his latter days sitting at a stove in the village store here, smoking a pipe and discussing current events in a detached manner with peasants. His boyhood ambition was to become a farmer.

He died not because of any special disease, but because, as his physician said, "his light was just extinguished by old age." He was conscious to the last, through hours of agony preceding his demise.

In the seven years of his presidency, from 1899 to 1906, he coped with such fierce outcroppings of racial and religious feeling as the Dreyfus affair, expulsion of the religious congregations, the Grande Chartreuse scandal, murderous strikes and rupture with the Vatican.

passengers were painfully cut and many scratched by the jagged glass.

The West Point, brilliantly lighted, was only a few minutes out from shore when rammed by the car float. A large hole was slashed in her port side about amidships.

Twelve automobiles aboard the ferry were removed when she was towed into her slip.

The West Point was about 800 feet from the foot of Forty-second street, Manhattan, en route to Weehawken when the lighter struck her amidships, The lighter kept her prow in the hole it had made until the rescue craft came alongside, preventing the ferry from listing too heavily. When the lighter pulled away great volumes of water rushed in.

Among the passengers were several hundred immigrants, many of them women and children, who had been released from Ellis Island a short time before. Christmas shoppers and commuters had boarded the West Point with them.

William Rides in Rear of Plane —And How!

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 21. — (AP.)—Having been given an involuntary ride of 10 miles hanging to the tail of an airplane, William Coumbe, 17-year-old farm hand, is in good condition to tell of his thrills.

He was helping to hold down the tail when the engine was being warmed up, and he didn't let go when the plane soared. In fact he held on till the plane got to within five feet of the ground again. Then he rolled over and over so much he was sent to a hospital for a few bruises.

Alexander Dann, president of the Coal Exchange. "A canal connecting the Ohio and the Great Lakes is of international interest and utility. It would benefit not only Pittsburgh and the Ohio Valley, but Youngstown, the ports of the lakes, Canada and the Northwest.

"A deep water channel up the Beaver and Mahoning would serve as an all-water route for the shipment of coal from the upper Monongahela Valley to the Youngstown district, but there are greater potentialities for this coal market in a canal all the way, permitting Pittsburgh to enjoy the lowest lake cargo rates."

Donald O. Moore, traffic manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, pointed out that the canal to Youngstown would give that area an advantage of 33 cents a ton on ore which it now enjoys and that it would save the Ohio steel shippers $2.20 ton plus the handling charges in sending their products to the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico.

HOLDS ADVANTAGE

"Youngstown has the advantage in the rates on ore from the lakes," said Mr. Moore. "While Youngstown pays 82 cents a ton, line haul rate, the rate Pittsburgh pays is $1.15 a ton. The Pittsburgh all-water rate on steel is $4.50 a ton to Memphis and about $6 a ton to New Orleans. With the handling charges and a part rail haul Youngstown pays from $7.20 to $7.70 or more per ton to Memphis. The Youngstown rate to New Orleans for this class of freight is $8.70 and higher. The all-rail rate is $10.40 to Memphis and $13.40 to New Orleans from Pittsburgh. The Youngstown all-rail rate is practically the same."

A. B. Shepherd, of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, chairman of the rivers and harbors committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, left the city last night. He made no comment on the situation developed by the Reed resolution, but it was stated that a meeting of his committee would be called after the holidays.

Business interests of Youngstown and surrounding Ohio towns have organized a strong lobby which is prepared to represent their case in Washington.

EIGHT ROUTED BY FLAMES

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 21.—Eight persons, members of two families, were driven to the street at 1 a. m. today when fire destroyed a two-story building housing the James Joseph furnishing store on East Pittsburgh street. Smoke from the burning building drove Mrs. Olive P. Snyder and her son, Donald, and Mr. and Mrs. John Rodgers and their two sons and two daughters from apartments next door.

Firemen said they believed the blaze started in the basement. Loss was estimated at $25,000.

The second floor of the burned building, which was owned by Joseph, was fitted up as an apartment. The tenants moved out several days ago.

BERLIN, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Eight buildings in the business section of the town were destroyed by fire here early today while thermometers were registering 15 degrees below zero. No one was injured. Firemen estimated the loss at approximately $160,000. The buildings destroyed were of frame and brick construction. The Berlin Hotel was among the structures burned.

The fire was discovered at about 2:30 a. m. Firemen from Somerset and Meyersdale were summoned to aid the local department. The flames leveled several business buildings and shops and residences. They were controlled at 5 a. m.

Storm on Lake Prisons Man in Lighthouse

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—For 30 hours, Joseph Stodola, 40, assistant keeper of the Waukegan lighthouse, was imprisoned by the sweeping gale.

Waves smashed in the lower windows of the lighthouse and extinguished the heating plant; Stodola was forced to climb to the light room.

RAILROADS HERE DEMORALIZED

Christmas traffic over the week-end, officials asserted.

YARDS CONGESTED

The result was a jam in the yards, according to railroad officials, which was augmented by the cold weather retarding the shifting of engines and cars.

The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie reported trains generally three to four hours late, except commutation trains, generally reported only a few minutes late.

Joseph Taggart, assistant passenger agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, announced that virtually all trains were on time.

11 DEGREES RECORDED

The official low mark of the mercury last night was 11 degrees, registered at 10 p. m. The temperature then mounted to 13 and continued at that point until 8 a. m. Some suburban districts reported temperatures ranging from 5 to 12.

Clear and continued cold weather is forecast for the week-end. The frigidity likely will continue several days, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

Winter officially arrives at 2:53 a. m. tomorrow, according to Brotzman, when the sun reaches its farthest point south. Today and tomorrow are the shortest days of the year, the difference being one of seconds, he said.

NEW COLD WAVE

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(INS.) — Barely recovered from the paralyzing snowfall which lasted two days, Chicago and the Central West today were held in the grip of a severe cold wave which, it is predicted, will last through Christmas.

At dawn the temperature had coasted down near zero. Cold winds from the West made matters worse and increased the suffering and exposure which already has taken an estimated toll of 45 lives. The official forecaster predicted the lowest temperature today would be between 2 and 5 degrees above.

Additional snow may fall in the next few days, it was predicted, but there will be no major storm such as the Central States experienced during the past few days.

City streets and main highways have been dug out and normal traffic restored. In the rural districts, however, the huge drifts still hamper communication, tying up milk shipments to some degree.

J. V. THOMPSON HINTS BIG DEAL

In accordance with his agreement made three weeks ago when Mr. Thompson was paroled, Attorney J. K. Spurgeon today accompanied the former coal king into court and turned him over to Judge Dawson for further disposition of the case in which Thompson was held in contempt for failing to meet the obligations of more than $200,000 to the estate of the sons of the Princess of Thurn and Taxis and the estate of Emma Messmore. The Princess is the niece of Mr. Thompson, and it was on charges of embezzlement brought by her that he was arrested on a train in Altoona and brought to Uniontown, where he gave bail for a court hearing in March.

At the time of the granting of the parole to Mr. Thompson, Attorney Spurgeon was held responsible for his appearance.

Philadelphia Pastor Ousted in England

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, of Philadelphia, who had been temporarily filling the pulpit at St. Columba's Church in Hull, has left after members of his congregation had complained that some of his sermons had been of a political nature.

Canon E. Arthur Berry, vicar of Drypool, under whom Dr. Richmond had worked, said that he had suggested last Saturday that the latter not preach on Sunday. "I felt he was too excitable and emotional," the vicar said.

Church to Conduct Candle Light Service

The Rev. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, Amberson avenue, will speak tomorrow morning on "The Angel of the Lord Came Down." At 5 p. m., the pastor will speak on "Hearing the Christmas Story the First Time." This service will be broadcast by KDKA. At the 6 o'clock service the Church School will conduct a "Candle Light Service."

Thief in Doctor's Home Scared Away

Dr. Norman Miller, of 600 Worth street, reported to the Detective Bureau that his home was entered at 7 a. m., by a prowler who escaped when he heard members of the family moving about on the floor above. Nothing in the house was disturbed.

Weather Conditions.

High barometer covers practically the entire interior of the country, and, as a result, the weather is mostly clear and cold. There is a low pressure area centered over the lower St. Lawrence valley, causing cloudy weather with snow flurries over the lake region and the Northeast. While the weather is still cold everywhere, the temperatures are rising slowly over the Plains states and the Canadian Northwest.

graph. She was only one of many made happy yesterday upon receipt of these wonder dolls—dolls that really sing and speak. They are almost life size—almost as big as the little girls who get them—sometimes bigger.

Notwithstanding the holiday rush, you can come in and reserve your dolly if you have followed my instructions. When you come in to pick her out, I'll put her away with your own name on it so that you can have her when you have finished the simple things I have asked you to do.

PRESENT FOR EVERYONE

If you come in today and select your doll, I'll give you a handsome little present that you will always prize as coming from your true friend—the Doll Lady.

Remember that the Doll Lady's headquarters at the Sun-Telegraph are open until 9 o'clock tonight. Come in and look at all of my dollies and select the one you want for your very own.

Merry Christmas!

CRASH KILLING WARING PROBED

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 21.—State, railroad and county officials are today investigating the fatal crossing accident which last evening cost the life of Monroe C. Waring, 34, of Tyrone, prominent musician and member of the famous Waring's Pennsylvanians orchestra, and seriously injured his wife, Mrs. Lois Waring, 25, and Mrs. Edith Lamborn, watchman of the crossing. The Warings, in an automobile, were struck by a passenger train which was running late. Mrs. Waring is unconcious with a skull fracture.

Mrs. Lamborn, one of the few women employes as a crossing watchman, was cut by flying glass from the wrecked automobile. She waved a red lantern at the auto without avail.

KUNKLE, STATE SENATOR, DIES

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.) — State Senator John E. Kunkle, of Westmoreland County, died at Rochester, Minn., yesterday, relatives here were advised. He was 67 years old.

Senator Kunkle, who was serving his second term in the upper House after having been a representative for one term, went to Rochester six weeks ago for an operation. His condition had been critical since that time. The body will be brought here for funeral services to be arranged later.

Senator Kunkle was an attorney, and during his legislative career had fathered a number of measures pertinent to the legal profession. He was the sponsor of the bill which created "Pennsylvania Day."

A member of the First Reformed Church here, Senator Kunkle was prominent in the affairs of that denomination. He was an elder of the local church, former trustee of Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, and president and director of St. Paul's Orphanage at Butler.

He was a thirty-second degree Mason and was affiliated with various branches of that order.

A native of Hempfield Township, Westmoreland County, which is situated just north of Greensburg, the senator maintained a beautiful home there. In addition to his widow, he is survived by two sons and four daughters, John E., Jr., and Lucian C. Kunkle, Mrs. Sarah K. Sheets, of Chicago, and Mrs Paul George, Mrs. J. H. Fiscus and Miss Mary Kunkle, all of Greensburg.

Right to Spend Money On Young Wife Upheld

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—If a 76-year-old man marries a young woman and proceeds to spend his money on luxuries for her, he is not necessarily mentally incompetent, a jury ruled in the Probate Court of Judge John R. Pritchard. The verdict instigated a fist fight between the young wife and two of her husband's four children by an earlier marriage.

The jury had been asked to appoint a conservator for Patrick Foley, retired furniture dealer, on the ground that he was squandering his $100,000 estate on his youthful mate, Mrs. Leontin Gerard-Gilbert-Foley, 26.

Soon after the marriage, Foley's children started action to have the annulment of a former marriage of their stepmother set aside. They charged that Mrs. Foley lied when she testified, at the annulment proceedings, that she had not lived with her former husband as his wife.

It was at the hearing for setting aside the annulment that Judge Marcus Kavanagh upheld Mrs. Foley's right to falsify about her relations with Gilbert.

"A woman has the right to commit perjury in defense of her honor," Judge Kavanagh ruled in refusing to set aside the annulment.

On the return of the latest verdict, two of Foley's children, Mrs. Essie Larson and Mrs. John Squires, sprang at Mrs. Foley. Several blows were exchanged before they were parted.

Marshal Plays Santa, Cheers Jail Inmates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Practiced in disseminating good cheer down chimneys and similar narrow apertures, prison bars apparently are easy for Santa Claus, for he, or at least an emissary, has visited the district jail.

Genial "Gus" Ceremile, the deputy United States marshal whose daily duty it is to transfer prisoners from the jail to the District Supreme Court, assumed the Kris Kringlian role. Prisoners dolefully waiting to receive sentence by the court, found that "Gus" has rigged up and lighted a small tree in one of the cells.

The printed legend, "Merry Christmas," was hung from the bars of the barren room, and as each of the inmates filed past, their erstwhile conductor-to-court handed out two boxes of cigars to each man and a box of candy to each of the women.

Villians Have No Chance, Movie Survey Shows

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. — (AP.) — However he might make out in actual life, the villain can't seem to make crime pay in the movies.

The chances are about one out of ten that the starry-eyed heroine will lead him back to the paths of rectitude; about one in 20 that the husky hero will swat him with a pair of bare hands, and about one out of three that he will get his last peep at the assemblage through some very strong bars.

Dr. Clinton Wunder, of Rochester, N. Y., describing motion pictures as a deterrent of crime in a speech to the national league of pen women here, said that a study of 623 feature pictures in America last year showed.

"That 33.7 per cent contained no villain and no crime; in 17.5 per cent the villain was killed; in 33.8 per cent the villain was captured and left securely fast in the confines of a prison; in 10.4 per cent the villain reformed, repented his evil ways and tried to recompense society, in 4.9 per cent physical punishment was administered to the villain by the hero.

"Taking crook pictures separately, we find that of 38 produced the crook or villain was killed in 14 instances, was apprehended by the police in 19 instances, was reformed through the love of a good woman in 5 instances. In each case of reformation, the picture showed that restitution for the offense was made."

NEW TRIAL PLEA EXPECTED IN M'KEESPORT RUM CASE

9 CONVICTED MEN PLAN CONTEST

Former Police Officials Are Found Guilty on Charges Of Liquor Conspiracy

Although counsel for former Chief of Police John F. Brennan, of McKeesport; former Chief of Police Charles L. Bergstedt, of Versailles; Justice of the Peace Charles E. Reinhard, of Versailles Township, and the other six men convicted in the McKeesport rum conspiracy trial, before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, have made no official announcement, it was said this morning that new trials will be sought for the men.

The jury, after deliberating more than 23 hours, found them guilty of conspiring to sell, manufacture, possess and transport contraband liquor. The jury failed to reach an agreement as to eight other defendants and acquitted four others. Before the trial started December 9 one defendant pleaded guilty and four others entered pleas of no defense. The government dropped the charge against four others and two defendants named in the indictment were never apprehended.

FOUR MEN ACQUITTED

Those convicted with the two former police chiefs and "Squire" Reinhard, were Albert Rasp and Leo P. Vennebush, motorcycle policemen of McKeesport; and Harry Uskovitz, Ben Frank, Nathan Friedman and Martin Firestone, described in the trial as bootleggers.

Robert Prosser, former county detective; Robert Hurley, police patrol driver; Sam Crown and Louis Davidson were acquitted.

The jury could reach no agreement as to Police Lieut. James H. Gray, Desk Sergt. Fred Kreiling, Detective Martin Manning, Motorcycle Policeman Fred Lux, Jack Morton and Dudley Prosser; William Englert, milk inspector, and Sam Katz.

The two defendants never apprehended were Jack Tucker, said to be in the Ohio State Penitentiary, and Walter Rosier.

Those entering pleas were Adolph Markovitz, who pleaded guilty, and Mike Pausic, Meyer Markovitz, Julius Schreiber and Jacob Pearlstein, who pleaded no defense.

Those dropped from the case by the government were Charles Friedman and Harry Markoss, confessed bootleggers and ex-convicts, who were the principal witnesses for the prosecution; David Klein and Louis Klein. These four were convicted in the previous McKeesport liquor conspiracy trial in Federal Court in 1927 and given jail and penitentiary sentences.

LONG STUDY BY JURY

Immediately after the jury made its return and First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh, who prosecuted the case, was receiving congratulations because of the result of the case, defense attorneys and the men convicted were holding conferences regarding motions for a new trial. They have four days in which to make applications. Judge Gibson set January 10 as the date of sentences. In the meantime the convicted men are held under the bonds given at the time of their arrests.

William Marshall, special investigator for the prohibition department, who carried on the preliminary investigation that led to the grand jury probe, and the bringing of Charles Friedman from the Federal Prison Camp, Alderson, W. Va., to appear before the grand jury, was also recipient of congratulations from government officials and others for efficient work.

Before the verdict was returned at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the jurors came into court twice and reported they were unable to agree as to the innocence or guilt of some of the defendants. Each time they were sent back by Judge Gibson and before their verdict was finally accepted the foreman reported that the members of the jury were hopelessly divided as to the status of some of the defendants.

All the testimony in the case was built around that of Charles Friedman, who told of various ramifications of a bootleg ring in McKeesport, and testified he gave police officers and others money for protection of dry law violators. Natham Friedman, who was convicted, is a brother of the government's star witness.

The jury recommended mercy for Squire Reinhard, who is 69 years old.

Found Unconscious On Street, May Die

Police are investigating the circumstances in the case of James McClelland, 46, of Dixon avenue, East Pittsburgh, who was found unconscious early today at the foot of the Oak Hill Bridge. Braddock Hospital attaches say he is suffering from exposure and that his condition is serious.

"Mrs. Dane," alias Brenneman, alias Dane, alias Church, alias Reed, as she broke down in St. Joseph, Mich., when police were quizzing her about the man with whom she lived, Fred Burke, widely-hunted for many murders and many robberies.

KILLER BURKE SOUGHT HERE

The nation-wide search for Fred Burke, alias Dane, wanted for many bank robberies and murders in the Middle west, was centered in Pittsburgh last night when a man reported to detectives that he had conversed with a stranger answering Burke's description.

The man, who refused to reveal his identity to detectives, said the stranger, who resembled Burke, boarded a train at Lewistown, Pa., and conversed with him en route to Pittsburgh. The stranger told him he was bound for Cleveland and intended to take the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie train for that place last night, the detectives were told.

Detectives, after hearing the man's story, hurried to the station, but arrived too late. They immediately wired Cleveland police in the hope that the stranger might be quizzed.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Search for Fred Burke, alleged gang machine gunner and bank bandit, was continued here today with police refusing to relinquish the search despite a complete lack of new clues.

A total reward of $100,000 is spurring the search for Burke, who is said to be a machine gunner for the "Scarface" Al Capone interests.

Toy-Laden Truck Hit By Train, 7 Killed

CLARINDA, Iowa, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Seven persons, six of them members of one family, were killed near here early last night when the Tarkio branch passenger train of the Burlington Railway struck a truck at the intersection of Highway 71. The dead are: F. E. Glass, his wife and four children; an unidentified man.

The family was returning from a shopping trip to Clarinda and the truck was laden with toys and Christmas things.

YOUTH ACCUSED IN THEFT

Kenneth Kramer, 17, of 464 Ella street, Wilkinsburg, procured an A battery eliminator for the family radio and gave it to his mother as a Christmas gift several days ago, police charge.

Early today the youth was arrested by Chief Jack Dyer and Sergt. Daniel Rice, of the Edgewood police, at Braddock and Hutchinson avenues, Edgewood. Kramer, the arresting officers said, stole the eliminator from the home of M. F. Amberson, of 128 Dewey street, Edgewood, December 12.

He will be given a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace George R. Craig on a charge of larceny.

BISHOP FAVORS NEW AUTO LAW

In a letter to William H. Stevenson, acting chairman of the Better Traffic Committee, Bishop Hugh C. Boyle of the Pittsburgh diocese, yesterday indorsed the proposed codified traffic ordinance.

"A model municipal traffic ordinance such as is now in effect in many cities is desirable," the bishop wrote. "I am a tractable enough citizen to be very willing to try out any code of this kind upon which men agree who have devoted themselves to the study of its problems. I have the usual driver's attitude toward present ordinances, and am puzzled and bewildered by their variable tenor. I think most violations of traffic regulations are not wilful, but unconscious violations."

COUNCIL SEEKS MAYOR'S CUTS ON BUDGET

Winters Asked to Get Kline Reductions on Estimates; Employes Face Dismissal

Council has recessed budget meetings until Monday morning when consideration will be resumed of the city's estimated expenses for 1930 totaling $27,533,000, that require an increased tax levy of 26 mills on land and 13 mills on buildings.

An examination at yesterday's session of the estimated expenses for Mayview revealed that Mayor Kline had recommended a total reduction of about $45,000 from three items of department requests.

Other similar conflicts were observed and City Controller Daniel Winters was asked to report the total of differences between expenses submitted as department requests and reduced amounts recommended by the Mayor.

MAY REDUCE JOBS

Department heads were instructed to bring in adjusted payrolls showing what employes could be eliminated to bring the costs within the Mayor's recommended cuts.

Dr. James S. Hammers, superintended of Mayview, submitted a revised payroll estimate for operating the coal mine that cut the original $54,158 to $35,800.

The coal mine operation was criticized at Thursday's meeting because employes other than miners were charged to the cost of coal production.

Dr. Hammers' revised payroll eliminated $3,756 as wages for a carpenter for 313 days and cut the wages of a blacksmith from $2,817 for 313 days to $540 for 60 days.

The specific employes' pay for the remainder of the time will be charged to other activities of the institution.

WILL DRILL WELLS

Seeking a reduction in the estimated water bill of $31,000 for next year, Council provided $2,500 to drill test holes preliminary to sinking wells on Mayview property. Robert Garland labeled the water bill, "The biggest in the world." Water is now furnished to the institution by the South Pittsburgh Water Company.

Lieut. Col. Sidney A. Hagerling, associate of Eric Fisher Wood, architect for the Mayview expansion program, declared a contractor would charge $35,000 for completing six wells equipped with pumps that would provide 200 gallons of water a minute, which would be ample he said, for Mayview's needs.

The second set of triplets in the history of the Elizabeth Steele Magee Hospital, born to Mrs. Naomi Stubblefield, Negro, 29 Gilmore street, are thriving today at the hospital.

The three tiny babies are called "A" Stubblefield, "B" Stubblefield and "C" Stubblefield, and each one is a "Miss."

The babes weigh 4 pounds 6½ ounces, 3 pounds 15½ ounces, and 3 pounds 14½ ounces, respectively.

A little more than a month ago, Mrs. Harry Best, of Homestead Park, at the same hospital, became the mother of the first triplets ever born there.

OFFICE HEADS HOLD PARTY

An afternoon program of entertainment opened by a noonday luncheon featured the annual Christmas party of the Office Appliance Managers' Association of Pittsburgh in the William Penn Hotel yesterday.

L. S. Roberts, vice president, presided, due to the illness of President H. B. Cunningham. E. H. Jones was chairman of the entertainment committee and George L. Cooper was master of ceremonies. Other committee members included Al Hattenbach and Fred Barteau, while C. Verne Shoup was chairman of the program committee. H. J. Maloy lead the singing. A Santa Claus, portrayed by Joseph P. Arthurs, distributed gifts for the members. Vaudeville numbers featured the entertainment.

DOVER, Dec. 21.—George Hamilton, of Mineral City, is in the Union Hospital, as a result of cranking his automobile while it was in gear. The machine crushed his left ankle, and ran a half-block before it was halted. Witnesses supposed a hit-skip motorist struck Hamilton until he explained.

JAIL DELIVERY GANG SOUGHT

Police Chief J. B. Maguire, of Wilmerding, who was locked in a cell in his own police station by two armed men who held up the police station and aided a prisoner to escape, was somewhere in Ohio today seeking members of the jail delivery gang.

Chief Maguire left for Ohio after questioning three suspects arrested following the jail delivery Thursday night in which Steve Mocham, a robbery suspect, was freed.

Those in charge of the police station refused to discuss the case during Chief Maguire's absence or reveal to what part of Ohio he had gone.

WILKINS OVER GRAHAM LAND

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS

Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

ON BOARD THE WILLIAM Scoresby, near Adelaide Island (Antarctica), Dec. 21, (Via S. S. Melville and KUP, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station)—Head Hights of Graham Land once more spanned by flying machines. Twice last year with Eielson we crossed the high plateau and this time with Cheeseman piloting, flew the Lockheed Vega as a seaplane over the black-faced steep cliffs of the western shore and over the 9,000-foot plateau to Weddell Sea.

After weeks of setbacks and disappointments during which we were tied to the ground, today we flew for three hours at 10,000 feet and verified our dead reckoning on last year's flight.

Today clouds to 3,000 feet covered Weddell Sea, but its high western edge was distinguishable. We took off from the southern end of Neumeyer Channel and flew over Flander's Bay then south along the coast to Beascochea Bay, then over Graham's Land to Rochthafen Valley, returning northward over Graham's Land hights to a safety landing at Fort Lockroy.

Best of all was the sight of flat ice in Beascochea Bay which we expect to reach with the William Scoresby plane, now being lifted aboard. If weather holds good, we will proceed to the ice edge, hoping soon to take off for the long flight. More about this tomorrow.

IDLE BOY HELD FOR ROBBERY

Jack Naatz, 17, of 1420 Gerst way, North Side, who, police say, decided to turn to robbery when he lost his job last week, was held for court by Justice of the Peace Thomas B. McCallum, of West View, last night.

He was arrested for his alleged attempt to rob a woman on the Martslof Bridge, West View, with a cigaret holder that looks like an automatic pistol. His intended victim talked him out of the attempt. She told him she had been hurt in an accident the week before and needed the money for doctor bills. Naatz walked away and was arrested a short time later, police said.

Naatz hated to tell his mother of being jobless, because she needed funds, he said.

ICE HINDERS MAWSON'S STEAMER

Ship Breaks Way After Being Held Two Days in Packs; Whales and Seals Sighted

By SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON,

Commander of the British, Australian and New Zealand Antartic Research Expedition.

S. S. DISCOVERY, Dec. 17, — (Delayed) — For two days last week the good ship Discovery was caught in the Antarctic ice pack and we had our first taste of real trials in our South Polar expedition.

We were caught in the ice from Friday, December 13, until the fifteenth. On the fourteenth, following Black Friday, snow fell, and opportunity was taken to get the ship from the encumbering hold of the ice. But the attempt was abortive, and for 24 hours more we remained in the pack's embrace.

On the fifteenth the weather cleared by the afternoon, and we made a determined and successful effort to escape to the big lead (a lead in the ice where the continental shelf sinks into the Antarctic waters), two miles in the distance.

PASS HUGE ICEBERGS

We reached a latitude of 65.75 degrees south, where the pack was impenetrable. On the sixteenth we retreated north and west along the leads, with brilliant sunshine scintillating from varied surfaces of ice rafts and bergs, which offered our photographers unexcelled opportunities.

We passed bergs that were as great as 90 feet in height, some of them more than four miles long.

Today we hit bad weather again, with snow and fog limiting our visibility. We are groping west and north for openings in the pack, intending to work south again at the first opportunity.

Wireless communication is good tonight, as usual during snowy or otherwise wet weather, possibly due to the grounding effect of the ship's rigging.

On December 11, the Discovery continued south through a sea littered with a great deal of scattered pack ice. Among the rafts and heavy ice, many whales were evident, while seals and emperor penguins, basking upon the floes, started up in amazement as we passed them.

HAMPERED BY ICE

The morning of the twelfth found the ship working its way through lanes of slack ice among the fields of dense pack ice. By noon our course southward was no longer possible, and after a repulse at the west, we followed a lane of more slack ice to the east.

We had already discovered, to our great disappointment, that this is a particularly bad ice season hereabouts. We hoped it was possible to reach the Antarctic circle before encountering pack ice, but we actually traversed the pack 300 miles to the north.

A blizzard began this morning, and the big ice pack gripped the ship closely Even the water between rafts of ice is frozen.

This evening, when it could no longer be doubted that we were tightly held at the pleasure and mercy of the ice, only the most optimistic could remain cheerful.

'NIPPER' BYRNE TRACE LOST

No trace of the whereabouts of George T. (Nipper) Byrne, 50, of 3929 Sewickley road, had been found today by police who were asked to search for him by his wife.

Byrne, a politician, who has concessions at North and South Parks, disappeared November 22 and no word from him has been received since, Mrs. Byrne informed the Missing Persons Bureau. He was said to have had several thousand dollars when last seen. Byrne formerly was steward at the Elks Club.

Woman Views Body Once Identified as Her Own

MARKED TREE, Ark., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Juanita Beatrice Clutts was taken to view the body which her husband, relatives and friends identified last week as her own. She admitted there was some resemblance but declared "Horace (her husband) should have known better."

Mrs. Clutts came here from Blue Diamond, Ky., where she was living when newspapers notified her of her supposed "murder." She said that she, her husband and two children would spend the holidays together.

She laughed at police theories that she was a figure in Chicago gangland and that Bill Thomas, a Chicago bus driver, was connected with her "death."

"Horace and I knew Bill, and so did Helen Lee, my girl friend in Chicago," she said. "I do not believe Helen told police Bill was more than a friend of the family."

Mrs. Clutts was known in Chicago as Juanita La Rue.

The mutilated body found near here has not been identified, but J. Marion Lewis, a planter, is held in connection with the case.

Mrs. James Carter, of Big Twist, near Earle, was arrested by Sheriff A. H. Landers, of Poinsett County, and taken to Memphis. Police Inspector Will Griffin questioned her, but said she revealed nothing new. Landers said he would hold her as a material witness.

INCLUDING TODAY

PEACE ON EARTH TO DOMINATE SERMONS

Thousands of County Churchgoers to Attend Christmas Observances

"Christmas Sunday" will be observed tomorrow by thousands of churchgoers in Allegheny County. Special musical programs which will be in keeping with the spirit of the season will be presented in most of the churches.

The Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T Duncan, pastor of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, North Highland avenue and Euclid avenue, will speak tomorrow morning on "Glad Tidings—Great Joy." At this service a musical program will be the feature. The pastor will speak again at 7:30 o'clock on "A Little Child Shall Lead Them."

"The Mystery of Christmas" will be the morning theme of the Rev. Dr. William J. Reid, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, Fifth avenue and Thackeray street. At the evening service the choir will render "The Child Jesus."

"A SAVIOR BORN"

The Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan, pastor of the Third Presbytterian Church, Fifth and South Negley avenues, will speak tomorrow morning on "A Savior Born." At the evening service Dr. Charles Heinroth, director of music, will conduct a musical service.

At the South Side Presbyterian Church, South Twentieth and Sarah streets, the pastor, the Rev. R. L. Hutchinson, will speak at the morning service tomorrow on "Christmas Without Christ." The theme for the evening service will be "Shepherds and Wisemen." The choir will render a special program of music at these services.

Dean Percy G. Kammerer, of Trinity Cathedral, will speak tomorrow morning on "The Religion of the Spirit." At the evening service Cannon Gookin will speak on "Readiness."

"Gloria in Excelsis—The Angels' Song" will be the morning theme of the Rev. James Allen Kestle, pastor of the North End Methodist Episcopal Church, Bonvue street, North Side. At the evening service Mrs. A. S. McElroy will deliver a reading entitled "The Star in the Well."

The Rev. Dr. Harry H. Price, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant Church, Georgia avenue and Zara street, will speak tomorrow morning on "Christ Pre-Eminent." "Jesus Our Judge" will be the pastor's evening theme. At this service there will be special musical numbers.

CHRISTMAS RADIANCE

"The Christmas Radiance" will be the subject for discussion tomorrow morning by the Rev. Russell L. Murphy, pastor of the Homewood Presbyterian Church, Bennett street. At the evening service the pastor's theme will be "The Joy of the Lord."

Tomorrow morning in the First United Presbyterian Church of Allegheny, Union avenue, the Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, will speak on "God's Unspeakable Gift." At the evening service the theme will be "He That Should Come?"

In St. Andrew's Lutheran Church, Center and Morewood avenues, there will be special pre-Christmas services at 7:45 p. m. The pastor, the Rev. H. P. Eckhardt, will speak on "The Bethlehem I Saw in 1929." This lecture will be illustrated with pictures brought from the Bible Lands. At the morning service Mr. Eckhardt will speak on "The Voice in the Wilderness."

The Rev. Dr. Carl August Voss, pastor of the German Evangelical Protestant Church, Smithfield street, will speak at both services tomorrow morning. At the German service at 10 o'clock his subject will be "A Blessed Christmas Gift." At the 11 o'clock service, which will be in English, Dr. Voss will speak on "Christmas Tidings of Great Joy."

Salvation Army Opens Yule Services

"The Christmas Miracle" will be the subject of the evening talk of Adj. George Brooks at the Salvation Army Headquarters, 425 Second avenue. The 11 o'clock service will be in the form of a holiness meeting, and will usher in a series of meetings related to the Christmas season. "The Wise Men at Bethlehem" will be the subject of the Sunday School lesson at 1:30 o'clock. This will be followed by the praise meeting at 3:30, in which Christmas music will be featured. The meetings tomorrow are a prelude to the holiday week program at the Army Headquarters. At 6 o'clock the Young People's Legion will have for its topic "The Angel's Song."

Syrian Lecturer at Point Breeze Church

Princess Rahme Haidar, of Damascus, Syria, will deliver a Biblical recital entitled "Under Syrian Stars" tomorrow evening in the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church, Fifth and Penn avenues. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Percival H. Barker, will speak on "Christ's Christmas Gifts to the World." At 4 p. m., the Sunday School department will conduct a special Christmas carol service.

Will Give Fourth In Sermon Series

The Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Macartney, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will speak tomorrow morning on "The Day-spring From on High." At the evening service Dr. Macartney will deliver the fourth of a series of evening sermons on "How Does it Stand With the Bible?" His theme will be "The Bible and the Spade."

PASTORS TAKE CHRISTMAS AS THEME

Advantage Is Taken of Season to Emphasize Teachings of Christ

The Christmas theme will be prevalent in a great majority of the churches in the Pittsburgh district tomorrow. The pastors are taking advantage of the season to once again bring to the attention of the Pittsburgh church-going public the teachings and precepts of Christ.

"The Heart of Christmas" will be the morning theme of the Rev. M. Herbert Messner, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Brownsville road, Carrick.

The Rev. Dr. Henry McClellan, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Pearl street and Friendship avenue, will speak tomorrow morning on "The Song of Mary—Interpreted."

SERVICES AT WEST VIEW

"A Most Wonderful Child" will be the morning topic of the Rev. O. B. Emerson, pastor of the West View Methodist Episcopal Church.

Tomorrow morning in the Church of the Brethren, Greenfield avenue, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Galen B. Royer, will speak on "The Lion of the Tribe of Judah."

The Rev. Dr. Walter Lowrie Ritter, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Friendship avenue and Roup street, will speak tomorrow morning on "Immanuel—God With Us."

"The Wondrous Birth" will be the topic tomorrow morning by the Rev. George L. Glunt, pastor of the Oakland Presbyterian Church, Ward and Wilmot streets.

WILL PREACH ON EXCUSES

The Rev. J. K. E. Horst, pastor of St. Matthews Evangelical Lutheran Church, North Side, will speak at both services tomorrow morning. At the German service at 9:45 o'clock and at the English service, at 11 o'clock, his topic will be "Vain Excuses Against Confessing Christ."

The Rev. Ralph K. Merker, pastor of the Overbrook Presbyterian Church, will speak tomorrow morning on "Eager Heart." Special music will feature this service.

"The Christ" will be the morning theme of the Rev. J. Robert C. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant Church of Allegheny. At the evening service Mr. Clark's theme will be "Bethlehem." Special Christmas music will feature this service.

The Rev. J. E. B. McIlroy, pastor of the North Presbyterian Church, North Lincoln and Galveston avenues, will speak tomorrow on "The Message of Christmas." "Joy of Christmas" will be the pastor's evening theme.

EX-PASTOR TO SPEAK

The Rev. Raymond L. Archer, a former pastor of the Spencer-Methodist Episcopal Church, Mt. Oliver, will speak tomorrow morning at that church. The Rev. Mr. Archer has been a missionary in Java and Sumatra for the past 15 years. At the evening service the pastor of the church, the Rev. Paul Weyand, will speak on "The Advent." The men's chorus will have charge of the music for this service.

"The Christmas Spirit" will be the morning topic of the Rev. Dr. C. W. Tinsley, pastor of the Knoxville Methodist Episcopal Church.

Goldenson to Speak On 'New Religion'

Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, rabbi of the Rodef Shalom Congregation, will speak tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on "The New Religion." This will be based on Walter Lippman's book, "A Preface to Morals."

COME TO CHURCH

The Church Is the Meeting Place of God and His People

SERMONETTE

"God's Greatest Gift to Men"

By REV. DR. G. E. BRENNEMAN,
SMITHFIELD STREET METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

TEXT: "And the angel said unto them, 'Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.'"—LUKE 2:10.

The world was wrapped in expectancy. Many prophets had foretold the coming of the Redeemer. God's people were waiting, hoping. The holy city was startled by the appearance of three wise men as they came from the East inquiring where the promised king was born. They followed a bright and mysterious star.

A conquered and humiliated people were gathering to their cities to be taxed. A humble family, who had a noble inheritance, came to the little city of Bethlehem. It was said that an Archangel had appeared to the betrothed wife of Joseph and had made known to her the purpose of God, that she should be the mother of the Messiah, the Christ. And it was so that while they were at Bethlehem this promise was fulfilled. This poor but noble family lodged at a stable, for there was no room for them at the inn.

Wonderful things took place. A company of shepherds who were guarding their flocks that night saw a flaming messenger in the sky, who gave to them the message of our text, telling them that the Saviour was born and that he was lying in a manger at Bethlehem. Then they saw the stars melt away and the deep dome of the heavens became lighted with glory. Their dazzled eyes saw a vast multitude of angels and far up as the eyes could reach there came flashes of white and cleft of wing until lost in the glory of the beyond. And this was their song, "Glory to God in the highest heavens, on earth peace, good will toward men."

The silence of the ages was broken. God, through his messengers, was speaking to his people. A new age was begun. Time paused there and set a fixed milestone. We number the years before that day and the years after that night. The angels have vanished but the song remains. The humble family left the city but that babe grew and lived the life of lives. He is the Redeemer of men, the King of all kings, the Lord of all nobility.

I. Christ's people are a singing and rejoicing people. The souls of men, inspired by the song of the angels, have sung the songs of the ages. The Psalms of the Old Testament were caught up and enlivened and given a new meaning by this new king, this greatest of God's gifts to earth. The songs are not the songs of peasants nor the songs of the warrior nor the songs of the crude revelry. These songs are the songs inspired by a divine event. They are the anthems of freemen of God. They speak rejoicing. They speak and breathe a liberty known only by the sons of God. Evil flees from before them. And while we sing, angels unite in the praise and worship.

Compare the songs of the Christian nations with those where Christ is not yet known and note the change. There is the loftiness of the inspired music and the greatness of the composers. This is the gift of God.

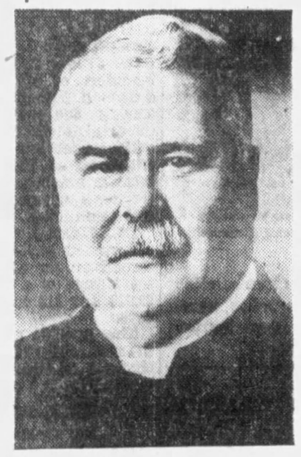
II. This life is a light to all people.

What manner of life shall I live? This has been the question of men in all time. The most brilliant intellects have sought the answer. The ablest philosophers have tried to fathom it. The simple life has lifted faith and held out a hand for a satisfying course in daily duty.

The life of Jesus is that answer. Where such life as His life? Where is teaching as to compare with the Sermon on the Mount? Does not the life that follows his simple precepts find peace and joy and an inner satisfaction that no words can fully tell? What a doorway is opened to everyone by the plain, practical path of the Beatitudes. To him who obeys there is a daily triumph and rest. All peoples bear that testimony.

His life, his teaching are a light to my feet and a lamp unto my pathway. His name shall be called Wonderful Counsellor. His counsel leads from difficulties to peace. At the council table of nations, those who follow Him have always led in the right way. He illuminates his followers. Peter, James, John, Paul, Asbury, Moody, have been messengers of peace and good will.

III. In Him is the gift of the Redeemed life. There is a ransom, once offered, for all the living. "Having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end." Others have loved but he loved to the giving of His life as a ransom. The Disciples did not understand. The power of dying love had to be revealed to us. No one, by nature, was fitted to live or die as Jesus died.



DR. W. E. BRENNEMAN

The Cross, the Roman gibbet, has been lifted up by Him till it has become the highest symbol of religion. It is enshrined in our life and placed on the highest spires.

This power of self-sacrificing love is all conquering. The hardest nature, the most depraved life yields before it. It is the appeal which God only can make. It is the joy of His redemption that no one is ever turned away. From what suppliant has He turned? What sincere seeker has ever gone from Him unblest, unhappy? Whom has He rejected? What life, however broken, stained, weakened, what castaway has He denied to heal and cleanse and to restore them to be sons of God?

IV. In Him there is Everlasting Life.

The last time He was seen by his disciples, His hands were extended in blessing. They thus saw Him as He was separated from them at Bethany, when He arose into that glory from which He came. The vision of the Eternal City is that the gates are open on every side and open always. Life is the desire of our soul. Life in its fullest and greatest. Life abundant and eternal. My father, my mother, my family, my friends, heaven to be our home forever. Heaven, the home of God, the dwelling of Jesus, of all the ransomed of earth; life eternal.

This is the meaning of Christmas, this is why the angels sang, this is God's greatest gift to men.

"The Gospel banner wide unfurled
Shall wave in triumph o'er the world;
And every creature, bond and free

YULE PROGRAMS TO FEATURE CHURCHES

Special Music, Cantatas, Pageants Are Arranged For Services Tomorrow

Christmas music and cantatas will furnish the highlights in many of the district churches tomorrow. In several occasions the productions have been written by the pastors or members of the congregations.

The Young Peoples' Class of the Brushton Methodist Episcopal Church, Hale and Kelly street, will present a pageant entitled "The White Christmas" at the evening service tomorrow. The Rev. A. Culmer Schultz, pastor, will preach at the morning service on the theme "Christ, The Answer."

The Rev. Dr. Thomas D. Edgar, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church, Hay street and Biddle avenue, Wilkinsburg, will have charge of both services tomorrow. At these services music will be the feature.

PAGEANT AT BELLEVUE

"The Wonderful" will be the morning topic tomorrow of the Rev. Fred F. Shields, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Bellevue. At the evening service a pageant entitled "The Inkeeper of Bethlehem" will be given by the Bible school.

The Rev. David E. Maxwell, pastor of the Mt. Zion Lutheran Church, Forty-fourth and Sherrod streets, will speak tomorrow morning on "A Christmas Message." At the evening service the Sunday school department will present a pageant.

A Christmas cantata, "The Eve of Grace," will be presented tomorrow evening by the double quartet of the Central Christian Church, North Dithridge street. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Joseph L. Fisher, will preach a Christmas sermon.

A pageant by the Sunday school department of the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church, Dormont, will be presented tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock. At the 11 o'clock service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner, will speak on "The Human Jesus."

CLASS TO PRESENT PLAY

The young people's class, of the Brushton Methodist Episcopal Church, Hale and Kelly streets, will present the pageant "The White Christmas" at the evening service tomorrow. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. A. Culmer Schultz, will speak on "Christ, The Answer."

"The Twelve Gifts," a Christmas pageant, will be presented tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in the Third United Presbyterian Church, Shady avenue and Northumberland street. At the morning service the Rev. Dr. William M. Woodfin, the pastor, will speak on "The Song of the Angels." The choir will render special music at this service.

One hundred persons will take part in the pageant tomorrow evening in the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, North avenue and Arch street. The pastor, the Rev. W. Sproule Boyd, will have charge of the service.

CHOIR GIVES CANTATA

A Christmas cantata by the choir of the Lorenz Avenue Evangelical Church, Lorenz avenue and Crucible street. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. E. A. Miles, will speak on "The Visit of the Dayspring."

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Brookline Methodist Episcopal Church the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gideon L. Powell, will conduct a Christmas pageant. In the morning the Rev. Dr. Powell will speak on "The New Thing."

"The Nativity," a pageant arranged by Rosamond Kimball, will be presented tomorrow at the vesper services of the East End Christian Church. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, will speak on "Singing Skies."

ARRANGE VESPER SERVICE

A Christmas vesper service will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church of Crafton. The cantata "The Christ Child," by C. B. Hawley, will be presented. At the morning service at 11 o'clock the pastor, the Rev. Dr. H. Dempster, will preach on "World Peace Through the Prince of Peace."

"Light and Glory," a Christmas pageant, will be presented tomorrow evening in the Wilkinsburg Christian Church, Wallace avenue. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. D. Park Chapman, will speak on "God's Unspeakable Gift."

Maunder's oratorio, "Bethlehem," will be presented tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Hebron United Presbyterian Church, Frankstown road, Wilkinsburg.

"The Wandering Angel," a Christmas story written by the Rev. Dr. John Benjamin Magee, will be presented by Dr. Magee tomorrow evening in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church. At the morning service the pastor will speak on "Good Tidings of Great Joy."

Police Ignorant Of New Traffic Court Home

A certain traffic policeman on the city force does not yet know the location of Traffic Court, which moved its headquarters several weeks ago. Complaints have been received that a certain officer has been directing motorists to appear at Broad and St. Clair streets, East End, which he believes is the location of the new combined police and fire house. However, the new building is at Broad street and Euclid avenue.

McFadden to Speak At Covenant Mission

The Rev. Dr. E. Marshall McFadden, pastor of the New Covenant Mission, Pride street, will have charge of the Sunday School service, which will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. At the 7:45 o'clock service Miss Elizabeth Zabriskie will deliver an illustrated Bible lecture.

YULE SECRET, SERMON TOPIC

The Rev. J. E. Morrison, pastor of the Schenley Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, will speak tomorrow morning on "Would Jesus Find Room in Pittsburgh Today?" At the evening service the choir will present the cantata "The Story of Bethlehem." The Sunday school entertainment will be held Monday evening and the pageant "The Spirit of Christmas."

"The Secret of Christmas" will be discussed at the morning service tomorrow in the Oakland Methodist Episcopal Church, Forbes and Boquet streets. In the evening at 8 o'clock the Sunday school will present the Christmas pageant "The Holy Grail."

The Rev. Dr. G. E. Brenneman, pastor of the Smithfield Methodist Episcopal Church, will speak tomorrow morning on "The Great Gift." At the evening service at 8 o'clock the cantata "The Story of Bethlehem" will be presented by the church choir, assisted by the vesper choir.

Tomorrow morning in the 11 o'clock service in the Harris South Hills Theater, the Rev. Edward Bleakney, pastor of the Mount Lebanon Baptist Church, will speak on "If Christ Had Not Come." At the evening service at 7:45 o'clock the choir will present special music.

N. S. CHURCHES OBSERVE FETE

Several pastors of the churches in the North Side group will tomorrow join in the observance of the Christmas season. The Rev. Charles W. Fulton, pastor of the Eleventh United Presbyterian Church, California and Davis avenues, will speak tomorrow morning on "The One Saving Name." At the 7:45 p. m. service the Sabbath school will conduct its Christmas services.

The evening service at Trinity Methodist Protestant Church, Bidwell street, will be conducted by the Sabbath school. A Christmas pageant interspersed with Christmas carols will feature the program. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Clarence L. Daugherty, will speak on "God's Christmas Gift." The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Nellie Risher Roberts, will render special music.

The Rev. Samuel M. Laing, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church, Stockton avenue and Sandusky street, will speak tomorrow morning on "The Greatest Event in History." A cantata, "Messiah's Advent," will be presented by the church quartet.

Goodwill Bodies To Hold Services

The Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries, 2801 Liberty avenue, will conduct Christmas services tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. A pageant will be presented, under the direction of Miss Laura Turner.

Unity Center Holds Service in Hotel

"The Last Time" will be the morning theme of E. B. Anthony, of the Unity Center of Pittsburgh, which meets in the William Penn Hotel. At the evening service Mr. Anthony's theme will be "Christmas, Its Hidden Meaning."

Children to Present Play at Bellefield

A Christmas play entitled "A Mystery of Christmas" will be presented Sunday evening at 5 o'clock by the children of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church.

Special Services at Tabernacle Church

The Rev. Isaac K. Teal, pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, Baum boulevard and Euclid avenue, will have charge of both services tomorrow. At these services special musical programs will be presented.

Latter Day Saints Announce Program

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will hold its regular services tomorrow at 4928 Wallingford street. Sunday School will commence at 10:30 o'clock and preaching service at noon.

For 20 years Bill Marshall has been putting people out of the country. He is the immigration inspector for the Pittsburgh district. His job is to find persons who enter the country illegally and send them back home.

Bill finds that the Chinese are the most difficult to deport. They have ready answers, truthful or not, for the inspector's questions. They know, it seems, all the answers. Their route of illegal entry is the West Coast; other nationalities choose Canada's border.

Once upon a time there was a Negro facing deportation who insisted that he had been born in Africa.

"What part of Africa?" Marshall quizzed.

"Vincennes, Ind., chief," the Negro answered.

More recently a West Virginian asked Marshall's office to send him back to the Old Country. Marshall told him he had every right to stay here. But the West Virginian insisted that he was a bad citizen, that he had been shooting at trains.

"I wrote President Hoover about it," he said, "but the President was too busy to send me money."

FILM SNOWFALL SOUNDS LIKE HAMMERING TO SOUND MACHINE MAN

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.

"How was it?" Director Lloyd Bacon called to the mixer in the monitor room.

Billie Dove

"That wasn't hammering," Billie joined in. "That was the snow falling!"

Just a moment—I have a story to tell. It is about Lydia Yeamans Titus. Mrs. Titus has been an actress onto half a century. She is a well-known character trouper in pictures. She has worked with nearly every star in the game.

Mrs. Titus is alone in the world. She is 80 years old or very near the 80 mark.

Several weeks ago, she collapsed upon the street. When revived, it was found she had suffered a paralytic stroke. She was removed to the Sylvan Lodge Hospital. In her more affluent days, Mrs. Titus had contributed to a certain fund whose purpose for being was to look after its own when misfortune harrassed them. It was the Motion Picture Relief Fund. However, that rallied to Mrs. Titus' aid when she needed a helping hand. It was her friends, too. Many of them. Such as Margaret Livingston, Mrs. Fred Niblo, Reginald Denny.

Buster Collier May Sing Songs

UNDER attentive medical treatment, Mrs. Titus rallied. She can now speak a few words. She has been removed to the Windsor Hospital in Glendale, Cal., and will probably be there or in the sanitarium indefinitely. It is sad to see a trouper of her caliber succumb to illness. It is cheering, in this era of self glorification, to know a few regulars are seeing her through. Christmas is coming. Mrs. Titus would be mighty happy to get a note or a telegram from her friends.

Buster Collier

William (Buster) Collier, Jr., threatens to blossom forth as a singer. Perhaps as the head warbler in "Good News." It was Edgar McGregor, W. K. New York stage director now with M. G. M., who discovered Buster had a voice. Buster lisps a little. McGregor can't explain exactly why it is, but he has yet to meet a lisper who can't sing. So Buster was grilled in a song. McGregor made a test of him. Buster hit celluloid with top notes sturdy. He's studying voice now. Don't be surprised to hear him debut in "Good News."

Mr. McGregor Directs Film

THIS chap McGregor is something new in Hollywood. He stage directed for Charles Frohman in the days of Maude Adams. His father was a famous Shakespearean actor. He, himself, once stage directed Robert Mantell. When musical comedy became the popular demon of Broadway, McGregor switched from the drama to it. He staged a number of Earl Carroll's "Vanities." He put on "Good News" in New York. He will do likewise by the vocalloid version. Gus Shy, the comedian in the original company, will come West to comik in the talky. No one told me, but I've got a paragraphical hunch that Bessie Love will bring the Zelma O'Neill role to the screen. If wrong, consider the apology already written.

Richard Barthelmess

SCREENALITIES: Richard Barthelmess writes from far-away Switzerland that he is learning to skii. This department trusts he means on his feet. . . . Cliff (Ukulele Ike) Edwards once worked at the counter of Thompson's one-arm lunchroom on Broadway. . . . Mrs. Michael Curtiz (Bess Meredyth) lunching at ye Embassy with Mrs. Jack Warner, Mrs. Carryl Zanuck, Margaret Ettinger, and Louella O. Parsons. . . . Evelyn Brent, Estelle Brody (W. K. comedienne recently come to Hollywood after stellar stage successes in London) and Mrs. Joseph Schildkraut also at ye Embassy. . . . A local producer has a new formula for a screen story. He won't react unless his writers give him a yarn that has "a dimple with a tear in it!" Live and learn, say we, combing out a grey beard. . . . And—that's all.

Enemies in World War to Serve Same Church

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The Christmas message "Peace on earth, good will toward men," will be emphasized with added significance here Sunday when Prof. Oscar J. P. Wetklo, former captain in the Imperial German army, is ordained to the priesthood of the Protestant Episcopal Church St. James, here.

The rector of the church, the Rev. Otis E. Gray, was a captain in the United States Army during the World War when the relationship between the two nations was in marked contrast to that which will be exemplified by the ordination ceremony in which the two men will play leading roles.

PRODUCE FIRM FIGHTS P. R. R.

McGrégor & Sorce, Inc., produce dealers, filed a bill in equity in Common Pleas court against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and W. K. Clowes, agent at the produce terminal, Twenty-first and Pike streets, asking an injunction against interference with deliveries of produce. The produce dealers alleged that the railroad requires that all deliveries of produce from platform to trucks of purchasers must be handled by the Terminal Delivery Company, whose employes are not capable of doing the work properly and whose charges are exorbitant.

McGregor and Sorce alleged that the railroad makes an unjust discrimination in permitting the Union Fruit Company to move its produce by its own employes and that the railroad has interfered with and refused to permit employes of McGregor and Sorce to transfer shipments from the platform to trucks.

SPECIAL MUSIC IN CHURCHES

Many of the Pittsburgh churches will devote their evening services tomorrow to the production of pageants and special musical presentations. There have been few times in the history of Pittsburgh churches when so many programs of this type have been offered.

"The Throne of David," a Christmas pageant, will be presented tomorrow evening in the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. John M. Versteeg, will speak on "The Glory of the Only Son."

CHOIR PRESENTS PLAY

The choir of the Fourth United Presbyterian Church, Friendship and Pacific avenues, will tomorrow evening present "The Christ Child," by Hawley. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Richard Boyd Johnson, will speak at the morning service on "The Star of God's Window."

Tomorrow evening in the First Presbyterian Church of Ingram the pageant "The Watching Stars" will be presented. "The Greatest Event of All Time" will be the morning theme of he pastor, the Rev. Charles C. Cribbs.

Special Christmas music will feature both services tomorrow in the South Side Presbyterian Church, Twentieth and Sarah streets. The pastor, the Rev. Robert L. Hutchinson, will speak at both services.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, pastor of the Edgewood Presbyterian Church, will have charge of both services in the church tomorrow. At the evening service the drama "The Other Wise Man" will be presented. Dr. Lloyd will speak at the morning service on "The Reincarnation of Christ."

A special program of music will feature the morning service tomorrow in Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, Center avenue and Baum boulevard. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, will speak on "The Art of Hospitality."

QUARTET PRESENTS PROGRAM

Maunder's cantata, "Bethlehem," will be sung tomorrow evening by the quartet of the Dormont Presbyterian Church, under direction of Josiah P. Smith. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. U. Franklin Smiley, preaches on "Christmas Everywhere" at the morning service.

The quartet of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Forbes street and Murray avenue, will present a special musical program at both services tomorrow. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. McKenzie, will speak at these services.

STANLEY GETS BOOPAS AND CHAPERON

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The movies finally have got around to the knowledge that all show producers aren't villains. In "Pointed Heels," the talkie which opened in the Stanley yesterday, we find a good one. In traditional screen style, he is in love with the heroine, a little girl in his show. But does he try any underhand stuff in an effort to win her? He does not. In fact, he is so much gentleman that he sends for a chaperon when said heroine inhales too much gigglewater and falls asleep in his apartment.

William Powell, erstwhile film villain, handles this reformed version of the show producer. And it can be said that he isn't a bit embarrassed at being good. He carries the part with a distinctive style and with a noble gesture sends someone else's arms to enfold the heroine at the fadeout.

BOOP AND BOOPAS

Fay Wray appears as the heroine—a girl who marries a young composer and then, while he dreams "symphonies," goes out and earns the bread and coffee. They drift apart and it looks as if Producer Powell will win her after all.

The picture serves as light entertainment and has some bright moments. These include wisecracks by Skeets Gallagher, boop-boopa-doops by Helen Kane and acting skill by Mr. Powell.

DRAMATIC MEOWS

"Season's Greeting" is the stage show. The young and pleasant Dick Powell vocalizes himself into applause. Featured entertainers include the Darling Twins, who sing and dance; Ed Cleve, who makes fun and xylophone music, and a dozen or so cats, two of which do a Dempsey-Tunney act. An added attraction is M. Barth's "Kiddie Xmas Follies," featuring local youngsters.

The David Broudy flourishes result in an overture, "Christmas Fantasy," which is entertaining, and Bernie Armstrong "organlogues" his idea of "A Song Plugger's Holiday."

PITTSBURGHERS END VOYAGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Coley, of 308 Barnes street, and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Langley, of 733 Midland street, Pittsburgh, returned in the Cunard liner Franconia last evening from a 16-day tour of the West Indies. The trip covered 4,555 miles with stops at Port-au-Prince, Kingston, Colon, Havana and Nassau. The longest stop, of two days and two nights, was made at Havana.

Parting of Ways Home Heads Dine

Directors of the Parting of the Ways Home and their wives attended the annual directors' dinner at the home, 216 East Stockton avenue, yesterday. The guests also inspected recent improvements at the home and afterward commended Rollo H. McBride, superintendent, for his work at the home during the last 16 years.

Court Tipstaff Vacancy Filled

Frederick Roderus, 4715 Monongahela avenue, was named as tipstaff in Criminal Court at a meeting of the judges of Common Pleas Court. He will fill the vacancy caused by the death recently of James Haggerty after many years of duty.

East End Woman Seeking Divorce

Twenty-five years after her marriage, Mrs. Blanche C. Carolan, of 4733 Center avenue, filed a suit in divorce from Christopher J. Carolan, of 317 South Pacific avenue, in Common Pleas Court, alleging indignities. They were married February 11, 1904.

Jungles

TRY TO HOLD UP LONDON HOTEL

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Three men, smartly dresses, who attempted to raid the cash box of the fashionable Savoy Hotel in the Strand late last night were captured by police despite a desperate struggle. A fourth escaped.

The men entered the hotel when it was thronged as usual with dinner and dance guests. They asked the cashier to change Canadian notes into English money. The cashier shouted for help when they reached for the cash box and hotel attendants promptly sounded police whistles and chased the fleeing raiders.

The chase drew an immense crowd and stopped traffic on the Strand.

FEDERAL COURT ENDS TERM

During the four weeks' session of criminal prosecutions in Federal Court, which ended today, the court imposed jail and penitentiary sentences which totaled 44 years and two months. The fines aggregated $57,652, and the total length of probations was 88 years.

A resume of the activities of the court and office of United States Attorney Louis E. Graham, prepared under the direction of the latter's secretary, Mrs. Mary T. Tuttle, recorded 300 pleas of guilty or no defense; 50 jury trials in which there were 40 convictions; seven acquittals, one disagreement, and two directed verdicts.

Sixteen cases were nol prossed and 42 bonds forfeited, the latter representing $54,000.

STAGE REVUE HAS MANY SCENES

Earl Carroll's "Vanities" will open in the Nixon Monday as the Christmas week feature. W. C. Fields is the star of the production. One of the featured performers is Dorothy Britton. There are 45 scenes in the show and the cast numbers 100 persons.

An accident is responsible for one of the effects in "The Kingdom of God," which Ethel Barrymore presents in the Alvin next week. When the drama was being acted in Detroit, a distant clock, striking the hour of 10, could be heard in the theater. As this happened at a particularly poignant moment of the play, the effect was uncanny. Miss Barrymore missed the sound of the bells while playing in the next city, so she had her stage manager procure a set of chimes to ring during each performance.

There will be a special Christmas Day matinee of "The Barker" by the George Sharp Players in the Pitt next week. It will be a typical holiday bill, with the stage representing a carnival on the road. The lives of carnival players are dealt with in the play.

NEW PICTURES TODAY

"The Battle of Paris," a comedy of Gay Paree in war time, opens as the talking film in the Enright today. "Jingle Bells," with Jay Mills, is the stage show.

"The Vagabond Lover," an R. K. O. picture featuring Rudy Vallee, radio crooner, begins an engagement today in the Sheridan Square.

Betty Compson's song and talk film, "Street Girl," is the Christmas week feature in the Harris, opening its engagement in that theater today.

SERIAL STAR BACK

Grace Cunard, famous serial star, has returned to pictures. Miss Cunard, heroine of thousands of hair-raising screen adventures, plays a character role in "Untamed," the new Joan Crawford talking picture of "young moderns," which comes to the Penn Monday.

Ann Harding, Broadway actress who plays opposite Ronald Colman in "Condemned," which comes to the Aldine Monday, was associated with pictures before she even dreamed of becoming a star either on stage or screen. Her first job was that of script-reader for Famous Players Lasky in New York.

Hilltop Veterans Granted Charter

A charter was granted to the Diller Post, Veterans' Association of Pittsburgh, in an order by Judge George V. Moore in Common Pleas Court, on petition of 11 subscribers, residing on Mt. Washington and in the South Hills.

BID ON SCHOOL COAL BARRED

The School Board of Homestead was enjoined from awarding a contract for the 1929-1930 supply of coal for the schools to the Homestead Ice Company, highest of four bidders, in an opinion handed down in Common Pleas Court by Judge James B. Drew. Paul Jones, of the firm of Jones Brothers Coal Company, lowest bidder, filed a bill in equity against the School Board, seeking an injunction.

Bids opened in August were: Jones Brothers Coal Company, $3.35 a ton; John F. Scott Company, $3.45 a ton; W. S. B. Hays, $3.60 a ton; Homestead Ice Company, $3.70 a ton. Judge Drew held that the contract should be awarded, under the law, to the lowest responsible bidder.

He decided that, while the board properly rejected the Jones Company bid because its supply in previous years was of an inferior quality, with unsatisfactory service and a high total cost, that a proper investigation had not been made of the second and third highest bidders to determine their ability to fulfill the terms of the contract.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: What do you want old St. Nick to leave you in the proverbial Christmas stocking?

REVA GLASS, Downtown: "Santa Claus can hang a roadster in my Christmas stocking and if the car's too big to get inside, well he can just tell me where it is and I'll go and get it. Still, if Santa treats me as well this year as he has in the past, I'll be satisfied. Christmas is a time of rejoicing and good will and that's why I like the day so much."

Reva Glass

DICK POWELL, entertainer, Downtown: "My Christmas present? Well, I don't know exactly what to say. Perhaps the greatest present I could wish for is that those I try to entertain are pleased. I just want to be assured of the fact that the folks will like me. That is what I want as St. Nick's gift in my Christmas sock."

Dick Powell

GRETCHEN YOUNG, South Hills: "Santa Claus? Why, yes, I've heard of him and they tell me he's a pretty good old fellow. Does he exist? I think he does. He did for me in years gone past and I think he will this time. I hope he brings me a nice new evening gown and all that goes with it. I hope I'm not going to be disappointed. Of course, if he is overly generous I wouldn't turn down any other gifts he might leave me."

Gretchen Young

ANN MERBOSH, tap dancer, Carrick: "If dear old Santa wants to, he can just drive up to the old homestead and drop down the chimney a brand new outfit and all that goes with it for me. If he doesn't I know I'll be terribly disappointed. But, still he's a good old scout so I don't see how he could do otherwise."

Ann Merbosh

MADELINE KILLEEN, Downtown: "I hope Santa Claus, if there is such an old dear, brings me a nice big new automobile. An automobile is a most acceptable gift, but I doubt if you could put that into the proverbial Christmas morn stocking. However, I'd be content if St. Nick just drove it up to the front door and left it there. He wouldn't have to even try to put the bus in the sock."

Madeline Killeen

MATTY KING, Roosevelt Hotel, Downtown: "I guess I'm like a lot of other people at Christmas. I don't know what I want. However, any gifts my friends feel like giving me are wholly acceptable. None will go amiss and all will be accepted in the spirit in which they are given. Other than this form of Yuletide cheer I don't know what I want."

Matty King

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 21.—I always felt there was only one thing that could possibly defeat Mr. Hoover's capable management of our affairs and that was when he run out of practical men to put on commissions, and, sure enough, he is getting short-handed. Yesterday's commission didn't have a practical man on it, every one was a college professor. It is to find out "what has brought the social changes in our lives here lately."

Knowing college professors, he gave them three years to agree on an answer. I could have told him before sundown what's changed our lives, buying on credit, waiting for relief, Ford cars, too many Republicans, Notre Dame coaching methods, and two thirds of America, both old and young, thinking they possessed "it."

Yours,
WILL.

Eddie Cantor Rises to Say:

With a little snooping and the connivance of Santa Claus, I have discovered what certain prominent Americans would like for Christmas. Here is the list:

President Hoover—Old fashioned Republican prosperity.

Harry Richman—Ditto.

Alfred E. Smith—Another crack at it.

Rudy Vallee—Max Steuer.

Senator Heflin—A new party.

Calvin Coolidge—A new automobile.

Al Jolson—Another "Singing Fool."

Florence Ziegfeld—American beauties.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY
'Public Improvements Promote Progress'
Convinced that public improvements exert an important influence upon the progress of any community, the Board of County Commissioners of Allegheny County on January 1, 1924, initiated a program of major public works, many of which are already effectively serving the citizens, while others of vital importance are being rapidly brought to completion.
MUNICIPAL AIRPORT—Will be located seven miles via air southwest of the Allegheny County Courthouse in Mifflin Township. The site is made up of hills and ravines typical of the topography throughout this county. The completed Airport, which will include an area of approximately 1,100 acres, will be reached in successive stages as the money is available and conditions warrant. The first preliminary stage will involve the moving of approximately 3,000,000 cubic yards of excavation, which will establish a level landing area of approximately 400 acres, which is expected to be completed by next March. It is expected that flying activities will be in operation in the spring of 1930.

INGOT OUTPUT DROPS TO 60%

Production Curtailed for January Inventory; Auto Demand Quickens

By B. E. V. LUTY.

Operations in the steel industry slipped just a trifle farther in the past week, production of steel ingots being at scarcely 60 per cent of capacity. The immediate Pittsburgh district has been doing somewhat better than that, but in the general area, including Western Pennsylvania and the Youngstown and Wheeling districts, the rate has been hardly as much as 60 per cent. A special effort has been made to "up" as some department will be closed entirely next week on account of the break made by the holiday.

Steel production has slowed down a great deal more in the last two months than actual consumption. The usual disposition to curtail stocks of steel for January 1 inventory is being accentuated by occurrences in the stock market. By the same token there is created occasion for a rebound after the turn of the year.

DECEMBER FIGURES

For the month of December the official report will probably show a steel ingot production not over 60 per cent of capacity, against 69 per cent reported for November, 85 per cent for October, and 100 per cent for last May. In the last seven years there has been an average increase of 25 per cent from December to the spring peak, which has most frequently come in March. When December was particularly low the percentage rise was greater than the average. Belief is almost universal that a substantial rise will occur this time. A few weeks ago there were doubts, simply because at that time it was not supposed production would run so light in December, a slow and extended decline being considered more probable.

Obviously predictions for next year are hazardous, but it may be interesting to set down some standards for comparison. It should be well recognized by this time that a special increase in steel demand began at just about the middle of last year, representing a bulge which could hardly be permanent, and it is now a matter of history that the bulge began waning about the middle of this year. Making up a trend line for a period of years, which eliminates the bulge but takes cognizance of average annual growth, it would be normal and average for next year to show a total steel ingot production of about 48,000,000 tons. In the last seven years the spring peak rate has averaged 16 per cent above the rate for the entire calendar year, which would make a peak rate a few months hence of about 55,500,000 tons, or about 88 per cent of capacity, estimating the increase since the last official finding. Production in the calendar year now ending will be close to 55,000,000 tons, while last year's total was 50,325,393 tons.

FABRICATED ORDERS

Fabricated structural steel awards have undergone a very favorable turn, lettings reported in the last two weeks being above the average during the first 10 months of the year, whereas November lettings had been 31 per cent under that average. Thus the year is likely to make a good finish and its record to date is very favorable, as lettings in 11 months secured a lead of 16 per cent over last year. Of particular importance is the fact that bookings of the structural fabricating shops in the last 11 months exceeded shipments by 215,600 tons, or 6½ per cent, whereby the shops have a larger order book than a year ago. In 11 months the bookings were 3,534,300 tons and shipments 3,318,700 tons, according to the report just issued by the Department of Commerce. November showed bookings of 227,150 tons and shipments of 284,900 tons.

The Reading Railroad has ordered 2,000 freight cars, making 8,300 cars reported thus far this month as bought by roads in the United States, against 6,300 in November and 20,000 in October. Class I railroads report having 33,642 freight cars on order November 1, the largest number reported for that date in any year since 1924. The increase over October 1 is much less than would be expected from the orders reported in the trade during the month, and the inference is that some of the orders had not been made strictly official by November 1.

Central of New Jersey has ordered 16,625 tons of rails, making over 1,400,000 tons reported in this movement, outside of some tonnage not reported in detail with name of buyer. Rail mills have more business on books than usual at this date in the year and are producing at an unusual rate.

The automobile industry is taking more steel than formerly, but the amount is far from impressive. Steel makers doubt whether there will be anything like heavy production of automobiles this side of April 1.

PRICES HOLD WELL

The finished steel price structure is holding very well, there being no open market declines. While it is said that prices have not yet had any serious test, it is plain that the mills individually are very anxious that prices should be maintained, while buyers as a whole prefer prices to be steady. There has been no material change in the general average of steel prices in the last couple years, there being no advances of consequence even when steel was in heaviest demand, and thus there is no economic reason for declines.

Semi-finished steel is now quotable at $34. The $35 price had not been fully established, and at best lasted only a few months. The scrap market has developed a much stronger undertone and has distinct chances of advancing in the next few weeks.

STATISTICAL ROOM OF C. D. HALSEY AND COMPANY'S MONONGAHELA BANK OFFICES

Machine Library Started In Detroit

DETROIT, Dec. 21.—The most complete machinery library in America, if not in the world, where complete information concerning the machinery in use in all industries may be found, will be established at MacDonald Brothers Engineering Laboratories, Inc., according to an announcement yesterday of H. E. MacDonald, vice president and general manager of the laboratories organization.

The laboratory, which will be erected at 1500 Oakman boulevard, in the heart of industrial Detroit, will also contain a permanent exhibit of all kinds of machine tools and allied supplies. It is sponsored by MacDonald Brothers, Inc., nationally known production engineers with headquarters in Boston and offices in several of the principal cities of the United States. Kidder, Peabody & Co., internationally known financiers, have endorsed it. Work on the construction of the building will be started as soon as the architects' plans have been completed.

BRANCH OFFICE OPERATED

C. D. Halsey and Company, the first brokerage firm in Pittsburgh to open a branch "downtown," has unusually attractive and convenient offices and board room in the Monongahela National Bank Building.

This branch was first opened in the Clark Building in April, 1928, but increased demand for service compelled the company to seek larger quarters, and in March, 1929, the present offices were opened.

The Monongahela Bank Building office is in charge of M. D. Ullery and William M. McKelvy, and offers every service offered by the main Pittsburgh office on Fourth avenue, including a direct wire to the New York office of C. D. Halsey and Company.

GLASS OUTPUT TO SLUMP

The plate glass manufacturing industry is shaping itself for the holiday schedule, according to the National Glass Budget.

Production in the United States during November amounted to 12,130,845 square feet. This was about 2,500,000 square feet less than in October, when the output totaled 14,620,904 square feet. In November, 1928, there were 11,646,064 square feet manufactured. Up to the end of November this year the total production was 142,115,998 square feet, according to Paul A Hughes, secretary of the Plate Glass Manufacturers of America.

The factory output during the present month is likely to show a decline from that of November. Some of the plants may close down before Christmas and remain idle until after New Year's Day. At present repairs to plant equipment are going on in several instances.

At the middle of the week demand was reported to be noticeably falling off with the market firm.

Architects and builders, as well as the manufacturers of plate glass seem to be optimistic as to the outlook for the building industry in 1930. Although there may not be as many automobiles manufactured in the coming year as were built in the one drawing to a close, it would not be surprising to see as many square feet of glass used by the automobile industry next year as were required in 1929.

Increased use of laminated glass is likely to be most helpful to the manufacturers of plate glass.

The American Glass Review says today:

With the usual holiday season quiet holding forth in the market for window, plate and other flat glass products, all factors in the trade are marking time these days in anticipation of a material improvement in buying trends once the New Year is fairly under way.

Both output and distribution of window glass held at practically unchanged levels the past week, with no stimulus in demand to be expected before completion of inventories. Throughout the month jobbers have been reducing their stocks preparatory to inventory-taking and virtually all orders placed with the manufacturers have been for early and immediate requirements only.

Production schedules at the window glass factories are at the lowest seasonal levels of recent years, and about in keeping with demand. As a gradual replenishment of stocks by jobbers is in order in the wake of the end of the year lull, it would appear that the manufacturers are in a better position than a year ago. A discussion of the outlook for 1930 featured a meeting of the Window Glass Manufacturers' Association December 20 in Chicago.

Bottle Production In Seasonal Lull

The pre-holiday lull is making itself felt in the glass bottle business at the present time. Users of glass bottles are doing only such buying as necessity demands.

Of the various branches of the bottle business, that of prescription ware is giving the best account of itself. While the other branches show slowness, the business done is equal to the same period of a year ago.

Opposition to Merger Plans Expected

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

BITTER opposition to the railroad consolidation plan of the Interstate Commerce Commission is expected from leaders of the various factions in the transportation field. Within the next few months the commission will be deluged with protests against the allocations made of many of the disputed lines.

Formal announcement of the consolidation plan was made by the Interstate Commerce Commission this morning. This follows the publication yesterday of details of the plan by the Dow, Jones service.

Practically all of the leading carriers will find some phases of the consolidation which are not to their liking. The commission does not appear to have favored any particular system. Most of the roads are likely to be deprived of units which have held an important place in their schemes of the past few years.

Plan Not Final

IT must be remembered, however, that the plan is not conclusive. Members of the commission have merely compromised in getting together on a proposal which carries out the provisions of the Transportation Act requiring them to work out a definite allotment of individual roads. The commission cannot compel railroads to merge against their will but it can block consolidations not in accordance with its plan. Under the Transportation Act the commission can also amend its plan if it finds such a step desirable.

The success of the railroad consolidation program is also dependent, to a great extent, on the action to be taken by Congress to give the commission power to control holding companies, many of which could block proposed consolidations.

Pennsylvania's Position

THE position of the Pennsylvania Railroad after the completion of the mergers is largely dependent on the success of the commission's complaint made under the Clayton Act. If the Pennsylvania is forced to relinquish control of the Wabash and the Lehigh Valley it will lose ground. If it is able to keep its holdings the Pennsylvania will dominate two of the five Eastern systems and will be more strongly entrenched than ever.

The Pennsylvania virtually controls the Norfolk and Western which has been allotted to the Wabash. If the road still retains control of the Wabash the transfer will make little difference. The Norfolk and Western is extremely valuable to the Pennsylvania both as an investment and from a traffic standpoint.

Two Trunk Lines

THROUGH its control of the Wabash, the Pennsylvania would also gain the advantage of a new trunk line from the Great Lakes through Pittsburgh to Baltimore. This would be secured by the consolidation of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia with the Western Maryland and the Wheeling and Lake Erie. The system to be formed by the three roads would become a part of the Wabash.

While the Pennsylvania and the Wabash would still be separate organizations, the exercise of control would give the Pennsylvania close working co-operation. This would extend the Pennsylvania's interest westward over lines reaching Kansas City, Omaha and Des Moines. The western terminals of the Pennsylvania's own line are at Chicago and St. Louis.

Taplin Benefits

RECENT decisions handed down by the commission have indicated that the plans of F. E. Taplin, chairman of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, for his new Lakes to Seaboard trunk line are favorably regarded. The consolidation plan now confirms this.

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia has the commission definitely working with it on the consolidation plans to follow the completion of its extension to Connellsville, which joins its tracks to those of the Western Maryland. The road is also in line to benefit from consolidation with the Wabash.

Coal Plan Fails

THE effort being made to bring about the construction of a canal from the Ohio River to Youngstown indicates that the Pittsburgh Coal Company and the Youngstown steel interests have given up hope of constructing a railroad over a similar route.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company a year ago bought the Pittsburgh, Lisbon and Western and asked for permission to build an extension south to the Ohio River and another north to Youngstown. The company planned to take advantage of river transportation and a low freight rate to regain markets in the Youngstown district.

The Interstate Commerce Commission refused to approve any of the company's application so that the plan has remained dormant for several months. The pushing of the canal proposal is taken as an indication of the complete abandonment of the railroad extension.

Trade Exposition Planned in Gotham

Plans have been completed for the largest and most comprehensive annual exposition of foreign products ever assembled under one roof in this country. It will be known as the International Exposition of American Import Trade, and will be staged in Grand Central Palace, New York, the week of August 4 to 9, 1930. Approximately 200,000 square feet of exhibition space will be available for the enterprise, which is to be along the lines of the great European trade and sample fairs, such as those held in Leipsic, Paris and Milan. Finished, semi-finished and raw products will be exhibited.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

RETAIL SALES CLOSE TO 1928

Mercantile Agency Sees Active Holiday Trade With Less Steel Output

Retail trade has been fairly active in Holiday lines, although the demand for seasonable merchandise such as wearing apparel, has been less satisfactory, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

Several of the larger stores report volume of sales close to those of a year ago, and the total volume of Christmas sales is expected to be not far from normal. Jobbers report buying in small lots for filling in purposes, with future orders light.

There is a fairly good demand for confectionery for the Christmas trade, while the wholesale grocery business is somewhat below normal for this time of the year, with prices showing some weakness.

Demand for lumber and building supplies is quiet. The volume of sales is considerably lower than a year ago. Some slowing up in demand for plumbing and heating supplies is noted. The total volume of sales is estimated at 10 to 15 per cent lower than last year at this time.

OUTPUT CUT

Industrial operations show comparatively little change from last week, with steel plants averaging slightly over 60 per cent of capacity. There is no improvement in the demand for window glass, production continuing below the seasonal average, with demand light. Plate glass is also in slightly lower demand. The electrical equipment lines continue quite active.

Holiday demand for radio equipment is quite strong, although there has been some cutting of prices on discontinued lines. This has interfered with the demand for some of the standard lines.

There has been a slight reduction in the production of crude oil, with efforts still being made to reduce the output further.

COAL DULL

While the domestic demand for bituminous coal has been somewhat more active, industrial demand is at a low rate, and the market as a whole is quiet. Prices show little change. Western Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal are quoted per net ton at mines as follows: Steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; steam slack, 80 to 90 cents, and gas slack, $1 to $1.10.

While collections have shown a slight improvement in some quarters, they continue to average slower than normal.

TRADE ACTIVITY LOWER

The volume of money turnover during the week ended December 15, as measured by check payments, was lower than in either the previous week or the corresponding period of last year, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. Petroleum production during the latest reported week showed a slight recession from the preceding week but was higher than a year ago. Opertaions in steel plans were on a lower level than in the corresponding period of last year. The movement of goods into consumption, as reflected by the volume of freight-car loadings for the latest reported week, was lower than a year ago.

The general level of wholesale prices showed practically no change from the previous week but was lower than a year ago. Iron and steel prices were fractionally lower than in the preceding week, showing a decline also from the same week of last year. Prices for copper showed no change from the previous week but were higher than a year ago. Prices for wheat were higher than a year ago, while cotton prices were lower.

Bank loans and discounts were lower than in the previous week but higher than a year ago. Interest rates on call funds showed no change from the previous week but were substantially lower than a year ago. Time money rates averaged higher than in the preceding week but were lower than last year. Bond prices showed a fractional loss from the preceding week and were lower than a year ago. Stock prices showed further recovery during the week but were still below the level of last year. Business failures were more numerous than in either the previous week or the same period of last year.

HANDLES STEEL FURNITURE

Its products are distributed here by the Business Furniture Company, of which Homer Neely is president and George J. McIntyre is field representative.

The company also handles Horrocks desks and Taylor chairs Among the firms whose offices have been equipped by the Business Furniture Company are Aluminum Company of America, Westinghouse Air Brake Company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, Eric Fisher Wood Company, the Selden Company, Pittsburgh Coal Company, Mellon National Bank and Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A.

SEES NO GAIN IN BUILDING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—While the volume of construction activities continued to be maintained at a level approximately equal to that of last year and therefore continued to draw on the reserve of contracts awarded previously, there are no definite statistical indications as yet of the expected increase in the volume of contract awards. This was announced by the Associated General Contractors as a result of a statistical survey of construction.

Construction job activities during November as measured by shipments of basic construction materials took a seasonal decline of eight points to Index number 225. The total volume of construction performed during the first 11 months of 1929 as revealed by these figures is approximately equal to the total volume on record for the corresponding period of 1928.

BONDS INCREASE

The first indication of a revival in the planning for new construction was seen during the month in the increase of long term state and municipal bond issues which totaled $118,000,000 for October. The average monthly figure for bond issues during the first 10 months of this year was $109,000,000 compared with $110,000,000 in 1928 and $124,000,000 during the corresponding period in 1927.

The increased availability of funds for financing construction through mortgage loans or bond issues has been looked to as a factor which should cause an increase in construction contract volume ever since the stock market decline. It is conceded, however, that a period of adjustment of accounts must be passed through before that effect may be seen in statistics.

SCREW & BOLT BUSINESS GROWS

Turns Out Nut or Rivet Every Second of Work Day at Factories Here

Every second of every working day, a bolt, a nut or a rivet is produced by the machines of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation. These are the nuts, bolts and rivets used by the great bridges, the giant buildings, heavy machinery and the railroads all over the United States.

The equipment in each of the plants of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation is arranged with care and forethought. Many of the special machines in use have been designed and built by the company as the result of its experience. All of these machines may be operated to meet normal and extraordinary conditions economically. Routine methods for keeping all of its products to uniform quality are as complete and as regular as the speed of production.

Each plant of the company is so arranged that all raw materials are received at one side and all finished products packed, loaded and shipped at the opposite side of the plant.

SERVES RAILROADS

The majority of the customers of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation have been on its books since the inception of the business. Customers include many trunk line railroads, railway and electrical equipment companies, practically all the large steel companies, public utility companies and shipbuilders.

The Colona plant of the company manufactures a device which protects the threads on the ends of pipe used for various purposes and especially for drill pipe tubing and casings of all kinds. The use of these protectors makes it possible for pipe to be received wherever it is to be used with the threaded ends in perfect condition. This protector is made in both external and internal form.

The first year of operation of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation, following consolidation with the Graham Bolt and Nut Company and the Colona Manufacturing Company, will show a sharp upturn in earnings. Net profits in the first nine months of this year were greater than the combined profits of the three organization in the full year of 1928.

Value of Crops Ahead of Year Ago

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Value of the 50 principal crops of the United States in 1929 was $85,000,000 more than last year, although yields were 5 per cent lower, the Crop Reporting Board announced December 18 on the basis of December 1 figures.

Trend of Retail Food Prices Downward

Retail food prices declined about 0.5 per cent from October 15 to November 15, but were more than 1.5 per cent higher than November 15, 1928, and 52 per cent above those of November 15, 1923, according to the index for the month which has just been issued by the Department of Labor's bureau of labor statistics.

Only five articles for which prices were obtained increased in price during the month ended November 15, while 24 decreased and 13 remained unchanged, according to the bureau's statement. The average cost of foodstuffs decreased in 44 out of 51 cities during the month, but 42 showed increases for the year. Food was 70 per cent higher in Chicago November 15 than for the same date in 1913, and figures range downward to 40 per cent higher for Salt Lake City, the bureau says.

NEWLY-COMPLETED WASHINGTON PIKE

FLOOD STREETS RAISED

The Harrison Construction Company has completed a large number of important highway construction contracts this year. The firm was founded about two years ago with E. J. Harrison as president and R. M. Sutton as treasurer. Since its organization the firm has been engaged in the building of streets, sewers, water lines and general road work.

Among the work completed this year was the Washington pike in Greentree Borough, which was a two-mile strip, the construction being of vibrolithic-reinforced concrete.

The raising of the streets in the flood district on the North Side was begun last March and was completed on December 1. This contract included Shore avenue, Reedsdale street, General Robinson street and the intersecting streets. The filling material was obtained from Monument Hill.

Babcock boulevard in the Millvale section, including two concrete bridges over Gerty's Run, was also completed this year.

Noblestown road and Washington avenue in Carnegie were built by the Harrison Construction Company under the supervision of the State Highway Department.

Mr. Harrison forecasts a big year in road construction. All departments, national, state, county and city, are making a special effort to speed up work to conform to President Hoover's plan to reduce the un-employment.

Holiday Sales of Flint Glass Active

Of all agencies connected with the glass industry, retailers in the flint glass branch of it, are meeting with greatest encouragement at precent.

From the activity of shoppers seen in the flint glass departments of retail stores, it is evident that flint glass articles will serve for many Christmas presents this season. While the retailer is busy, the large distributor must content himself with small emergency orders needed as fillers where certain lines have shown an unexpected popularity with buyers.

Among manufacturers the usual seasonal operating schedules are being maintained. There is little, if any, demand for the staple lines of ware in this commodity now. This condition is likely to hold for some time.

Coke Production Registers Drop

A slight decline in the production of coke, reflecting a somewhat greater decrease in pig iron output, and an increase in stocks on hand were the outstanding features of the coke market during November. In spite of the decline, production of all coke was greater than in the corresponding month of 1928.

According to the Iron Age the production of pig iron in November was 3,181,411 tons, a daily average of 106,047 tons. In comparison with October the daily rate shows a decrease of 8.4 per cent.

The decrease in iron output was felt unequally by the different groups of coke producers. The daily output of beehive coke fell off 8.7 per cent; that of the furnace by-product plants declined 4.2 per cent, while that of the merchant by-product plants declined only 1 per cent. The average for all by-product plants shows a decline of 3.5 per cent.

Year's Sale of Toys Over $100,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Christmas sales will run the national 1929 expenditure for children's toys to more than $100,000,000, and it will be a good year for the toy trade, according to a statement December 19 by the specialties division of the Department of Commerce.

Increasing "air-mindedness" among children, bringing changes in the types of playthings; sale of toys throughout the year, making a more balanced industry; and the fact that grown-ups as well as youngsters create the demand are told in the statement.

I. C. C. Authorizes Gulf Mobile Deal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad to acquire control of the New Orleans, Great Northern Railroad by purchase of capital stock.

NAT USES RAY TREATMENTS

The Pittsburgh Natatorium recently installed a new ultra-violet ray solarium, making its equipment one of the most complete installations in the world.

One of the finest swimming pools in the country is included in the facilities. Special classes for men and women are always available. Pittsburgh business men and women are finding recreation and are keeping in fit physical condition by swimming. The constantly flowing water from the artesian wells is regularly tested.

Iron Ore Output At New High Record

ST. PAUL, Dec. 21.—The production of iron ore in Minnesota in 1929 exceeded that of any previous year, and state-owned mines also established a new record according to a statement issued by the superintendent of mines, F. A. Wildes.

The amount of ore from all mines in the state this year reached the total of 46,789,549 tons, which is 72 per cent of the total production of 65,195,478 tons in the Lake Superior district, comprising Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The Minnesota production was about 500,000 tons greater than the previous highest year, which was 1916.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Rally | Stocks Drift Lower Here

STOCK MARKET STAGES BRISK RECOVERY

Prices Bound Upward 1 to 10 Points on Rally After Irregularity

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.) — The stock market staged a brisk recovery today after an early period of irregularity. Extreme gains in a long list of active issues ranged from 1 to 10 points, with only a few soft spots cropping out here and there as belated tax selling and liquidation of weakened speculative accounts made its appearance. Trading was fairly heavy in volume for a half holiday session.

There was nothing in the day's news to account for the sudden change of speculative sentiment, leading to the belief that the market had been oversold, at least temporarily. Bear traders, apparently unable to dislodge any large volume of stock, rushed to cover as floor traders bought stocks heavily for a turn.

RAIL MERGER PLAN

Publication of the Interstate Commerce Commission's revised consolidation plan, which was along the lines of the unofficial summary published yesterday, failed to stimulate much interest in the railroad shares. Insofar as the eastern field is concerned, the plan varies widely from the groupings previously favored by the leading eastern executives, but the commission's plan is generally regarded as a basis for discussion rather than as an arbitrary allocation of roads. Union Pacific, with a gain of 5 points, was the leader of the rail group.

Pennsylvania Crop Value Shows Gain

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Despite less acreage and lower yields, the value of farm crops in Pennsylvania was approximately $243,984,000 this year compared with $219,656,000 last year, according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service here. The increase is attributable to higher prices for all crops except winter grains. The price received for potatoes was two and one-half times what was received for the 1928 crop.

The service declared the valuation showing was creditable, considering the adverse weather in many sections of the state, particularly the wet spring, prolonged summer drought and the frosts which injured both the fruit and corn crops extensively.

November Cigaret Production Gains

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Production of small cigarets in November were 9,041,042,673, against 8,536,425,793 in November, according to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Production of large cigars was 622,938,344 in November, against 630,530,692 last year. Manfactured tobacco output was 24,846,324, against 26,734,292 a year ago.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 21. — Wheat jumped 4¼ cents a bushel here early today, chiefly in response to systematic bidding on behalf of representatives of the Federal Farm Board. A general rush to buy wheat future deliveries accompanied the upward shoot of the market, but selling broadened out on the extreme gains, and something of a reaction followed. Opening 1⅞ cents to 4 cents up, wheat values quickly rose a little more, and later fluctuated in brisk fashion at around an average net advance of 3 cents. Corn and oats were also stronger, corn starting ¾ cent to 2 cents higher, and afterward showing additional gains. Provisions declined.

Get Two Producers In Oklahoma Pool

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 21.—Productive territory in the South Oklahoma City pool was widened a mile when two new producers, the T. B. Slick No. 1 and Indian Territory Illuminating Company's Foster were brought in on opposite sides of the pool.

Business Failures Total 498 in Week

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Business failures in the United States this week, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., totaled 498, an increase of 16 over the number reported in the preceding week, and compared with the 491 defaults of the corresponding week last year.

Richfield Rumors Branded False

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—James G. Talbot, chairman of Richfield Oil Company, brands as false rumors that New York or any other banks have refused to renew Richfield loans or accept its stock as collateral.

"Richfield never was on a sounder basis and will close 1929 as the best year in history with net earnings of from $4.50 to $5 a share after extensive write-offs," he said.

Tax Loss Sales Are Depressing Stock Market

—By B. C. FORBES—

ALTHOUGH the panic saved many people the necessity for selling voluntarily to establish income tax losses, a good deal of such sel'ing is now in progress. Even those who had sense enough to foresee the inevitable bursting of the speculative boom and were in a position to purchase freely when the crash came, owned some stocks at higher prices than those now ruling. By selling now and not rebuying for 30 days they can offset part of their income and profits. This selling naturally had a depressing effect. But it will be over with the end of the year.

My guess is that by this time next year the majority of good stocks will be on distinctly higher levels.

SOME multi-millionaires have such objections to paying the terrific super-tax rates that they could not bring themselves to sell stocks on which they had enormous profits even when they felt prices were too high.

One wealthy investor, George I. Cochran, California financier, tells me he has been effectively cured. He owned a block of one stock which soared beautifully to 90. He didn't regard it as a sound, permanent investment and decided to sell it. But when he thought of how large a part of his profit the government would take, he decided to wait until the turn of the year. Now he doesn't have to worry about having to pay any super-tax on that particular "baby," as Wall Street calls stocks which go wrong.

And there are many others who have had similar experiences. Which reminds one of old Commodore Vanderbilt's axion, "No one ever went broke taking a profit."

THE law school maintains its twentieth century reputation as a gateway to high places in finance and business. A lawyer, Winthrop W. Aldrich, brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was this week elected president of New York's fourth largest financial institution, the Equitable Trust Company. He is only 44. His papa was Senator Aldrich, famous as chairman of the National Monetary Commission, which paved the way for the establishment of our federal reserve currency system. Therefore, Winthrop early breathed the atmosphere of large-scale finance. Also, he has been a bank director, and his legal firm has been the Equitable's counsel for many years.

Charles E. Mitchell, the dynamic head of the National City Bank, the largest of them all, although not a lawyer, assiduously studied law at night after he graduated from college with high honors. Dwight W. Morrow, who first won fame as a member of the House of Morgan, was a lawyer. So was George L. Harrison, now governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Charles G. Dawes too, was admitted to the bar before he engaged in banking or politics.

As for lawyers who have become heads of great corporations, their names, starting with Myron C. Taylor, of the Steel Corporation, and Owen D. Young, of General Electric, are too numerous to mention here.

Any ambitious young man, though not lawyer-bred, would apparently do well to study law in his own time.

THE third generation of John D. Rockefellers is starting out promisingly. John D. III, who has begun work in his father's office, has made a very favorable impression upon those who have met him. Like his father, he evidently intends to take life seriously. The youngest of the five sons of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Nelson A., newspapers state, has made a notable scholarship mark at college. He has specialized in economics, to fit himself for the world of business affairs.

"What is your greatest problem in life?" I asked John D., Jr., some years ago.

"To bring up my children to have them become worthy citizens," was his prompt reply.

Mr. Rockefeller certainly has worked conscientiously at that job. And it seems as if he has succeeded encouragingly.

Arthur Brisbane, talking to a gathering which was to be addressed by William R. Hearst, remarked that the latter had succeeded "in spite of having been born rich" and added that it was infinitely harder for a rich youth than for a poor youth to make something of his life, because the poor youth was prodded by the sharp spur of necessity. Contrary to popular notion, the percentage of rich men's sons that make good is quite large.

DULLNESS NOW HEALTHY FOR MARKET

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Through the week the stock market has been experiencing dullness—modern style.

Transactions for a full five-hour day dropped as low as two and a quarter million shares in the middle of the week, marking the quietest session since June.

Dullness, like everything else, is a relative term. As recently as eight years ago, the handling of the transfer of the title to two and a quarter million shares would have been noteworthy as a day of extraordinary activity in Wall Street. Newspapers would have featured the news on the front page. Even a million-share day was front page news in those less active days in Wall Street. But after a $16,000,000-share day, two and a quarter million shares seems to mark the complete absence of public interest in speculation.

Nowadays, it is unpopular for politicians or publicists to show any sympathy for the managers of the Stock Exchange. But it is nevertheless true that the wide variations in the quantity of brokerage service demanded by the public make it difficult for the Exchange to be ready for peak days. With existing facilities, the Stock Exchange can readily handle a five million-share day. Recent sessions have demanded only 50 per cent of the new capacity of the Stock Exchange. If the public more or less consistently demanded even 16,000,000-share days, the Stock Exchange could develop the facilities, but its management feels that it would be uneconomic to set up machinery which would be required only once or twice in a decade.

SHARES TREBLED

There are several reasons why a dull session nowadays is busier than an active one in past years. In the first place, the business of the stock exchange, as exemplified by the number of shares listed, has trebled. Secondly, irrespective of short term fluctuations, including panics and technical recoveries, the number of security buyers in the United States, as a result of prolonged post-war prosperity and changed corporate policies, has increased vastly more rapidly than the population. Thirdly, the 25 per cent increase in the membership of the New York Stock Exchange has increased not only the number of professional operators, but more especially the array of agencies seeking at all times to stimulate public interest in speculation and investment.

Dullness at this stage of the speculative cycle is a normal and healthy phase. During the October-early November collapse stocks were sold ruthlessly until virtually all weak holdings were eliminated. Then came four weeks of technical rally, which wiped out about 40 per cent of the loss. The rally was motivated partly by short covering. It was also a reflex of the absorption of the floating supply of stocks by odd lot bargain hunters. After a time, such buying needs were fulfilled. The market in its next phase lacked the stimulus of such decisive buying.

Accordingly, in its present phase, the bulls and bears have been in a clinch, culminating in yesterday's sharp break. Professionals have sought to test out points of weakness, and bull leaders have undertaken to stage demonstrations.

The market has been going through a period of stabilization.

After further dullness, the next main phase will depend on the reading of the speculative public of signposts of the business outlook—and more particularly the prospects for profit of individual corporations.

SPOILS TO INDEPENDENT

Playing a role in the financial mob scene never has been consistently profitable. The real gains go to those with the capacity to think independently and to act instantaneously on the basis of their conclusions, irrespective of the prevailing atmosphere of optimism or gloom as reflected on the ticker.

Walter W. Price, thoughtful broker who warned against continuing the bull movement many months before the panic, now says:

"There is something in us that cannot resist mob psychology. We come to a point where we disregard all understanding and limitations learned from experience, and the crash comes as a result of the influence that seizes our imagination when reason ceases to function. In general, these passions for speculation are fostered by a desire for individual gain and material wealth."

The whole theory of manipulation rests on the belief of pool managers that average folk will act in the average way. Of course, on panic days, however, even the law of averages is temporarily repealed, and on such occasions pools, intended to exploit public frailties, are themselves deluged.

In spite of gold exports, decisively easier money seems on the cards for January. The full effects of the present banking policy of easement are beclouded by seasonal factors. This is the time of peak withdrawal of currency from the banks.

After the holidays, there will be a return flow of currency and a reduction of commercial indebtedness by the banks. A further downward revision in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to 4 per cent seems probable.

NURMI TO TRY MARATHON AFTER SLIP

MUCH has been said and written about the "killing" strain to which the runners are subjected in marathon and other long-distance races, whereas the sprints and contests up to a mile apparently are considered as being little more than mere play. As a matter of fact, just the reverse holds true. Look over the records, and you'll find that the great sprinters fade out almost as quickly as they come up; that those who specialize at something around the mile route linger only a short time longer, while long-distance stars like Clarence DeMar may still be carrying on after passing the 40-year mark.

Paavo Nurmi.

When Joie Ray shot his bolt as a middle-distance star he took up the marathon game with success, and others have done the same thing. Now Paavo Nurmi presents another case in point. His disappointing showing during his last visit to America less than a year ago seems to have convinced him that at from one to five miles he must make way for younger men. But that doesn't mean that he is ready to quit. On the contrary he sees big possibilities for himself at longer distances.

NURMI has a double goal that he hopes to reach before he hangs up his shoes. He wants to establish a record for the one-hour run that will withstand assaults for a long time, and he wants to win the Olympic marathon in Los Angeles in 1932. He has begun to prepare himself in Finland for those undertakings, and more than one veteran footracing authority is inclined to believe that he will get away with them.

The fact that a man burnt out at the middle distances can turn to longer ones with a good prospect of outstripping all competitors indicates that those who have looked upon the sprints and middle routes as comparatively easy work, and upon the marathon as an inhuman drain on the vital forces, have taken the wrong slant. A sprinter gives everything he has in a short dash and the strain is terrific. A marathon runner who knows his footracing book, and who has the perfect stride, the heart and the lung power of a Nurmi, may, like DeMar, go on for many years longer. It's not the miles traveled, but the pace that kills.

CONNIE MACK seems bent on giving John McGraw a fight for the major league managerial record in the matter of taking back players he once discarded as of no further use to his team.

Catcher Wally Schang, recently obtained from the Browns by the Athletics in exchange for Third Baseman Sammy Hale is the sixth player whom Mack once cast adrift and subsequently recalled. The others dropped and brought back were Bris Lord, Bing Miller, Eddie Collins, Joe Bush and George Burns.

Wally Schang.

LORD was with the Athletics in their first world series in 1905, but soon afterward was sent to Cleveland. When Rube Oldring was injured in 1910, the A's had to get another player in a hurry, so a deal was made to bring Lord back. Miller was traded to St. Louis for Baby Doll Jacobson in 1926, and returned after the 1927 season in a swap for Sam Gray. Collins was sold to the White Sox in 1915 and rejoined the Mackmen after being released as manager of the Pale Hose at the end of the 1926 race. Bush was traded with Schang and Amos Strunk to the Red Sox for Thomas, Kopp and Gregg following the season of 1917, and was taken on again in 1928 as a free agent. Burns was transferred to Cleveland after the 1919 season and was taken on again a year ago when the Yankees dropped him.

HOWEVER, Mack still has a considerable distance to go before he can hope to catch up with McGraw. The latter leads all the pilots of both loops in shipping players to other clubs and later making deals to bring them back to the Giants when their services promised to be of value to the team.

Heinie Groh, Buck Herzog, George Kelly, Eddie Roush, Hank Gowdy, Johnny Watson, Larry Doyle, Tim McNamara, Joe Oeschger, Dave Robertson and Jack Bentley may be mentioned among the players whom McGraw has sent away and later restored to his lineup. And that's saying nothing about Dave Bancroft, Irish Meusel, Roger Bresnahan, Arthur Devlin, Honus Lobert, Bert Niehoff and others whom he once let go and later signed again as coaches or scouts.

LEO MACKEY, popular local baseball and basketball figure, who has been making a fine record as a catcher in such good minor league company as the Southern Association, holds the distinction of having been selected by the New York Yankees as the right man to handle one of their farms.

Leo Mackey.

In order to get Mackey, the Yanks had to purchase his release from the Mobile club. This done, Leo has been appointed manager of the Chambersburg club, of the Blue Ridge League, which is owned by the New York Americans and is a school for budding Yanks. Quite a tribute to Mackey's ability, this selecting of him from a vast minor league field by one of the richest clubs in the country for the important duty of developing its material for the future.

THE suggestion of J. Howard Berry, former Penn football star and all-around athlete, that an advisory board be created to assist the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission in handling the boxing situation, offering his own services as a member, loses much of its weight in a single sentence. Berry says he has become so disgusted with the glove sport in its present state that he has become a devoted follower of wrestling. That ought to let J. Howard out as far as the job he seeks is concerned. Boxing at times may leave something to be desired, but to put any part of its control or operation in the hands of a man who gives his approval to the wrestling racket would only serve to make things a great deal worse. In his statement that the boxing situation differs from that of wrestling, Berry paid the glove sport one of the highest compliments it has ever received.

THE Notre Dame system through which Coach Jimmy Phelan piloted Purdue to its first Western Conference football championship this year is likely to be continued at the Lafayette (Ind.) school despite the shifting of Phelan to the University of Washington for next season.

For the man who is said to have the inside track for the coaching job at Purdue is also a specialist in the Notre Dame style of play and

OLYMPICS TO BANQUET

The McKeesport Olympics will hold their annual banquet at the Cotton Club, Long Run Road, on Monday evening at 10 p. m. All of the players and a few newspaper men have been invited. Tube City fans are staging the affair.

SONNENBERG WINS

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Dec. 21.—(AP.) Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion claimant, defeated Boris Demitroff in straight falls here last night. It was his first Kentucky appearance.

LOCALS AFTER FIFTH WIN TONIGHT

The undefeated University of Pittsburgh Panthers will go after their fifth straight basketball victory at the Stadium pavillion tonight when Coach Carlson sends his varsity against the crack Grove City College quintet. The battle marks the second home appearance of the Panthers, the locals having recently disposed of Muskingum College by an overwhelming margin.

Coach Bob Thorne, rated as one of the best basketball mentors in this section of the country, will send a smooth-working floor machine against the Panthers and he is confident it will give a good account of itself tonight.

The main event will be preceded by a preliminary between the Pitt Freshies and Schenley High School.

The Duquesne University quintet will be in Sharon tonight, where it clashes with the Buhl Club passers.

WRAY SUCCEEDS LOU YOUNG

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—J. R. Ludlow (Lud) Wray, line coach of the University of Pennsylvania football team for the last seven seasons, yesterday was selected as head coach by the football committee of the Pennsylvania Athletic Council. Wray succeeds Lou Young, who recently declined election as head coach in order to become assistant to the chairman of the University of Pennsylvania athletic council.

It was also announced that Sydney E. Hutchinson had resigned as chairman of the football committee and that Lou Young had been appointed as chairman to succeed him. Hutchinson remains chairman of the council of athletics.

It was stated that Hutchinson for some time had been wanting to be relieved of the football chairmanship, and found the present the best opportunity for so doing. It was denied that Wray's election had anything to do with Hutchinson's resignation.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWERS—PRIME MINISTER OF GREAT BRITAIN RECEIVES NO SALARY—There is no salary attached to the position of Prime Minister of Great Britain, although he automatically holds another cabinet office, that of First Lord of the Treasury. As First Lord of the Treasury, he receives a salary of five thousand pounds a year. GREATEST KICK GIL DOBIE EVER SAW—Gil Dobie, one of the leading coaches in American football, who has spent many years of a long career almost equally divided between the Far West, Middle West and East, states that this particular play is the greatest he has seen in 40 years of football experience. Aiken's remarkable kick was made under the most adverse circumstances, a rainy day, soggy football and swampy field. This feat never has been excelled.

TITLE AWARD AWAITS PROBE BY COMISH

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Tod Morgan has relinquished his junior-lightweight championship, but whether to his conqueror, Benny Bass, or not, awaits the decision of an official inquiry by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Bass, the pile-driving puncher from Philadelphia, knocked out Morgan in the second round of their scheduled 15-round titular bout in Madison Square Garden and apparently had succeeded to the 130-pound crown beyond a doubt. A few minutes after the knockout, however, Chairman James A. Farley, of the State Commission, ordered the purses of both fighters withheld pending an investigation to be begun by the Commission on Tuesday. Bass and Morgan, with their managers, were ordered to appear before the solons at that time. Farley indicated that he did not believe the bout had been fought on its merits.

REFEREE WARNED

Farley's action was taken after reports reached the commission of the somewhat intricate financial arrangements of the bout. It was said that in the event he lost, Morgan had been guaranteed $35,000, but that if he won he would receive 37½ per cent of the gate. The gate, as it turned out, was approximately $28,000, of which it was said Morgan would have received little more than $10,000 had he won.

Before the fighters entered the ring, Commissioner Farley warned Referee Jimmy Crowley to watch for anything suspicious, but the referee showed no hesitancy in counting Morgan out in the second round and declaring Bass the winner on a knockout.

The fight, while it lasted, was a sensational affair. Bass, on the long end of odds as high as 6 to 1, ran into serious difficulties in the first round. Morgan jolted the Philadelphia challenger with several rights to the chin that had Bass reeling and dizzy at the bell.

BASS UNLEASHES FURY

At the start of the second round, however, Bass rushed from his corner and swung a wild right that landed flush on Morgan's chin. The champion hit the canvas with a thud and barely regained his feet at the count of nine. Bass swung both fists to the body and head. Morgan, almost defenseless in the face of the storm of leather that came his way, tried to get close enough to his rival to hold on. But Bass unleashed a terrific right to the chin that sent the titleholder down for the full count.

GRIMES, BUCS MAY DISCUSS TERMS TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Today may determine the trend that the relations between Pitcher Burleigh Grimes and the Pittsburgh Baseball Club are going to take. The spitball star planned to make another call at Pirate headquarters before leaving tonight for Chicago, and it was generally expected that he would have a heart-to-heart talk with President Barney Dreyfuss, during which the salary question and the matter of a 1930 contract would be discussed.

As announced in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Grimes arrived here yesterday and visited the club offices, but he merely exchanged personal greetings with President Dreyfuss, Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss and Secretary Sam Watters.

"Grimes was informed that if he had any business matter to take up he could drop in at any time," said Treasurer Dreyfuss afterward, "and he intimated that he would call again on Saturday."

For some time it has been rumored that the pitcher has certain definite salary ideas in connection with a 1930 contract. It was expected that he would lay these before President Dreyfuss today, and the fans of the district were eagerly awaiting the outcome of the conference.

Burleigh will meet his father in Chicago tomorrow and accompany him to Owen, Wis., where the spitballer will spend Christmas at the home of his parents. Later he will return to his winter hunting lodge on Yellow Lake, in Wisconsin, where he and Pie Traynor have been roughing it since the world series.

Traynor has gone to his home in Arlington, Mass., for the holidays, but will rejoin Grimes in Wisconsin later. Grimes reports Pie in the best winter condition of his career.

Bill Carrigan Quits Red Sox To Retire

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Bill Carrigan, who piloted the Boston Red Sox to two world championships, yesterday resigned that baseball berth for the second time in 13 years. He told President Bob Quinn, who visited him at his home in Lewiston, Me., that he had to quit baseball or neglect his own affairs.

When Quinn returned to Boston he said he was not ready to announce Carrigan's successor, who will probably be Heinie Wagner, Wild Bill's first lieutenant for many years.

Carrigan's business interests which are extensive and varied in and about Lewiston, forced him out of baseball in 1916, when he was at the peak of his managerial career. During his two years at the helm, he had led the club to two world championships.

SHIKAT IS VICTOR

PANKA BEATEN, BUT GETS A DRAW

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

In what probably was the fastest heavyweight bout fought in this section in years, George Panka, of Homestead, and Harry Williams, Negro, of Rankin, battled to an official referee's draw in the 10-round main bout before a slim crowd at the Moose Temple last night. Williams really won the fight, but he had to be satisfied with a dead heat when he received only one vote, that of Red Robinson, acting as judge. Judge Frank Brown and Referee Al Grayber voted for a draw.

The bout was as close as it was fast, with first one and then the other forging ahead. Going into the final session, it was pretty much of a tossup, but in that frame Williams clearly clinched an edge by swarming all over Panka and never giving his opponent a chance to get into the running.

BOTH SCORE KNOCKDOWN

Two knockdowns marked the furious battle, both men being forced through the ropes. In the fifth round, Williams nailed Panka against the ropes backstage and drove him through them. Panka took a count of two after scrambling back into the ring and finished the round dead tired. In the ninth round, Panka started fast and battered Williams before him with a volley of short-range punches and finished up by knocking him through the ropes. Williams' head struck the floor hard as he landed and he let out a cry of pain, but, after the referee had counted three, he rose to his feet and rushed back into the ring and fought back so furiously that he managed to even up the round, continuing his offensive after the bell, it being necessary for the referee to drive him back.

Williams' real, if not official, victory was all the more notable in view of the fact that he conceded 14 pounds in weight to his

BUCS PRIMED FOR MAPLE LEAFS TONIGHT

MACKINNON RETURNS TO LINEUP

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—Two National Hockey League clubs that have been encountering plenty of trouble and disappointments in recent weeks will be opposed here tonight when the Toronto Leafs meet the Pittsburgh Pirates.

After getting away to a very poor start in the new race, the Leafs spurted and clambered up among the leaders, but the spurt was short-lived. The locals have suffered three defeats in their last four starts and they had to score seven goals to nose out the New York Rangers, 7-6, in the other engagement. Manager Connie Smythe has shaken up his lineup in an effort to swing the Leafs into a winning stride, and Cotton, Primeau and Conacher, the spare of a few weeks ago, now make up the starting front line.

VISITORS CRIPPLED

The Pirates, who have won one and tied one in their last three engagements, do not appear to be in much of a slump, but there is no doubt but that the invaders are badly crippled. Frank Frederickson, manager and star center, is out with a wrenched knee, and Herb Drury, another center, is on the sidelines with a fractured hand.

Johnny MacKinnon, defense star who has been out for some time with a sprained ankle, was reported well on the way to recovery by Frederickson today, and it is expected that he will return to action tonight.

Tonight's game will be one of exceptional interest to local fans. The Pittsburgers set a high scoring record for the season by tallying 10 goals against the locals when they appeared in the Steel City earlier in the season, and Smythe's men are out for revenge.

LOWREY-COTTON OPPOSED

Moreover, local ice enthusiasts are eager to get another glimpse of Hib Milks and Harold Darragh, stellar forwards for whom Smythe this week offered the Pittsburgh Club Dit Pettinger and the right healthy sum of $25,000. Frederickson refused the offer, so Milks and Darragh will be Toronto foes rather than Toronto friends.

Another interesting sidelight will be the duel between Jerry Lowrey and Harold Cotton, wingman who figured in the Pittsburgh-Toronto player swap last season. The shakeup in the ranks of the Leafs and the injuries sustained by Pirate skaters has returned in both performers being moved up from the ranks of the spares to the starting front line, and they will be opposed to each other tonight.

Both have been playing great hockey in recent games, and the duel should be an exceptionally spirited one.

DETROIT NEXT

At the conclusion of tonight's game the Pirates will move on to Detroit, where they are to oppose the Cougars tomorrow night. After the Detroit game several members of the Pittsburgh squad will go to their homes to spend Christmas with friends and relatives. The probable lineup:

Leafs		Pirates
Grant	G	Miller
Day	D	Smith
Horner	D	McCaffrey
Primeau	C	Milks
Conacher	W	Darragh
Cotton	W	Lowrey

ledo, in the local Christmas charity show here last night. Although Lombardo won the first two rounds, Ross took the last four. Their weights were Ross, 144; Lombardo, 145.

Jack Purvis, of Toronto, knocked out Pee Wee Jerral, of Kishawka, in the third round, and Happy Atherton, of Indianapolis, and Franklin Young, of Detroit, battled to a draw in six rounds. Ollie Bartlett, of Detroit, defeated K. O. Morgan, in eight rounds.

ROSALES TOPS JONES

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Rosy Rosales, of Cleveland, outpointed Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, in 10 rounds at the Elks' Christmas fund show here last night. Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, outpointed Johnny Kusic, of Youngstown, O., in 10 rounds.

Jimmy Reed, Erie, was awarded the decision over Sammy Harris, Akron Negro, in another 10-rounder. Virgil Kincaid, Buffalo, outpointed Honeyboy Shinner, Syracuse, N. Y., in six rounds. Red Jaderberg, Jamestown, N. Y., stopped Young Sharkey, Cleveland, in the second round.

Bucs Not to Use Airplanes Next Year

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has turned down an offer for airplane transportation for his team during the major league season. Aside from the fact excessive expense would be incurred, it was thought a number of the players would prefer to stick to Mother Earth despite any saving of time.

BACKS FAVORED AS CAPTAINS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Returns from practically half of Pennsylvania's colleges indicate a slight trend toward the selection of backfield men as captains of the 1930 football teams with Pennsylvanians getting at least an even break in the annual distribution of honors.

Of the 17 captains chosen thus far, 10 are backs, seven are linemen and nine are from towns and cities within the state. To the latter division, moreover, may be added the names of Hamden Toner, of Coraopolis, and William I. Craig, of Latrobe, who have been named captains of the 1930 elevens at Amherst and Illinois Wesleyan, respectively.

The list of captains named to date at Pennsylvania colleges, follows:

Albright—Charles E. Scheaffer, Reading, guard.
Bucknell—Tony Slate, Weirton, W. Va., fullback.
Geneva—John Knapik, Youngstown, O., halfback.

a former gridder for the Irish. He is Charles (Gus) Dorais, who has made an impressive record as a builder of winning teams at the University of Detroit.

IT IS said that Dorais is being considered favorably by the athletic authorities at Purdue and is likely to receive an offer to take Phelan's place if he is at liberty to leave Detroit.

Friends of Dorais figure that the Purdue proposition might appeal to him in view of the fact that winning teams are established there. "No more pioneering for me," he is reported to have said some time ago. "I built from the ground up at Gonzaga and left there to do the same thing at Detroit. If I ever leave Detroit it will be to go to a school where they've had some pretty good teams and know what it's all about."

Jimmy Phelan.

THE oldest of the reigning ring champions was toppled from his throne and a new titleholder donned the junior lightweight crown when Benny Bass knocked out Tod Morgan in the second round of their fight in New York last night. It had looked from this distance as if Morgan's greater boxing skill would enable him to stand off the little Philadelphia slugger and retain his diadem through a point decision, but the combination of boxer and puncher that Bass represents proved superior to cleverness alone. It was a clean-cut victory and a popular one, in Pennsylvania, at least, though it is not without a tinge of regret that fandom sees the passing-out of a boy who was the best champion of the lot in the sense that he never dodged a worthy challenger and defended his title more frequently than any crown-wearer of his time.

MORGAN goes out with honor and a most creditable record. He held his honors longer than any other champion in the present group, having retained the diadem since December 2, 1925, when he won it from Mike Ballerino. And he has a worthy successor in Bass. Benny is one of the greatest little battlers of the present day and will be hard to unseat. He has been seen in this district once, having opened the North Braddock bowl last summer against Steve Smith.

Bass is Pennsylvania's sixth fistic champion following Frank Klaus, George Chip, Harry Greb, Pete Latzo and Tommy Loughran. Klaus won the middleweight crown by defeating Jack Dillon, Georges Carpentier and Billy Papke in 1912, and lost it to Chip, in this city on October 11, 1913. A little more than two months later, Chip again kayoed Klaus here, but on April 7, 1914, he lost the title to Al McCoy, who knocked him out in the first round.

GREB won the American light heavyweight championship from Gene Tunney on May 24, 1922, losing it back to Tunney on February 23, 1923. On August 31, 1923, Greb took the world middleweight title from Johnny Wilson, retaining it until February 23, 1926, when he was defeated by Tiger Flowers.

Latzo wrested the welterweight laurels from Mickey Walker on May 20, 1926, and was dethroned by Joe Dundee on June 3, 1927. Loughran won the world light heavyweight title from Mike McTigue on October 7, 1927, and kept it until a few months ago, when he withdrew from the class undefeated.

Although Dormont, Homestead and Carrick high schools came through with scholastic court victories last night, other local teams didn't fare so well on foreign floors. Westinghouse, Bellevue, Peabody and Clairton meeting defeat.

Langley High fell before the onslaught of Dormont, 22 to 16; Catholic High bowed to Carrick in a fast game, and Taylor Allderdice was nosed out by Homestead, 23 to 20, in a contest in which the last half was played under a proposed new ruling, with no tip-off at center.

New Kensington High proved too good for the Silver Lakers, Westinghouse meeting defeat, 24 to 11, at New Kensington; Peabody fell under a 28-21 count to Farrell High on the latter's court, and Bellevue was beaten, 26 to 19, by Harding High at Aliquippa.

Clairton traveled to North Braddock only to be set down by Scott High, 31 to 16; Sharpsburg nosed out McKees Rocks, 14 to 12, and Stowe High tripped Pennsylvania Training School, 39 to 11.

Monessen barely beat Duquesne High, 22 to 20; Carnegie trimmed Robinson High, 28 to 10, and Claysville topped McDonald, 18 to 10. The lineups:

PANKA BEATEN, GETS DRAW

opponent. He also lacked the latter's heavy punch, but more than made up for these disadvantages with his superior ringcraft and boxing skill, born of greater experience, Panka, a natural fighter and puncher, made the mistake of trying to outbox the Negro in the early rounds, and, although he won the first two by the slightest of margins on his forcing, he looked bad and was on his way to seemingly decisive defeat as Williams, unhurt, picked up courage and began to set the pace with the start of the third round and took liberties which made the fast-tiring Panka look like a novice in comparison.

WILLIAMS FINISHES STRONG

Williams won the third, fourth, fifth and sixth rounds handily, giving him a decided bulge until Panka, suddenly changing his style, went back to fighting, and with heavy pounding of the body, won margins in the seventh and eighth. Then followed the ninth, in which Williams came back to get an even break after being knocked out of the ring, and the tenth, in which he never stopped swing. A summary showed Williams the winner of five rounds, most of them by good margins, Panka the winner in four by slighter edges and one round even. The weights were: Panka, 194; Williams, 180.

Jack DeNeri, of Cleveland, knocked out Frankie Buff, of New Kensington, with a body blow that left the latter groping on the floor trying to get up as he was counted out in the third round. It was a sensational mix between two tall, rangy boxers with freakish styles. First DeNeri and then Buff went down in the first round, and then both hit the floor together, with DeNeri on top. DeNeri had the edge and also won the second round, but was taking a pasting in the third when he sent home the winning blow. Both weighed 125¾ pounds. DeNeri introduced a new wrinkle locally, consisting of sitting with his back to his opponent and facing the crowd between rounds.

BRETSCH BEATS PENNO

Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, 149, handed Young Penno, of McKees Rocks, 148½, a thorough beating in the second bout, but Penno stood up gamely and made a swinging battle of it to the end.

Jackie Wilson, of the Hill, 115½, defeated Young Ketchel, of Steubenville, 112, in the six-round opener.

Al Grayber refereed all of the bouts and Frank Brown and Red Robinson acted as judges in all of them. Bill Schuster was the announcer and A. C. Couch the timer.

Between Rounds

Willie Davies, Charleroi star, boxes Steve Rocco, of Canada, in the semi-finals of the Canadian flyweight tournament at Toronto next Friday night. The winner likely will be matched with the winner of the New York tournament in the final, whenever, and if ever, the New York tournament is concluded.

Kid Chocolate appears in his second bout of the week against Johnny Lawson over the 10-round route at the Olympia A. C. in New York tonight.

Jackie Murray, of the Hill, will box Cowboy Joe Cannall, of Youngstown, in the six-round semi-final to the Joe Trippe-Larry Madge bout at McKeesport next Thursday night. Cannall has boxed in McKeesport only once, beating Teddy Welch there about a year ago.

MADGE TO BOX TRIPPE

The Trippe-Madge bout is a return engagement. On November 28, of last year, Trippe won a decision over the Clevelander in a hard-fought bout in Erie. Trippe has stopped Tug Phillips and Tiger Joe Randall in his two recent appearances in McKeesport, while Madge floored Johnny Plai a few times at the Moose Temple last season. Madge also has boxed Jimmy Jones, of Youngstown, among others.

Due to the fact that Mickey Solmen is under suspension for fouling an opponent at Washington, Pa., he will not be able to box at McKeesport January 2. Ike McFowler, Johnstown Negro heavyweight, will take his place against a good opponent.

TIGERS WIN ANOTHER

Trinity—24. Bogga Ave.—18.
Bauman, F, Miller
Flowers, F, H. Flynn
Belle, C, C. Flynn
Callahan, G, Reinheimer
Harris, G, Feudo
Substitutes—Fassinger, Ryan, Jacobs, Klingensmith. Field goals—Fassinger 5, Flowers 3, Ryan, Belle, Callahan, Miller 3, H. Flynn, C. Flynn, Klingensmith. Fouls—Trinity, 2 out of 8; Bogga Avenue, 3 out of 10. Referee—J. Bond.

The Homestead Ackermans will attempt to regain their winning stride tonight when they meet the Charleroi Lions on the Homestead Elks floor in the only league game on the schedule.

Although Charleroi is the only club in the league that has failed to win a game, Moon Klinzing and his mates are not taking anything for granted, as the Lions have given a good account of themselves in all league games.

League officials announced today that the Lions will play off their postponed game with the Franchinas at Charleroi Christmas afternoon. The Franchinas got lost in a heavy fog last Saturday night, and as a result did not reach Charleroi until 10:30, two hours after the game was scheduled to start.

GOLDENSONS NEAR TOP

The Goldensons today are within a half game of the County League leaders, Morry-Fintex, as a result of their 38-to-27 victory over the Allentown Turners last night. Bobby Angelo, former Grove City star, was in brilliant form for the victors.

The South Side outfit outclassed the Turners, 11 to 4, in the first quarter, but Allentown made a splendid comeback in the second, holding a 15-14 lead at half time.

The Penn Five tripped Edgewood, 27 to 23, in their West Penn League battle last night, while in the Central League, Irene Kaufmann Settlement set down the Forresters, 20 to 11, holding the losers scoreless in the first half.

C. M. C. won out over St. Casimir's in the Catholic Lyceum League, the margin being 22 to 18, and the Mt. Washington Triangles defeated the Penn Cadets, 36 to 28, in the Metropolitan League. The lineups:

Dribbles

Three games are carded tonight in the South Side Catholic Lyceum League. St. Wendelin is at Catholic Men's Club. St. Casimir at St. John, and St. Henry at St. Joseph.

BASKETBALL RULES QUIZ

PLAY NO. 24.

In a game between Purdue and Indiana the score is knotted at 20 to 20 at the conclusion of the first half. After an extra period of five minutes has been played it is Indiana's ball out of bounds and the score is still tied at 24 to 24.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee orders a second extra period of five minutes after one minute intermission. Each extra period is considered as a continuation of the second half, but at the beginning of each extra period the ball is to be put into play on a jump ball at center.

HILL, TROJAN SPEEDSTER, TO FACE PITT

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—It begins to look as if the Trojans of Southern California, Pitt's New Year's Day opponents in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, are going to be able to use Jesse Hill, speed merchant of the local array, in the backfield against the Easterners.

Hill is very, very fast, and consequently, when running behind a line as strong as U. S. C's., which is strong enough to shake him loose most any time, he is very, very dangerous. With all those "very, very's," I must not be foolin' you. Would ya?

The Trojans have not been able to use Hill for some time, for he has been fighting a charley-horse, and two or three other aggravating leg injuries. They had him in fair condition for the Carnegie Tech game, but at the last moment decided to keep him on the shelf for Pitt. I suppose that was doing Pitt a favor, eh?

Yesterday, Coach Howard Jones called his footballers back from their short vacation and started preparation for the Pitt battle. He gave the squad a workout in the morning and another in the afternoon. Neither were particularly strenuous, which did not make the boys mad at all, at all. For the time being, which will be until after the Army-Stanford game, football season of the hot-house or post-season variety, shifts from Southern California, further north. The Army squad, in its 13-car special train, will roll into San Francisco Sunday afternoon. And guess who will be aboard? None other than Mrs. Carver's boy, Jess, your own faithful correspondent, who is going to hop out and meet the Cadets en route.

The Cadets have been bucking bad weather all the way out, and so far, Coach Biff Jones' practice plans have all gone screwy. He has not been able to get his boys out of their cars as often as was planned, which means that it will take just that much longer for them to get going to Palo Alto.

Sunbeams

Carnegie Tech's homeward bound Tartans are in Salt Lake City today, looking over the Mormons, and the great Salt Lake, and most everything else football players like to look over, including t-bone steaks and pretty flappers.

Tomorrow, the squad will be in Colorado Springs, and on Sunday, prior to departing for the final drag home, will view the wondrous Garden of the Gods.

Mr. Frijoles Reardon, which, in his native Mexican, means beans, is scouting about Los Angeles trying to figure out why Pitt is a favorite over U. S. C. for the Rose Bowl game.

Now Mr. Reardon knows all the ins and outs of the wagering racket in this town, and he says that it is very, very strange that Pitt should be on the boards at 10 to 9 over the Trojans so early.

It might be a good idea for any Pittsburghers wishing to wager on Pitt, to get their money up quickly and to snatch at any odds in sight. Certain it is that there will not be any over which to become excited out here. In fact, about the first time the natives get a peek at Jim McMurdo and Jess Quatale strolling under the palms, the situation will be worse.

Von Elm, Hagen Set Pace in West

PASADENA, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—The fighting heart of George Von Elm, Detroit, second ranking amateur in America, yesterday carried him through the opening round of the Pasadena $4,000 open golf tournament to a tie for first place with his fellow townsman, the great Walter Hagen, both turning in cards of 69 for the par 71 municipal golf course.

Sharing second place with Wood was Horton Smith, pride of the Ozarks region; Densmore Shute, Columbus, O.; David Hackney, Lawrence, Mass., and Lew Waldrow, Boston.

Tied for third place were Larry Montes, champion of the Philippines; Jimmy Foulis, Chicago, and Hutt Martin, Reno, Nev.

Fight Results

At Moose Temple—George Panka and Harry Williams drew (referee's decision), 10 rounds; Jack DeNeri knocked out Frankie Buff, 3 rounds; Georgie Bretsch defeated Young Penno, 6 rounds; Jackie Wilson defeated Young Ketchel, 6 rounds.

At New York—Benny Bass knocked out Tod Morgan, 2 rounds; Dom Volante defeated Frank Marchese, 8 rounds; Al Ridgway defeated Ned Tarleton, 8 rounds; Dino Tempesti defeated Walter Babcock, 4 rounds; Murray Kezd defeated Harcord Johnson, 6 rounds; Eddie Benson knocked out Bill Freeman, 1 round.

At Oil City—Mickey Solmen defeated Young Guido, 8 rounds; Battling Gizzy defeated Louis Severo, 8 rounds; Eddie Slick knocked out Young Thomas, 3 rounds; Eddie Conrad defeated Gibby Kirkpatrick, 6 rounds.

At Toledo—Tony Ross defeated Tony Lombardo, 6 rounds; Jack Purvis knocked out Pee Wee Jerral, 3 rounds; Happy Atherton and Franklin Young drew, 6 rounds; Ollie Bartlett defeated K. O. Morgan, 8 rounds.

At Erie—Rosey Rosales defeated Billy Jones, 10 rounds; Joey Goodman defeated Johnny Kusic, 10 rounds; Jimmy Reed defeated Sammy Harris, 10 rounds; Virgil Kincaide defeated Honeyboy Shinner, 6 rounds; Red Jaderberg knocked out Young Sharkey, 2 rounds.

GAMES CHRISTMAS DAY.

West Penn Cup. Semi-final, 2:30 p. m. Gallatin vs. Heidelberg Eagles. (At Carnegie High Field, Carnegie.)

By TOM BIRKS.

Quality, not quantity will mark today's soccer schedule. Only four games are carded, three being league engagements, and one a national amateur cup battle. With due respect to the important league games, it is the playing of the national amateur cup tie at the Homewood Playgrounds between the Pierpoint Motors and Pittsburgh Celtics that is providing the big entertainment of the day.

The Pierpoints have been duplicating the success of Heidelberg in national cup ties during the past few weeks, and now, with the attention of all Western Pennsylvania soccer followers was directed to the Ekequist aggregation, there is reason to feel the greatest crowd of the season will be on hand.

Both the Celtics and Pierpoints have powerful attacks, in fact, the officials of the clubs have been operating on the theory that a good attack is the best defense all season.

Many fans feel that the Celtics' line, as a line, is far better than the Blue and White of Pierpoint, but this is open to question. The hard field is going to make the game fast, and the ball lively. The actities of Jimmy Moreman during the cup ties in Cleveland and Detroit indicate that one of the Green and White halfbacks will have one big mission and that to watch the hard-hitting foreman. On the other hand the Celtics have Barrett, equally dangerous, who, while not so bustling around the goal, is much faster with the ball.

The game will be called at 2:30, national cup rules calling for this early start. The Chartiers Valley League game at Beadling finds Cecil showing its stuff in the bandbox, while the District League finds Lewis S. C. at Crafton, and National Tube at Clan Dogulas.

JONES FAVORS CHANGES IN GRID CODE

By CAPT. BIFF JONES,
Head Football Coach, U. S. Military Academy.

For several years certain football enthusiasts have agitated a change in the rules requiring the use of the so-called play system. Since the beginning of football, games have been run on the time system. Originally the game was two 30-minute halves. A few years before the war it was changed to four 15-minute periods.

This year the rules committee has seen fit to print a statement on the last page of the rules pamphlet to the effect that the committee has no objection to a game being limited to a specified number of plays instead of by time, provided such arrangement is agreed to by both teams. Supplementary regulations covering the changes necessitated by this system can be gotten from R. W. P. (Reggie) Brown. Brown, for a long time a member of the Harvard coaching staff and at present head coach of Boston University, is the originator of the play system.

MAY LEAD TO ERROR

The proposed changes would cause no difficulty for the officials. As a matter of fact, it would simplify very much the responsibility of the field judge, who is at present charged with timing the game. The field judge must start and stop his watch many times during the course of the game, as provided in rule 14 of the football code. This can lead to the possibility of error. I have known cases where this occurred to the extent of several minutes. I have also known cases where the watch went wrong during the course of the game and failed to function. The supplementary regulations adjusting the play system to the present game cover only one printed page. It seems to me that it would simplify the work of the officials somewhat.

It would certainly work no hardship on the players. It would, however, require a change in the quarterback tactics, and this in turn would affect team defensive play. For instance, at the end of a half where the quarterback knows there is a certain number of minutes or seconds left to play, he can speed up his team if the game is a tie or he is behind, or he can slow up the play of his team to let the time run out, thus holding on to the ball as long as possible without giving the other team an opportunity to have the ball for a chance to score.

AVERAGE AROUND 160.

The average game has about 160 plays. Under the present system there will not be exactly 40 plays per period. The period may contain more plays or less plays, depending upon the way the quarterback drives his team. Brown recommends that each period contain 40 plays. A play is a recorded down. A down is recorded under the supervision of the referee except when there is an incompleted kickoff; except a penalty for a foul or fouls, unless declined; and except a try for point.

As under the present rules, the two teams may agree to shorten the length of periods. Under the new system they would lessen the number of plays instead of shortening the time. Likewise the referee may arbitrarily shorten the four periods, in case he considers the game will be interfered with by darkness.

The proposed change, I do not believe, would tend to slow up the game. The quarterback can still have a maximum of 30 seconds in which to get his play off. This would keep the play at least as fast as it is now.

The spectators I think would soon accustom themselves to the change. The score board would show the number of plays left in a period instead of the time left to play. They would know more what to expect at the close of a half. (This may or may not be desirable.) For instance, in the 1928 Army-Notre Dame game they would not have seen a frenzied Army team trying to catch Notre Dame, who was leading 12-6, with two minutes to go. The Army quarterback and team knowing just how many plays were left to them would have been just as frenzied while the ball was in play, but they would not have been in a mad hurry to get the plays off before time ran out. The Army quarterback was not even calling his signals. He simply yelled out the number of the play in order to save time. The fortieth play of the fourth period was being called by Army on Notre Dame's one-foot line. It was Army's first down. Under the proposed change Army would not have been stopped by the gun before they could get the play off. The outcome of the game may have been different. This is just one instance that comes to mind.

This change proposed by Mr. Brown in the rules has more merit than many others that I have heard of. However, it is a change, and most of us think that the rules should be allowed to stand for several years without further adjustment.

Two Operas, Movie Party Feature Radio Bills

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

TWO operas, a gala party in the home of a Hollywood movie star and a special Christmas cheer program for Commander Richard Byrd top local radio bills tonight.

"La Tosca" in its entirety will be presented over WCAE at 7 p. m. with Frances Alda, Mario Chamlee and Pasquale Amato in the leading roles. Act two and part of act three of "La Traviata" will be heard from the Chicago Civic Opera House through KDKA at 10.

Mary Brian, screen actress, will be host to movie stars on the Paramount Public Hour over WJAS at 10 o'clock.

"Merry Christmas, Little America," is the subject of Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr's message to Commander Byrd and his shipmates in the frozen fastness near the South Pole. The Shadyside Presbyterian Church Choir will broadcast on request the favorite hymns of Mrs. Richard Byrd, mother of the commander. These include "Shout the Glad Tidings, Exultingly Sing," "Silent Night," and "Sing, Oh Sing, This Blessed Morning." The Little America broadcast will be put out over KDKA at 11 o'clock.

Puccini's "La Tosca"

Soloists: Frances Alda, Mario Chamlee and Pasquale Amato.

Three main characters enact the story. "Floria Tosca," celebrated singer, is sung by Alda. "Mario Cavaradossi," portrait painter, a character of rare charm and abnegation is sung by Chamlee. "Scarpia," the brutal police chief, is sung by Amato.

The tragedy of the Sardou drama as played by this trio is based on the jealousy aroused in the heart of "Floria Tosca" when she views a picture "Mario" has painted of a woman in the church of San Andrea in Rome. The model for that picture was a sister of a friend of "Mario." Too late did Tosca believe "Mario's" protestations that the model was but an instrument for his art, not his heart. Her jealousy made her inform the authorities of the hiding place of a political fugitive, who was a brother of the model; leading not only to his capture, but also to the death of "Mario," who was hated by "Scarpia." That hate was engendered by "Scarpia's" desire for "Tosca." In the end she, too, must die.

P. A. A. MEETS DETROIT

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

The most attractive aquatic card of the winter campaign is on the book for the P. A. A. tank this evening, with Gordon Mullen's Winged Head swim stars slated to entertain the crack natators of the Detroit Yacht Club in what seems certain to prove a brilliant and keenly contested inter-team struggle.

Stung by their close setback at Cleveland last week, the Pittsburghers are prepared to offer full strength against the powerful invading array, which means that Capt. Bill Wright will lead an outfit including himself, Bill Geissinger, Jay LeFevre, Joe Beacon, Herb Simpson, John Law, Henry Stanton, Joe Pentek, Jim Weaver, Fred Wenck, Frank Heikkila, Lloyd Cochrane, Duane Dowden and Ford David into action.

Stanton, who has been starring in the backstroke event at Mercersburg Academy, has received permission from the athletic authorities of his school to compete for the Red and Gray against the Detroiters. The youthful home ace has progressed rapidly of late and this evening will strive to lower the A. M. A. backstroke mark set a couple of seasons ago by Wyatt, famed Olympic performer of Uniontown. Capt. Wright will likewise attack the record list in seeking honors in the 50 and 100-yard free style contests, while Heikkila, flashy Finn luminary from far-off Montana and most recent P. A. A. acquisition, may pair up with Johnny Law in assaulting best previous time in the 220.

A complete team program will be reeled off, beginning at 8:15. There will be competition at 50, 100, and 220 yards free style, 200-yard relay, 100-yard backstroke, 100-yard breast stroke, fancy diving, and perhaps water polo. W. S. Haddock will serve as referee, with Allen Risedorph, of Carnegie Tech, functioning as starter; G. D. Shrum as announcer, and Gordon Mullen as master of ceremonies.

Four Big Ten Quints In Action Tonight

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Four Western Conference basketball teams will close their practice games schedules tonight, with Indiana's invasion of Philadelphia for a contest with Pennsylvania, the outstanding item.

Chicago will tackle Oberlin at Chicago, Minnesota will entertain Cornell College, of Mt. Vernon, Ia., and Purdue and Butler will meet at Indianapolis.

KEENEY PARK SHUTS DOWN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—While an enthusiastic crowd yelled home a winner in the third race yesterday, officials of the Florida Jockey Club quietly met behind closed doors and decided to cancel the race meeting now being held at Keeney Park, because of threatened injunction proceedings.

An official statement signed by William E. Ford, vice president and manager, said:

"The Florida Jockey Club, Frank A. Keeney, president, operating Keeney Park, has decided to close the race plant and cancel the meeting due to threatened injunction proceedings contemplated by F. O. Eberhart and other reformers, who see in racing not the clean sport that it is, but a violation of the state statutes relative to gambling.

"The Florida Jockey Club has passed a resolution closing the track for this meeting and until such time as the fair-minded citizens of the State of Florida shall insist that their legislators pass laws legalizing the parimutuel system of betting."

MIAMI INDIFFERENT

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Maj. Barclay Warburton, president of the Miami Jockey Club, said closing of Keeney Park would have no effect on plans of the Jockey Club to open a racing meet here shortly after the New Year, and that the meet would be held as planned. He made the statement when he was informed over the telephone of the closing of Keeney Park.

MANAGERS NAMED

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Colgate's football team next year will be managed by Stephen Patterson, of Brooklyn, who was elected yesterday by a committee of 11 students, coaches and faculty members. Willis P. Jones, of Utica, was named manager of freshman football and Ralph Gagt, of Scranton, Pa., manager of golf. Cross country will be managed by William Stringer, of Utica.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Jane Sloan Makes Bow Today

THERE'S something in these frosty days with a cold wind blowing that makes one's blood tingle, especially with holiday time so near. Perhaps that's why there have been so many teas and dances given during the last few weeks, now that everyone's feeling so festive. And perhaps, too, that's why so many debs are making their bows.

The University Club ballroom is the scene today of another debut, with Jane Arnold Sloan, daughter of the Andrew E. Sloans, of Moorhead place, being presented to society by her mother at a buffet luncheon.

The bud is wearing a long, clinging gown of crepe Elizabeth in a soft, turquoise blue shade, and her mother is wearing a dress of the same material in a beige shade. Jane's flowers are Talisman roses, and her mother is wearing orchids.

The ballroom is decorated in keeping with the Yuletide season, with balsam trees concealing the corners and the orchestra. The chandeliers are hung with crystal and evergreens, and the walls are festooned with smilax. Poinsettias center the table, lighted with red tapers.

* * *

OF course you all know that the event of tonight is the ball in the Pittsburgh Club at which poplar Laura Evans, daughter of the Howard S. Evanses, will make her bow. And did you know that a dinner for the debutantes and a few of the girls who made their debuts during the last few seasons will precede the ball? Laura's father and mother will be the hosts for the dinner, too, to be held in the Pittsburgh Club.

Betty Jones, daughter of the T. D. Joneses, of New Haven, Conn., and Mary Greenway Russell, of Winchester, Va., who were Laura's roommates at Miss Porter's School at Farmington, are here to attend the debut, and are guests for the week-end at the Evans home.

James A. Farrell, Jr., of New York, is another week-end guest of the Evans family, and will attend the ball, too.

* * *

STILL another party added to the list honoring boys and girls home from school! The David Paterson Bennetts, of North Highland avenue, will entertain the school set with a dance in their home on the evening of January 1 in honor of their son, George Bollinger Bennett.

By the way, the Bennetts have been in New York, and on Thursday attended the tea given by Henry Waters Taft, of New York, at Sherry's for Louise Behn, debutante daughter of the Hernand Behns, of New York.

* * *

JANE FORRESTER, daughter of the W. A. Forresters, of Wilkinsburg, is home from the Bennett School, Millbrook, N. Y., for the holidays. Her brother, W. A. Forrester, Jr., of New York, will be home for Christmas Day.

* * *

AT the cotillion Tuesday I heard Lillian Henry Rose, daughter of the George Phelps Roses, of Sewickley, was going to be married on January 3, but not until today did the family confirm the rumor. A few weeks ago Lillian's engagement to John M. Kimball, of Portland, Me., son of the late John Kimball, was announced. The wedding will take place at 5:30 o'clock in St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church, Sewickley, with the Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell as officiant.

* * *

AND another engagement has been added to the month of Christmas. The Sumner Boyer Elys, of Pembroke place, have made known the betrothal of their daughter, Esther Stockton Ely, to Clymer Sprague Bowen, of Chicago, son of Mrs. Charles Clement Bowen, of Piedmont, Cal. The wedding will take place early in March, I've been told.

* * *

THIS afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woods Grier, of Wilkins avenue, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Janet Grier, to William G. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, of Winterton street, at a bridge tea in the Garden Tea Room.

* * *

MISS BETTY STEVENS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stevens, of Brownsville road, and Miss Virginia Mecklem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mecklem, of Brownsville road, will return today from Simmons College, Boston, for the holidays.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. JAMES MCBRIEN, of Geneva street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Friday night in their home with a dinner. Their five children, 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren and the Rev. D. E. Maxwell, who officiated at their wedding, were among the guests.

* * *

MRS. IDA PARKER, of Mifflin avenue, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Katherine Parker, to Dr. Howard Kettering, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Kettering, of Edgewood.

* * *

CHILDREN of members of the Keystone Athletic Club will be entertained at a Christmas party Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the club gymnasium. H. S. Carrett is chairman of the event.

* * *

MISS EUGENIE HARSHBARGER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Harshbarger, of Gladstone road, is returning home from Swarthmore College for the holidays.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM LEE WOODCOCK, of Hollidaysburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Lee Woodcock, to Capt. Sydney R. Peters, of Birmingham, England, who is an officer in the church army of the Church of England, and has been engaged in the organization of church army work in the Episcopal Church in America.

* * *

MISS MAXINE YORTY, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. V. J. Yorty, of Penn avenue, will return home from New York, where she has been studying, to spend the holidays with her parents.

Breeskin to Play In Bellefield Church

Special music by Elias Breeskin, violinist, and Joseph Schueker, harpist, will feature the morning services in the Bellefield Presbyterian Church. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Robert MacGowan, will speak on "The Symbols of Christmas." At the 5 o'clock vesper services the church quarter, assisted by a chorus of 25 voices and a cast of 30 persons will present a medieval mystery play.

91 Homes in Sharon To Get Yule Baskets

SHARON, Pa., Dec. 20.—Ninety-one homes in Sharon will be given Christmas baskets by the Valley Community Chest this year.

MESSAGE OF CHRISTMAS

The Rev. B. M. Paul, pastor of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church, Thirty-ninth street, will speak tomorrow morning on "A Christmas Message." At the evening service a choir of 25 voices will sing in the cantata, "The Story of Christmas."

A pageant of the Christ Child will be presented tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock by the young people of the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street. There will be more than 70 young people in the cast. The pageant is under the supervision of Mrs. Louise H. Reel, director of religious education. At the morning service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton will speak on "Naming the Child."

A Christmas cantata, "Good Tidings," will take place tomorrow morning at the 11 o'clock service in the Second United Presbyterian Church, North Negley and Stanton avenues. At the evening service the pastor, the Rev. W. R. McGeary, will speak on "God's Message of Good News."

"The Quest of Wisdom" will be the morning theme of the Rev. Dr. W. E. Allen, pastor of the Lemington Presbyterian Church, Vassar and Grotto streets. At the evening service the pageant, "Tidings of Great Joy," will be presented.

Epiphany Lutheran Holds Yule Service

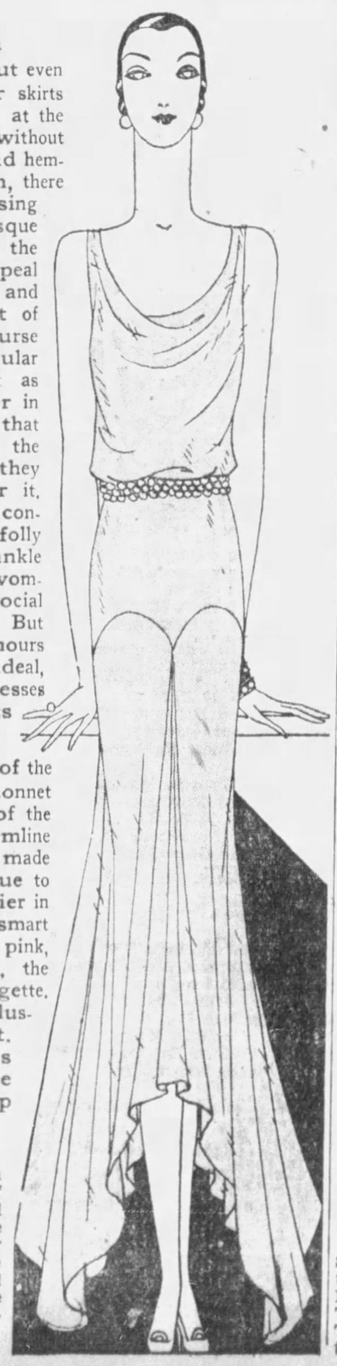
Members of the Epiphany Lutheran Church, Lemington and Paulson avenues, will conduct their first Christmas services in their new church building with a special program tomorrow. At the evening service the pastor, the Rev. A. C. Waldkoenig, will have charge of the program in which 99 children and adult members of the congregation will take part.

Young People Join In Singing Carols

"The Word Made Flesh" will be the morning theme of the Rev. Dr. James M. Ferguson, pastor of the Bellevue United Presbyterian Church. At the evening service the members of the Young Peoples' Societies will combine with the congregation in the singing of Christmas carols.

BEAUTIFUL EVENING FROCKS PREDOMINATE THE MODE

Sketched in Paris



Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Dec. 21.—We come out even in the evening, that is, our skirts do. The evening frocks shown at the recent collections, were almost without exception of even, long all-around hemline. To the younger generation, there is a delightful feeling of dressing up in donning the very picturesque gowns of the moment, and to the more mature woman, the appeal is through grace, dignity and sophistication, without a hint of the blatant or bizarre. Of course there are models with irregular hemlines, but these are not as frequently now seen as earlier in the season. It would seem that their duty was to consolidate the success of the long skirt, and they did indeed pave the way for it. For daytime wear, skirts are considerably shorter, it would be folly to try to impose clinging, ankle length skirts on the modern woman with her multitudinous social and business engagements. But long skirts for the evening hours of luxurious relaxation, are ideal, as are the perfectly lovely dresses seen at the popular resorts lately.

* * *

FROM the new collection of the very clever Madame Vionnet we have had sketched one of the best of the irregular hemline dresses shown. This was made for a client who remains true to the type of dress shown earlier in the season, but it is ideally smart just the same. It is in pale pink, the bodice of panne velvet, the circular skirt of matching georgette. The girdle is of pearl beads clustered closely to form a flat belt. Wholly characteristic of Vionnet's models is the draped bodice, the same effect being used in a deep "V" at the back.

* * *

ALMOST all of the new Paquin models for evening are of even all-around length. This gown is of pale gray-blue ribbed silk. A shirred cording of the material edges the decolletage. The bodice is slightly bloused at both front and back and the straight close skirt has a shirred panel in the back. At the right side of the skirt above the knee is posed a smashing bow of dark blue taffeta.

CLUB NOTES

AT the Liberty Parent-Teacher Association's community Christmas last night the school was presented with the lights on the Christmas tree, these to be used for the community trees in future years. The 900 children of the school gathered around the large illuminated tree last night and sang carols under the direction of Roy Deets, instructor of music in the school. Miss Lucetta Burns, in charge of the program, introduced the Rev. Dr. David Lang, who made the opening prayer, and Dr. William M. Davidson, who addressed the assemblage. The social committee under Mrs. H. J. Frost's chairmanship served refreshments in the school building, which was decorated, and during the refreshment hour Miss Grace Evans sang, with Miss Means at the piano. A special feature was a visit from Santa, who presented each pupil with a Christmas stocking.

* * *

A CONFEDERATE battleflag that once belonged to Gen. Julian S. Carr, a former commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, was presented yesterday to the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, by Mrs. Robert F. Metcalf, a niece of Gen. Carr. The historic flag is of regulation size and will be used in forthcoming outdoor exercises to be held by the chapter. Mrs. C. W. Wrenshall had charge of the program. Mrs. John Pryor Cowan, president of the chapter, and Mrs. Leonard Rawsthorne, delegates to the general convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, gave their reports and national activities for the year were outlined. Mrs. Cowan announced that the Pittsburgh chapter would participate in the nation-wide program and initiate several educational and patriotic projects of its own. Many new members were reported.

* * *

SOMETHING a little different is being planned by the Southern Club for its charity ball this year. The ballroom of the Hotel Schenley, where the affair will be held Friday night, will be decorated to represent an old-fashioned garden. A group of young girls serving as aids will be costumed as in the colonial period with wigs and old-fashioned nosegays adding to the picture. They will dance a minuet to open the ball and Nancy Metcalfe, attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Metcalfe, will do a solo dance. Miss Margaret Leyda will sing to violin obligato by Miss Mary Redmond and piano accompaniment by Mrs. Adalaine Merrill Biddle, all of them in costume.

* * *

THE Turtle Creek Woman's Club has changed the date of the anniversary meeting and will hold it January 24 at the Y. W. C. A. The Pitt Players will present Eugene O'Neil's "Isle" as the program. At last night's meeting of the club Mrs. H. O. Cochran was director and Mrs. Bess M. Sarber, of Grant street, was hostess. Assisting her were Mrs. W. H. Waugaman and Mrs. Jeremiah Bair. At roll call Christmas quotations were given, there was Christmas caroling by the club and a program of readings and music by a group of little folk, including Phyllis Myhre, Roberta Hicks, Samuel Huhn, James Lantz and Allen Ocker, with Miss Alberta Church accompanying. Mrs. Grant Fisher read several original poems.

* * *

MRS. W. H. MELLODY, of Gross street, entertained the Sunshine Club, a charitable organization, at her home on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Blank, Mrs. Frank Maline and Mrs. Charles Manke were present as guests of the club.

* * *

"PEACE" was the subject of yesterday's meeting of the Sheraden Woman's Club and the topic upon which the speaker, the Rev. Dr. R. F. Galbreath, talked. The club choral, directed by Mrs. T. C. Pitzer, sang, and during the tea hour Mrs. S. Clyde Scott and Mrs. N. R. Criss presided at the table. The club will give a dance for the college set Friday night in Sherodd Temple.

* * *

A CHRISTMAS party for the needy children of the community will be held in the Duquesne High School auditorium Tuesday night by the Women's Civic Club. The club is planning a party for the mothers of the children shortly after Christmas.

* * *

THE Travellers' Club will have its Christmas luncheon Friday in the Congress of Clubs with a program including vocal numbers by Mrs. William S. Munn and Mrs. Walter A. Davis, Mrs. Morgan J. Miller accompanying, and readings by Mrs. E. T. Crowder. Mrs. R. W. Berberich is chairman.

Uniontown Hero Given War Cross

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Smith Fuller, of Uniontown, Pa., former sergeant in Co. D, One Hundred and Tenth Infantry, Twenty-eighth Division, American Expeditionary Force, was awarded a distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism in action during the attack on the Bois de Grimpettes, near Courmont, France, July 30, 1918.

The citation accompanying the medal said that Fuller "took command of his company after all the officers had been either killed or wounded, and successfully held the line with only 25 men for two days and nights.

Yule Party Given at Congress

AN automobile accident changed the program for the Congress of Clubs' Christmas festival which was held yesterday. Some days ago Mrs. Chester F. Johnston, chairman of drama, who was writing and directing the pageant intended for presentation yesterday, received such injuries that she was unable to go on with her pageant work. So instead of the program as originally planned, bits of it were given, making in the entirety an hour or so of entertainment that lacked nothing but continuity. The four departments, drama, recreation, music and literature, participated. Mrs. J. Charles Wilson, program chairman, by request opened the program with a Christmas reading, following which the choral, its members white-robed and much improved in the quality of their performance, entered the darkened auditorium carrying electric torches. George Miller accompanied them in the several carols which they contributed.

The recreation department offered some of its members in dances to three Grecian songs which were sung by Elsie Breese Mitchell, music chairman, with flute obligato by Joseph Mariano. The dancers were Allen Eckel, Peggy Biggs, Helen Johns, Sarah Jane Pearce, Johnetta Grimm, Edythe Rickley (who was the cutest little bunny one could ever imagine), Mary Jo Kunkle, Margaret Mary McQuillan, Dorothy Pannabaker, Anne Wehner, Louise Schempp, Betty Lewis and the drama chairman, Helen Bennett. Charlotte Enty accompanied the dancers.

Marie Tello Phillips, literature chairman, read Christmas poems, her own and those of her father, Manley Tello; Robert Schaffer, violinist, with Arthur Owen at the piano, played one number; Helen Irwin read Kenneth Sawyer Goodman's play, "Dust of the Road," and the program closed with a lovely tableau of The Adoration in which Mrs. Walter W. Allen, Mrs. Frances Schreiner Weber, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. A. D. Kirk and Mrs. Neva Morris participated, Mrs. Mitchell and the choral singing.

The program followed luncheon at which the invocation was by Mrs. Robert T. Alexander and during which Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, Congress president, was presented with a Chinese mat. A resolution was adopted asking the Senate to ratify the World Court adherence protocol.

PIANO LESSONS GIVEN FREE

Instead of a piano, a mechanical soundless keyboard is used. The keys are taught as the pupil learns melodies.

Classes have already been organized and are in session at the Wurlitzer Music Foundation school, Wurlitzer building, 719 Liberty avenue.

Women, boys and girls, are all taking the course. It has met with the instant approval of many organizations throughout the district. It does away with the usual expense of taking music lessons during the preliminary period. Music teachers find it brings them many more pupils. It gives parents an opportunity to find whether their children are adapted to learning to play the piano.

Three subscriptions to the Sun-Telegraph will admit any person to classes. The orders are for 26 weeks, and must be new ones. Teachers at the Wurlitzer Foundation school urge early enrollment, to insure satisfactory assignment to convenient classes.

BELL EXPANSION DISCUSSED

Local officials of the Bell Telephone Company today were conferring with Leonard H. Kinnard, president of the Bell Telephone Company, of Pennsylvania, regarding the company's plans for the coming year. Mr. Kinnard is in Pittsburgh today especially for the conference with F. J. Chesterman, vice president and general manager of the local office, and other officials.

Mr. Kinnard said that during 1930, $7,600,000 will be expended here for additional telephone plant and that the total for the state will be $44,000,000. Among those attending the conference were heads of the operating departments in this area. Mr. Kinnard was guest of honor at a luncheon in the headquarters building, attended by the supervisory women employes. Tonight he will address a group of local employes in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The company's plans call for a $215,000,000 expansion program for the state, to be carried out during the next five years. The expansion for Pittsburgh includes the new $3,000,000 addition now being built to the headquarters building and a new building to house the Lafayette and Hemlock offices.

Heinroth Organ Recital Program

Dr. Charles Heinroth will give an organ recital in which selections from works of the most noted composers of Christmas music will be played this evening in Carnegie Music Hall. The program:

Overture and Pastoral Symphony, from "The Messiah" ..... Handel
The Holy Night (Noel) ..... Buck
"The Annunciation" ..... Malling
Benedictus ..... Reger
Variations on an Ancient Christmas Carol ..... Dethier
Pastorale Mystique, from "Le Jongleur de Notre-Dame" ..... Massenet
First movement of "Hymn of Praise" ..... Mendelssohn
Maestoso Con Moto. Allegro.
Christmas in Sicily ..... Yon
"Hosannah" ..... Wachs

FIGHT STREET NAME CHANGE

Petitions today were being circulated among residents of Overbrook, protesting the action of Borough Council Thursday night in changing the names of several streets and avenues in the community. The borough solons held their last meeting Thursday night, the borough to become a part of the city next month. At this gathering the names of a dozen thoroughfares were changed, the new names being those of political and civic leaders in the community.

The first protestant petition was started by residents of Overbrook boulevard, who learned yesterday that the boulevard had been changed from Overbrook to Ernest boulevard in honor of Burgess Ernest E. Meier. One street in the borough also was named after Mayor Charles H. Kline, of Pittsburgh.

According to William B. Hodby, a member of the Overbrook Board of Trade, the subject will be brought up at a meeting of the board next Friday night.

TEACHER QUEST ENDS TUESDAY

There are only a few days left for voting in the East Liberty search for Pittsburgh's most popular teacher. The campaign closes Christmas Eve, the last shopping day before Christmas, when the ballot boxes will be sealed to await counting of the votes.

Authorized East Liberty merchants, under the auspices of the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce, have been conducting the quest. Valuable Philco DeLuxe radios will be awarded to the 15 teachers judged the most popular among their children. They will be competing with teachers conducting classes of the same grades in the public, private and parochial schools.

Votes are obtained by anyone making a purchase of 10 cents or more at the store of an authorized East Liberty merchant. One vote is awarded for each 10 cents paid for the purchase.

Man Seeks Custody Of Child, Sues Wife

Frank F. Hall, of Pittsburgh, seeking the custody of his daughter Geraldine, 10, procured a writ of habeas corpus in Common Pleas Court, directing his wife, Mrs. Aurelia Hall, of McKees Rocks, to produce the child in court for a hearing Monday. Hall alleged that his wife took their daughter and refused to permit him see her. He averred that he has a suitable home awaiting the child.

PARTY READY FOR NEWSIES

Elaborate preparations have been completed for the Sun-Telegraph carrier boys' holiday parties to be given at the Aldine Theater Monday and Tuesday mornings. Boys are urged to be sure to get their tickets today from the district supervisors.

Wasn't it wonderful for the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company to offer us the now famous "Televox" as a part of the entertainment? It's the latest creation in electric marvels — so wonderful that it is really hard to describe. It is just a big iron and steel made man that works like a human being — actually does everything that it is told to do, just as if it had a human brain. Wait until you see it! What a thrill you kids will get!

Ann Harding

Then the management of the Aldine Theater is going to put on the complete program that popular theater is showing next week, including the magnificent talking picture "Condemned" with those two great stars—Ronald Colman and Ann Harding. Then there'll be a "Krazy Kat" reel, a news-reel, and 20 minutes of song and dance in a technicolor revue called "Mexicana."

What a morning! What a show! And all for Sun-Telegraph carrier boys! Let's go!

MALONE FORCES OUTWIT KLINE

That the Malone political faction "put a fast one over" on the Kline faction, became evident in Quarter Sessions Court when Judge Harry H. Rowand signed an order appointing Isaac Hall, 12 Trent street, to be judge of elections in the Second Precinct of the First Ward.

There was no opposing candidate. Hall's petition was presented by Attorney Ralph Smith, recently secretary of the Malone for mayor campaign committee.

Hall takes the place on the election board made vacant last week by the death of Mrs. Mary Feldman, wife of Harry Feldman, city assessor and Kline leader in the Fifth Ward. It was said the Feldman group had not thought to act so quickly in supplying a candidate for the place, following Mrs. Feldman's death, as there will be no election for several months.

Miss Pat by Elenore Meherin

Kidnaper Warns Pat That She Will Starve If She Runs Away

CHAPTER XXXIX.

LIKE one with feet caught in railroad tracks when the locomotive comes roaring on; in blind, throbbing terror like that Pat saw the pilot approach. Had he found the way out? In the morning they would leave?

But before that she would be disposed of—a smashed, broken body on the dark canyon floor. Impossible that she should stand here helpless while death bore down.

Her mind flew about seeking escape. Should she plead with them? This tall, thin fellow who now leaned against the cabin door waiting with cold intensity his partner's arrival, could doom or save her. Should she let him know she'd overheard his plan; beg him not to carry it out? Life is sweet—oh, wildly precious. Why should he dash it from her?

She drew harsh, tearing breaths in an effort to gain her voice. She squeezed Billy's hand and shook her head impatiently when he tried to pull her away.

No answer.

"I hope so. I've several important dates over the week-end." Then with a faint smile, managing to look up to the man's face:

"What are you going to do with me? I've a sneaky hunch that I'm not exactly welcome on your party, and when we find the way out, you'll likely leave me behind. Please don't!"

"Listen, Mr. Tom. I know you're in a hell of a fix. And I don't simplify your problem. But you needn't leave me here to die of starvation or to plunge myself over the cliff. Being just past 20, I'll appreciate it if you let me follow along. I'm awfully good at keeping my mouth shut. You can dump me on the road anywhere and I'll crawl home and never say a word about you and your business. You see, this unannounced trip I've taken is awfully hard on my mother. She'll really like to have me back—"

Slim tossed the neat coil of wire to the cabin seat and with a gruff: "Optimistic about finding a way out, aren't you?" sauntered out to meet his partner.

They walked to the edge, their two figures outlined against the flaming canyon walls. The setting sun swept by, and far as one could look were mile-long walls of living fire; were castles, and mountains, and mighty spires wrought by gorgeous, unconsuming flame.

"Please, Pat, sit down. You said you'd tell that story. Why don't we go away? I don't like those men: He hurt you. He squeezed your arm. Yes, he did! I saw him."

Now they were sitting around that little stove. They were offering her food. And there was no guessing what words they'd said as they stood there on the rim of the canyon.

"Would they feed me if they meant to murder me?"

Pat sat with the tin plate idling in her lap, her thought drowned. Ah—when men are to be hanged they always allow them delicacies. And the papers publish what they have eaten for their last meal!

A dozen times—a hundred times she had almost sunk in this hopeless, engulfing misery; and a hundred times she came darting violently back to the surface. They wouldn't do it!

Why, here was Ace talking about a deer he had seen. If he'd had the rifle with him he could have shot him. He was saying affably:

"Pussy is hungry. Didn't you hear me say 'Meow?' Can I take the bacon?"

He had his fingers—they were extraordinarily soft and slender—poised over Pat's plate.

"When are we going to have a chop? Why don't we tell them to cook some meat—REAL meat? Is it night time again?"

It was warm, and the shadows emerged slowly from the abyss; they strode up the dark purple stairways and through the gigantic arches of the opposing cliffs. Slim was gathering up tools, putting them in the cabin. Ace was sitting here alongside her, helping himself to more coffee.

Faintly:

"Thanks—you keep them. We may be here quite a while. You'll need them, perhaps. Suppose there's a road out?"

"There should be."

"We're rather sorry prisoners, aren't we? Will your partner get the plane repaired?"

"Then we only have the hope of finding a trail from here? Did you find one today?"

She saw the fiery tip of his cigaret and in its light, for an instant, his weak mouth as it blew the smoke upward. Then she felt his hand closing on hers—then his fingers moving up her bare arm:

"Oh, I've a grand notion that your partner doesn't intend to include me on the return trip. I sort of feel from the chilly way he looks at me that he'd just as leave march off and leave me here to perish."

Ace laughed.

"If he does that, shall I come back and gather you up?"

She grew suddenly sick. She was almost screaming:

"Enjoying yourself? Suppose you step over here and gather up the garbage!

Why don't we run away? Isn't HE mean! He's wicked!"

Utterly dark. Pat sat on the ground, and Billy in her arms. She drank down the blessed night air. It was refreshing. She took huge mouthfuls of air.

Then the man was calling. She hadn't strength to rise. He came up and pulled her to her feet.

"Gee—you're a hell of a sport, aren't you!" she said with unguessed fire. "Can't you give me half an hour's privacy!"

"Yes—you can have this whole chasm to yourself if you want it! You can wander as far as you like in this direction . . . . but don't start off with that kid toward the slope."

"I wasn't!"

"Then don't look like it again. You'll only starve to death. Haven't you sense enough to know that?"

TWO-IN-ONE GIRL

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"BRIGHT angel Monday; dark divv-angel Tuesday; haloed Wednesday; horned Thursday; good baby Friday; ba-a-ad baby Saturday. And Sunday—just my best girl, be she dark or bright—angel or divvil. That's my girl."

Like Cleopatra of the hair that nobody agrees upon—some say gold, some black, some red—but whose eyes and learning and fascination there has never been any dispute about—my girl is unchanging in her infinite variety. Perhaps that's why I come back Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday AND Saturday, AND Sunday. Perhaps I am only coming, curious to see WHO I will find at her house this time. Perhaps that's why I never make a wide jaw—Ho, hum!—when I'm with HER. Perhaps that's why my legs carry me her way when the sun goes down, why I get heart failure—if that's what you call a kind of breathless suspense—toward five o'clock p. m., why I find all trains earth-worm slow and buses like tortoises for speed.

When Love grows older, if he's still at my house, his food will be a more substantial thing. But just now he feeds upon the deliciousness of a rounded chin, the sound of a laugh and a song—but chiefly upon anticipation of change.

And my rose of the world can change. She is a Burbank rose—half one thing and half another. She is more than Burbank rose—she is half one thing and half another in the morning, and neither of those two colors in the afternoon!

She will fall upon my neck and wind herself around my heart, and admire another pretty girl in the twilight. And she will not speak to me, will be as far off as the sun itself, and will glower at that same pretty girl's name in the moonlight of that same eve.

Hi Ho for my girl. She is my two-in-one girl. My dark girl with a silver lining. My angel—my dark spirit of trouble. HEART-trouble.

NELL BRINKLEY.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

You Can't De-bunk Santa Claus.

SOME say that the "Christmas Spirit" went out of the world when we sophisticated moderns lost the power to be SURPRISED. That we are all so busy grabbing for the things at the foot of the tree that we forget to look up at the Star at the top, and to remember what it is all ABOUT.

HELEN ROWLAND

But, there are so many KINDS of "Christmas Spirit"!

There is the "Christmas Spirit" that you sense everywhere—

In Mother's harassed expression as she checks over the long list of Those-who-MUST-be-remembered!

In the stenographer's pensive pose as she mentally calculates just how far she can stretch the firm's pay check; in the office boy's winged feet as he visions an extra ten in his pay envelope.

In the ringing of the bells on the street corners, and the gay red costumes of the Santas who call our attention to the "pot that must be kept boiling."

In the glowing department store advertisements, and the charity appeals in your mail each morning.

In the sudden falling off in your bachelor acquaintances, who won't be "tormented" with Christmas shopping — but will drop around again by New Year.

And there is that mystic thrill of the winter solstice — that "jes'fore Christmas" feeling that something wonderful, delightful, altogether magical is GOING to happen! That little clutch of eagerness and joy in the throat, which comes to every human being, as long as there is one drop of youth in his blood and in his heart.

And there is the spirit of childish dream and fairyland—and of Santa Claus with a pack on his back. The beautiful "ghost-spirit" of youth and illusions and belief - in - things, which touches the soul of the hardest old Cynic, and softens it, and lights it up.

For, after all, Christmas is just the symbol of the Glow of Youth and faith in the heart—isn't it?

The season of open hearts and open pocket-books—or cheerful givers and cheerful fibbers—the bright Oasis of Illusion in the modern desert of materialism.

And, for some of us, the night before Christmas will always be a night of mystery and magic, when almost ANYTHING wonderful MIGHT happen!

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Personal Gift Appropriate

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please let me know if it would be proper to give a wedding present to a draughtsman in the company I work for (where I am employed as office boy), who is getting married within the next month? He has been very nice to me and has helped me on several occasions with my work in the office. Therefore, I am wondering if I should give him a personal gift in order to show my appreciation for his willingness to always help me? As the office force always makes a collection for a gift perhaps it would not be proper for me to give him a personal gift, as I would not want to embarrass him—he is 11 years older than I.

While I am friendly with this chap, I haven't met the girl, but expect to meet her before the wedding.

I am, therefore, writing to ask if you think I should give him a personal gift, or just be included with the rest of the employes in the collection for a gift from the company? W. T. F.

UNDER the circumstances, I think that it would be especially generous and thoughtful and appropriate for you to give the man, who has been so kind to you, a personal wedding gift, something for himself. Then, too, make your contribution to the general fund for the wedding present that is to be sent to the bride-to-be.

Introductions

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A and B had an argument on the subject of hand-shaking. A says it is incorrect for women or girls of the same age to shake hands with one another; B says it is correct. Would you please tell me which is right? CURIOUS.

WHILE it is not exactly incorrect for a woman to shake hands with another woman of the same age when they are introduced, it is not often done now. Bowing and saying "How do you do?" are enough to acknowledge an introduction of this kind. However, when they have known each other and meet again, it is correct for them to shake hands, if they wish.

Teatime Calls

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

We are moving to a suburban town and I understand the neighbors generally call.

I would not know what to do. Is one supposed to offer tea? Just what is expected?

A READER.

WHEN the neighbors come to call—chat about "this and that." And since calls are often made at the hours about tea time, it is hospitable to offer tea. And few things make a call more pleasant than this most friendly of beverages.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Tries to Explain Tangled Affairs to Paul

IN our apartment, from which the indefatigable Purnell already had removed all traces of the announcement dinner except the roses, Philip Veritzen and I faced each other from our seats opposite and across a small table. With burlesqued mimicry of a head waiter Lillian had shown us to those seats, and then, stepping back, had swept us a low bow.

"Now, old dear," she said, addressing the great theatrical producer, "I've given you the opportunity to unbutton your mental pockets and turn out the contents upon the table. But please remember to make your colloquy snappy. The hostess mustn't leave her party in the lurch too long, you know."

There was a warning to him in her words, I knew, and he acknowledged it as he smiled an adieu to her.

"I shall forget nothing," he said, but the door scarcely had closed behind her before he broke the tacit understanding between them.

"There!" he said, his eyes going from my face to the blossoms in a fashion most embarrassing to me. "Now this is perfect. A beautiful woman should always have roses near her."

"You did not come here to talk of women and roses, did you?" I asked caustically.

"You are both right and wrong," he said soberly. "I did come in here to talk of women—one in particular, the Princess Olina. You heard that stifled 'No!' she uttered when the betrothal of Prince Georges to your husband's niece was announced. What did it mean?"

"How far may I go in kindly criticism of your future daughter-in-law?" I asked.

"I will listen to anything from you," he said with subtle stress upon the pronoun, and I guessed that I had made a good choice of words in referring to the future status of the Transvanian Princess, even though they were wholly mendacious on my part.

"Then," I said hastily, ignoring the emphasis of his words and glances, "that exclamation of Princess Olina's meant to my mind only the plaint of a spoiled child who wants to 'eat her cake and have it too.'"

He started violently.

"Just what do you mean by that?" he demanded. "Do you think that the Princess is undecided which man she wishes to marry — my boy or Prince Georges?"

"No, that is not my meaning," I said hastily, thinking that for the present I probably was reflecting Princess Olina's emotions truthfully. "I think that she is very much infatuated with Noel."

"You think it only infatuation, then?" he interposed quickly.

"Isn't all love infatuation?" I countered quickly, and something kindled in his eyes which made me drop my own.

"That's a question which needs unlimited time for discussion," he said with teasing laughter in his voice. "But I'll rest content with your assurance that Princess Olina"—he rolled her title with relish— "is still in love with my cub. Why, then, the protesting 'No!' when she heard the announcement of Prince Georges' betrothal?'

"Because," I said patiently, "she has an exaggerated idea of the 'divinity' which 'doth hedge a king,' and she was shocked that her old friend, the heir to the throne of Trees, should be coitemplating marriage with a commoner, such as she deems Mary. I have a shrewd idea, also, that Prince Georges in days gone by gave her the opportunity to become the future Queen of Trees. She does not want the title herself, but she is feminine enough to rebel at seeing a girl whom she deems an inferior being proffered it."

"You have used the words 'a commoner' and 'an inferior.' Do you mean to infer that the Princess looks upon my son as such?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Plain and Sane Living Secret of Progress

PLAIN living and straight thinking had much to do with the development of the wonderful ancient Greek race. They lived plain, simple lives, ate the plainest foods, took abundant exercise, lived much in the fresh air, and believed and practiced cleanliness.

DR. COPELAND

The Greek health temples were provided with every known kind of bathing facilities. The Greek stadium and their vast sports grounds are famous. Here they indulged in all kinds of physical sports. "All the citizens were to be re-created" through them, one of their writers said.

They had sun baths, water baths and sand baths. The use of massage was developed to the highest degree.

The Greeks had faith in the curative powers of Nature. Their sick were treated largely through diet rather than through drugs.

That first great physician and surgeon of the Greek race, Hippocrates, preached this doctrine. He believed in preventive health measures to promote the health of the race.

Today we see a trend to those good old days when people had the true knowledge of how to live, and acted upon it. Why will people blindly go on, day, after day, eating the wrong food, violating the simplest rules of good health? The right diet, proper exercise and correct living may save us from endless suffering, and days of inefficient work through ill health.

Many of the early writers of antiquity condemned over-refined foods. The Greeks lived largely on the coarser foods, whole-meal bread, the homely vegetables, fruits, fish, oil. They used little meat and drank an abundance of pure water. In many things we can do no better than to follow their example.

We have in these days many fine sports, but they are for the few, rather than for everybody. It is true Americans have within the last few years turned to the out-of-door sports and games, mountain climbing, riding and walking, but the mass of people do not exercise enough. Walking is one of the finest exercises in the world and its practice costs nothing.

While every facility for bathing is ours, with our private and public baths, cleanliness is overlooked by a good many. There is nothing so good for man and animal as frequent bathing. A warm or tepid bath every day keeps the body in vigorous health; the skin and nerves and circulation are stimulated by it. There are some who cannot bathe in cold water, but for those who can the cold shower hardens the body and builds up resistance to disease. The Greeks knew this. They followed these rules.

By practicing moderation in our living, our years will be filled with comfort and efficient service. If we do live rightly we shall build up a stronger and better race of men and women.

Horoscopes

Sunday, December 22.

SUNDAY'S horoscope may not be read as a propitious one, as it is likely there will be inharmony and friction in domestic, social or romantic affiliations. It is possible the mature may be downcast or depressed, thereby provoking some disagreeable situations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which their own depressing melancholy moods may provoke domestic, social or affectional discord or strife. They should cultivate an optimistic outlook and attempt constructive work against all gloomy forebodings which are ephemeral.

A child born on this day may be disposed to depress its own circumstances and thereby thwart its own advancement, unless it has an optimistic and cheerful attitude in life instilled.

Monday, December 23.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a conflicting one, with much encouragement for expansion and new undertakings, but with the promise also of many stubborn obstacles to confront. Employment is under an adverse ruling and there is danger of sudden change or unwelcome removal or journey. But with perseverance the benignant sway of Jupiter may offset all disadvantages.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of unforeseen change and removal, with possibly the employment in jeopardy. But new projects are well aspected and the finances are encouraged under a benignant rule of Jupiter.

A child born on this day should be ambitious and enterprising, but may have many difficult situations in life to surmount. It may be restless and changeable.

HOGAN WAIVES RUM QUIZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Capt. Daniel Hogan, reputed part owner of the alleged rum runner I'm Alone, which was sunk by coast guardsmen several months ago in the Gulf of Mexico, has waived examination in proceedings to remove him to Louisiana, where he and 19 other persons were indicted last Tuesday.

Capt. Hogan, who lives in New York, was continued in $25,000 bail to surrender in the Western District of Louisiana on December 30. He was arrested on a complaint forwarded here by the United States attorney of that district before the indictment was returned.

The indictment, which charges illegal importation of liquor from Canada, British Honduras, and other Central American nations, revealed that the Federal Government had been working for several months collecting evidence intended to prove that the I'm Alone was smuggling liquor in American waters.

EIGHT ARRESTED IN DRY RAIDS

Eight persons were arrested by prohibition agents who seized a huge still, two automobiles and large quantities of moonshine yesterday.

Raiding a club on the second floor of 1211 Carson street, the agents arrested Francis Mangan, 31; Michael Bush, 37, and Sam Lease, 36, and confiscated several gallons of moonshine and 1,507 bottles of home brew, they reported.

Seizure of moonshine in the saloon of Mary Aidukaitis, at 136 South Twenty-first street, led to her arrest. Sam Brook, 55, a bartender, was lodged in Central Police station while the woman was released on her own recognizance.

In a dwelling in Chickory Ridge, near South Fork, the Federal raiders seized a 200-gallon still and 100 gallons of whisky. Two automobiles near the house also were confiscated by the agents who arrested two men, it was reported.

Pius Capo, 42, of North Washington, was arrested when a small quantity of moonshine was found in his store, according to the agents.

Two Injured, Driver Held for Court

Charged with aggravated assault and battery by an automobile, Lester J. Emerick, Turtle Creek, was held for court last night after a hearing by Justice of the Peace M. T. Gorham, of Turtle Creek.

An automobile which Emerick was driving collided, Monday night, according to police, with two other machines near Turtle Creek. George Colabaugh and A. Mayhue, both of Turtle Creek, drivers of the cars, were uninjured.

Two children, Petty Rodabaugh, 2½, and Lorraine Rodabaugh, 5, riding with Mayhue at the time, sustained lacerations.

Market Bear Hires Guard Against Bulls

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(Ins.)—Jesse L. Livermore, generally regarded as Wall street's most successful "bear," isn't worried any more that disgruntled "bulls" might try to take a pot-shot at him to ease their feelings for heavy losses in the market.

Livermore's home at Sands Point, L. I., is now protected by Frank Gorman, crack pistol shot, athlete and former Nassau County detective, who is acting as the famous stock operator's personal body guard.

Boy Caught Stealing To Buy Girls' Gifts

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Dec. 21.—Accused of stealing money and other valuables from the coats of patrons of a bowling alley, to procure money to purchase presents for girl friends, Boris Kristov, 15, was held for Juvenile Court when arraigned before Burgess Charles F. Straube. The boy was trapped by an attendant in the act of taking the purse of Mrs. Margaret Raymer, Sewickley, police report

3 Burn to Death In Home as Kin Sings Carols

ELKHORN, Wis., Dec. 21.—(AP.)—Three members of the Carey household were burned to death last night, while three miles away, other members of the family joined in singing carols at a school house Christmas party.

Patsy, Carey, 3, and Mabel, 7, with their grandfather, Henry Snowenberg, 63, were in the isolated farmhouse. The house was in flames when a neighbor spread the alarm.

The bodies were found amid debris in the basement, into which they had been plunged when the floors burned away.

5 DOOMED 'SEE' KIDNAPER DIE

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 21.—(INS.)—Five men doomed for electrocution in the prison here, last night, through an error in prison plans, plainly heard Peter Kudzinowski pay with his life for the murder of a 7-year-old New York boy.

Although Kudzinowski was officially electrocuted for the slaying of little Joseph Storelli, he had also confessed to murdering a man in Scranton, Pa., and to killing a 5-year-old girl.

Because someone had forgotten to close the iron door leading from the cell block to the execution chamber, the five condemned murderers at Trenton could follow with their ears every move in Kudzinowski's ordeal which they soon must face for themselves. Only a curtain kept them from seeing the death march.

Robert Elliott, official executioner of New York, New Jersey and other states, and whose home was bombed last year, was the object of villification from the condemned men. His hands trembled on the levers, and no one in the death chamber could dispute that he earned the $250 paid him by the state for throwing the switch.

Warden Stone, when the outbreak occurred, sent an assistant into the cell room, and the disorder was quelled.

NAME RECEIVER FOR IRON FIRM

Wilfred R. Wood and the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh were appointed receivers of the Coshocton Iron Company of Monongahela, Pa., by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson in an equity suit brought by the Bethlehem Steel Company. The board of directors of the defendant concern consented to the receivership appointment.

In the bill of complaint the plaintiff company sets forth that the Coshocton Iron Company is indebted to it in the sum of $3,688.30 for goods purchased. It also avers that the defendant company has assets greatly in excess of its liabilities, but is without sufficient money to meet present obligations. The current liabilities were placed at $560,000.

In addition to real estate and equipment valued at $1,228,490.86, the defendant company, the bill sets forth, had on hand October 31, $32,750 in cash; $14,231.99 in receivable accounts; $280,091 in raw and finished material, and $330,399 from other items.

Girl Killed Taking Toys to Yule Party

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 21.—Two deaths as the result of automobile accidents were reported here today. Betty Meyers, 10, en route to a Christmas party with an armful of toys, was run down and killed by a machine driven by Walter Creighton, of this place.

Woman's Kidnaper Gets 3-Year Term

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 21.—Vincent Pascarelli, Ambridge, was convicted in court of extortion and sentenced, by Judge W. A. McConnel, to three years in the workhouse. He was accused by Mrs. Mary Lomazec, 19, Aliquippa, of kidnaping her in Pittsburgh, holding her prisoner in a Leetsdale house and demanding $300 for her release. He was arrested in Ambridge, it was testified, when a friend of the woman's paid over the money to him.

Walter Winchell
On Broadway

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.

PLEASE smother me with a couple o' tons,
With blessed events, bylines and stipes.
List thousands of consolations,
My readers fill with ire and laughter.

Pile high my desk with hits for Monday
And verse for Tuesday Wednesday, Friday.
A let-this-smack-you-in-the-eye day.

From show folks grafting and ofays,
Who's Rudys pash" "What's Lindy's home key"
Rush me the answers, all exclusive.

To my contribs give good things countless,
Competitors the also ran Cup;
Cause my errata to amount less,
And I'll say, "Thank you! Thank you! Thank you!"

—Ivie Miller.

HE'S FUNNY THAT WAY

IZZY ELINSON passes along the quip about the movie star who was appearing in a second-rate sketch on the small-time. The act flopped with such a terrific thud that the house manager decided to cancel it after the first matinee.

"Here," said the manager, as he handed the ham his check, "go and Cinema!"

OH, IS THAT IT?

"Dear Winchell," writes Hugh Tellem, "no doubt you've seen and laughed at Sam Marx's outburst on the critics who panned Irving Kaye Davis and his play, 'Diana.' If you haven't, I am enclosing it herewith. You'd think that the Marx hysteria was due to a genuine love for the drama, wouldn't you? Well, that isn't the reason. It appears that Master Marx is at the moment writing a play in collaboration with the indicted Davis, which may or may not explain everything."

QUITESO, QUITESO

Alexander Woollcott, who was once a newspaperman himself, observes that newspapermen are roughly divided into two classes. Those who become dramatic critics and those who write editorials deploring the low estate into which dramatic criticism has fallen.

CONTRAST

ONCE we walked as lovers do
Shuffling down the street,
Kissing on a corner—
Very indiscreet.

Win a passing glance;
Quite a little fee to pay
For a dead romance.

J. P. S.

YES, INDEEDY

The ageless proverb in show business: "The Curtain Always Goes Up!" asserted itself again this week on Broadway. Muriel Kirkland, the leading lady of the hit, "Strictly Dishonorable," was taken ill suddenly the other day. Antoinette Perry's daughter filled the gap and not until the producer apologized to the audience after the show did the spectators know any change in cast had been made. The newcomer was given an ovation for her artful performance.

David Hutcheson, the English comic in "Sons o' Guns," broke an ankle Sunday. Monday night Lynn Overman was up in the part, which contained songs and dance routines. They report that he acquitted himself most creditably.

To quote R. C. O'Brien again, the cemeteries are filled with people who thought the world couldn't get along without them.

ALWAYS BELITTLIN'

FROM an account of the Pathe fire victims' benefit show at the Imperial Theater last week: "... a new song composed by George Gershwin was sunk for the first time by Gertrude Lawrence."

—N. Y. Times.

THE MORNING MAIL

"Dear Walter," writes the world-tourist, Percy Hammond from San Francisco, "it seems that I can't leave town without being double-crossed. What I said was: 'I've knocked everything in the show, except the chorus-girls' knees and nature has anticipated me in that.' Knees are often knocked, but never disliked, Walter.

"I am sold on this town, the friendliest port I ever made. I may decide to spend my later days here. Please give my love to Mrs. Winchell and recall me to such others as may remember the fellow who used to defend the drama for the N. Y. Herald Tribune.

—"Hammond."

HEHEHEH

And Lester Allen's idea of the meanest guy in the world is the feller who was stone deaf and never told his barber.

JUVENILE WHOOPEE

THE best description of a children's party that has come to Mrs. Mack Appleton's notice in many moons is that given by her 6-year-old daughter. "Did you have a good time at Gloria's birthday party?" asked the fond mother.

"Oh yes, mother, we had a perfectly lovely time!"

"But what did you do to have such a lovely time?"

SQUELCH

Because too many members of the staff of a certain newspaper have attempted to exercise power over others by "seeing the chief" and carrying tales, the chief has posted this sign on his walls: "Influence is what you think you have until you try to use it."

IN FEWER WORDS

Which explains a good deal.

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

Giving People Voice in World Court Issue Fair

According to Washington dispatches President Hoover, "in the interest of party solidarity," will not put the World Court issue before the Senate until after the congressional elections in 1930.

It will give the people a chance to say whether they want the United States to join this tribunal of the League of Nations under the conditions formulated by Sir Cecil Hurst.

The people THOUGHT the issue was settled in 1926.

In November of that year, with one-third the Senate up for re-election, the people expressed their opinion of the League Court most emphatically.

The elections made perfectly clear that the voters did not wish this country to enter the League Court EVEN WITH THE SENATE RESERVATIONS.

The result of the elections was that a great many pro-Court Senators were DEFEATED. The anti-Court Senators were RE-ELECTED, and there was a public CHANGE OF HEART announced by many Senators who were not up for re-election that year.

If President Hoover is determined to disregard this expression of the people's will, he should ask for ANOTHER expression of their will AND BE GUIDED BY IT.

The only honest thing to do and the only thing in keeping with our American principles is to abide by the decision of the people given at the next senatorial elections.

That means to wait and submit the League Court proposition to the Senate as it is constituted after the people have expressed themselves, and after the newly-elected Senators have taken their seats.

That will be in December, 1931.

A Mask for Boxers

It Reminds You of the Rich Man's Son.

With this mask, made in Germany, a champion, as valuable to his manager as a high-grade racehorse, is protected against accidents.

He does not, while in training, get a cut lip, injured eye, or teeth knocked out, which might be a nuisance in the "big fight."

THIS GERMAN MASK PROTECTS BOXERS IN TRAINING

Possibly training, protected by a mask, might lead to carelessness, and do more harm than good. Time and training will tell.

What is more interesting than boxers, developed in our day to entertain brutal crowds, as gladiators were developed in Rome to entertain MORE brutal crowds, is not very important.

The interesting thing about boxing masks is that they remind you of the lives of the young sons of rich men.

And when they go out into the world they expect that mask still to protect them.

The young gentleman with a money mask has only to sign a check and what he wants comes to him.

But the mask that, for a while, perhaps for life, separates him from hunger and financial anxiety, also separates him from REALITIES.

Where men need to develop character by struggling with the real world and its difficulties, he develops only egotism, and a sense of his own importance, that has no foundation.

Probably the best fighters will continue to develop by training without masks, learning by quickness of sight and speed in defense to avoid the cut lip, blackened eyes and broken teeth.

CERTAINLY the ablest men will develop free from the mask of inherited money, that makes life too easy at the beginning, and not worth much in the end.

This does not apply, of course, to the few exceptional men, with minds above money, the VERY FEW that have used their inheritance to add to their efficiency.

NO mask is the best policy.

Edison's Logical Task

Tasty Substitute for Steak Would be Welcomed.

Thomas Edison is back in Fort Myers, Fla., with five carloads of weeds and a staff of his most able assistants. He is working day and night on his experiments to extract the elements of rubber from weeds, and his secretary has intimated that substitute rubber has already been produced at a cost of 16 cents a pound, which is the current quotation for real rubber. More important is the fact that Edison's synthetic rubber is reputed to have qualities that are superior to commercial rubber as produced at present.

Having gone thus far, it will be too bad if Mr. Edison doesn't find time to work out a tasty, juicy substitute for the steaks some of us have been getting from the neighborhood butcher.

He Thaws It Out!

Drawn by Nelson Harding

"Bugs" Baer Says:

It's an Old Man's World

"Bugs" Baer

The Kris Kringle at Dibbs and Dabbs, Inc., wears a full trellis of angelic whiskers spotted with yellow. He should either go on a diet or check his beard when eating eggs.

There is a Santa on Fifth avenue who stages a daily traffic jam of juvenile tourists. When he goes into a huddle with the kids he gives them the right signals. But he has trimmed his beard down to a Van Dyke chinstrap and wears spats on his boots.

Some of the Santas are tall and lean and some of them are short and fatter. We favor the double breasted coat with the soup plate buttons instead of safety pins.

A Santa ain't much good in a department store window unless you like your children with flattened noses.

He should be standing out in the aisle of the store where the little ones can kick him around.

A very fashionable store has its Santa in a high hat and swallow tails. The only thing he furnished himself was the red nose.

Strange that the reform societies haven't batted out an extra amendment condemning Santa's vermillion beak. Probably, they figure the inflamed beezer is an essential concomitant of peace on earth and good will to belated shoppers.

The best Santa we saw was the one in the toy department of Potts and Panz. His beard comes down to his waist. And his waist comes down to his knees, which happen to droop to his ankles. His coat is a beautiful red trimmed with celluloid cuffs.

His eyes have a jolly twinkle in their bifocals. A Santa with spectacles and baggy knees isn't going to fool any children because he looks too much like their daddies.

Some of the stores use dapper, young Santas with pinch-back coats and walking sticks. These are the snooty bazars who don't want anybody around with white hair.

Our heart goes out to the old boys who help to further the jolly embezzlement of the kids in December. The tempo of industry and progress is so swift that not one of us old timers could land a Santa job if we had a beard of our own.

(Copyright, 1929.)

NOSES TO THE WINDOW

By Herbert Kaufman

TAP—TAP—TAP—can't you hear it against your window—beating with tattered wings—feebly fluttering—gently calling to YOU?

There's a lost dream out there under the pityir g stars—a dream born in the simple trust of childhood—once radiant with faith—but now spent and weary with journeying from heart to heart.

"Once upon a time," you, too, sped such a hope-spangled message into the dark. When the first crystal skies broke into diamond dust and silvered copse and mead, your imagination leaped astride a prancing snowdrop and went riding across the hills and over the woods, upon a moonbeam, to Santa Claus, and whispered your yearnings into his kind old ears.

And sure enough, when you slipped out of bed and crept downstairs on Christmas morning, there was the tree EXACTLY as you ordered, and the stocking filled PRECISELY as stipulated, with the orange bulging the toe and the monkey-on-the-stick grinning impudently at the top.

HE didn't bring ALL the toys you asked (own up; you DID pad the requisition, expecting him to cut it down), but you found the very IMPORTANT playthings—the ones you wished for HARDEST.

The image of your first sled is still as vivid as its coat of crimson. You didn't ask to have it decorated, and it was mighty fine of him to put such a beautiful oil painting in the middle. If you'll reflect, it was done by hand—like the picture in the parlor—and showed a boy sliding belly-whopper on the hillside. And the runners were thick and round and meant to wear forever.

You had taken Mother into your confidence—so she knew every item of the list; and my! wasn't she surprised to think Old Santa, with all the OTHER children in the world to look after, had remembered you so generously.?

(It melts the snow out of your hair, and sends the wrinkles flying helter-skelter as you recall that dim and gentle hour.)

WE don't have such Christmases, after beard's start to sprout. Somehow, growing-up takes all their MAGIC away. But NOTHING can do that to the memory of 'em.

But bless my soul! At the very thought of Mother and the old home, a miracle has happened: Imagination waves her fairy wand, razes horizon walls and, before you can say "Jack Robinson," you're back yonder in the Ever-so-long-ago, with Skinny and Fatty and Reddy; your noses glued against the toyshop window—taking turns at choosing from the drums and trumpets and swords and guns and card-mounted firemen sets—and the plaster statue of St. Nicholas with brown overcoat and a tiny tree in the crook of his arm.

What a pity you must return so soon to sordid reality, to be so wise and old again! If you could stand there long enough you might RE-LEARN how it feels to be a little fellow around Christmas time.

BOYS and girls are still just the same—and MORE so. But, nowadays, MORE of them are disappointed.

There are so many NEW people in the world (especially poor folk) that Santa Claus can't keep track of them all.

And a strange thing called Increased-cost-of-living seems to interfere so frightfully with Christmas giving, that a myriad children were overlooked last Christmas Day, and they not only had nothing but HOLES in their stockings, but empty breadboxes and stoves, to boot.

Yet they're hoping THIS year, as though everything had come out right. (How hard it is to kill the faith of children!)

And the air is filled with anxious wishes that NEVER will turn true unless you and the rest of us rescue these waif-pravers that just CAN'T manage to reach Santa Claus.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

THERE are ructions in the Allen family. Hitherto Mother Allen has ruled the roost. She has ruled it lovingly but firmly, with the profound conviction that Mother Knows Best. And now the three Allen youngsters, ranging in age from eighteen to twenty-three, and all working, are disputing that theory.

They say mother's a dear, but she DOESN'T know best. They say that her ideas are old-fashioned . . . that they won't work in this modern world . . . that she "doesn't understand what it's all about."

Naturally, Mrs Allen is distracted and indignant. What nonsense to say she doesn't understand! Wasn't she young once herself? Of course, she understands! She accepted her mother's guidance . . . why won't they? What will they amount to if they won't listen to their own mother?

THEY PROBABLY WILL AMOUNT TO MUCH MORE THAN IF THEY DID LISTEN TO MOTHER.

Grandmother might have known what was best for mother, for life had changed but little since her own girlhood. But the world has moved faster within the last twenty-five years than within the last 250. This present world is no more like the world of mother's youth than it is like Mars.

Mother wants her girls to "be like she was." She wants them to be as innocent, docile, retiring and sentimental as her mother taught her to be. But the modern girl who tried to enter life with that sort of technique would be doomed to tragedy. Her associates would pity her, her boss would fire her, her children would laugh at her and she'd bore her husband to tears.

Girls, in mother's youth, prepared for marriage. Girls today, prepare for LIFE. It's an entirely different matter. The twentieth century girl must know her world and must know how to handle herself in that world. She must be a CITIZEN as well as a female.

AS A CONSEQUENCE. NINE TIMES OUT OF TEN A MOTHER CAN LEARN MORE FROM HER WORKING CHILD THAN IT CAN LEARN FROM HER.

THE CHILD IS CURRENT... THE MOTHER ISN'T . . . SHE HASN'T KEPT HERSELF SO.

The working boy or girl of today needs a mother's love, sympathy and understanding as much as youngsters ever needed them. And they'll seek these things IF THE MOTHER HAS THE GOOD SENSE TO ACT THE PART OF THE COMRADE RATHER THAN THE COMMANDER.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE primates may be called the inquisitive mammals; they are characterized first and foremost by their intelligence, and include the animals with the largest brains, the most useful, mobile hands, and the clearest eyes.

The latter point may be associated in some way with the chief primate diagnostic—the presence of a more or less complete bony partition separating the eyeball from the muscles moving the lower jaw.

H. G. Wells.

Moreover (except for one or two lemurs and the marmosets, which are clawed) they are distinguished from all other mammals by having flat nails on their fingers and toes, instead of claws or hoofs.

Their hands contrast very strikingly with the feet of ungulates. In the latter group the foot is purely and solely a prop, a single shaft, and there is constantly a tendency to have few toes and to have them all bound together into one column.

It is very strong and firm, but its possible uses are severely limited. In the primates the hand is used for grasping and examining things and, therefore, there is a full complement of five fingers which can move more or less independently of each other.

It is a hand designed for variety and adaptability of movement rather than strength. For the most part the primates are arboreal in habit.

The fourth and last cohort of Placentals is the Cetaceans, the whales, dolphins and porpoises. They are wholly aquatic mammals. Many other kinds have taken more or less completely to water, but none of them have utterly surrendered their land-living habits; even seals come ashore to breed.

But the whales never set foot on land. Indeed, they have no feet; their front limbs are small, like the front pair of fins in a fish, and are used as balancing "flippers;" their hind limbs are represented by mere splints of bone, embedded in the bodywall, which are not used at all; their tails have broad, horizontal flukes, which are used, like the tail of a fish, to drive the body along.

Moreover, the group includes the largest known animals, for the blue whale weighs over a hundred tons. The smallest mammal of all, we may note, is a common insectivore, the pigmy shrew, which is less than a millionth of that weight.

Even the smallest Cetaceans, when fully adult, are three feet long. As regards diet there are two kinds of whales. Some, the toothed whales, eat large prey (such as giant cuttle fish); the common porpoise, which chases and devours fish, is of this kind.

The others, the whalebone whales, have a sieve of whalebone round their mouth in the place of teeth and they feed on the tiny creatures that swarm in myriads at the surface of the sea; they take a large mouthful of sea and squirt it out again through their internal mustache of whalebone, and then lick off the masses of tiny creatures that have stuck on the sieve.

Whales are exclusively marine but there are one or two species which venture into rivers—the common porpoise, for example, has ascended the Seine to Paris. Moreover, as the only exclusively aquatic mammals, they occupy a unique position in human economics. To the Catholic Church they have always been fish and therefore eatable in Lent.

Hence the name of the porpoise which is a corruption of Porkpisce, or pork fish.

All the mammalian cohorts include a great number of orders, families and genera now extinct, and in many cases these extinct forms are interesting because they form links and bridges between groups of which the surviving members are in sharp contrast. But the consideration of these extinct and linking forms we will reserve for a later Book.

SEC. 3B. BIRDS

BIRDS appeared in the world in in the same middle period of time as the mammals, and became abundant as mammals became abundant. They are a parallel class of heat-retaining, high-efficiency animals.

Birds obviously are heavier-than-air flying machines. There are indeed one of two birds that cannot fly—the ostrich, for example, or the kiwi—and the penguin, instead of flying in air, fly in water, but the great majority of them are able to take to the air, and the fact is reflected in every bone, every muscle, every internal organ.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—On the east side of Union Square from morning until late a stretch of sidewalk overflows with a simmering crowd that seems on the verge of boiling over any moment with suppressed excitement. They are mostly foreigners shouting old and new socialistic dreams.

Arms are flying and heads bobbing in perpetual argument. During big strikes mounted police skirt the edges to prevent outbreaks. The open forum centers directly in front of a co-operative cafeteria known as Prolectos, which has been dubbed the Red Stronghold.

Prolectos is the only successful Communistic cafeteria in the country—the mecca for thousands of fur, dress and other garment workers seeking a panacea for the ills of the world. They have been drawn here from out of the myriad candle sputtering cellar cafes where they formerly held forth.

The presiding genius is an obscure garment worker whose real name is not known. He coined Prolectos out of a combination of "proletarian" and "co-operative." The restaurant is commodious, glittering with lights and serves well-cooked satisfying foods.

Six hundred stockholders are given a 10 per cent reduction in the price of food. But, despite the success of the place, no dividends are declared. Instead a directors meeting is held and profits are used for new improvements. Thus does it grow amazingly.

More than 5,000 customers are fed daily. There are few times a day when one does not have to wait for a table. While many go there as sightseers, the majority belong to some Communistic cult. When a visiting radical hits town, he immediately goes there.

Fiery young students in Latin Quarter hats and flowing ties hold forth in little table groups, sighing over a capitalistic world gone mad. Once in a while one in a frenzy of outrage will leap to a table top and declaim. And Union Square will ring with cheers.

I know a fellow who can pass one of those "Fun, Magic and Mystery" shops without stopping in or even looking in the window, the old will-powered such and such.

A frequently resurrected Sunday feature story concerns the wattled beldames and doughty colonels of another day clinging to their jeweled snuff boxes for a pinch now and then. But tobacco shops along 5th, Madison and Park avenue declare there is not one call for snuff in a year. About the only snuff sold is among seafaring men along South street and a few foreigners on the lower East Side. In 1875 there were 20 snuff factories in New York. The lone reminder of these is an abandoned snuff mill standing as a landmark in Helvetia, N. J.

However, love charms still sell along such utterly civilized sections as Riverside Drive. Two or three hawkers of love philters make a living in such fashion. They are sold chiefly to love-sick gobs on shore leave. The prices range from 50c to a dollar, and when the fleet comes in the peddlers reap a harvest.

* * *

For an hour I have been decorating the picture of a beautiful lady on a magazine cover with penciled mustache and spade-shaped beard, trying to think of the most interesting observation in New York during the week. And the incident standing out most vividly is a rather spruce gentleman of middle years who suddenly detached himself from the orderly pavement flow, hopped over a fire plug leap-frog fashion, and turned back into the parade with dignity.

* * *

Many of us, I believe, frequently curb such urges. I never pass a stone wall without experiencing an almost uncontrollable desire to balance myself tight rope fashion along its top. Some day, too, I'm going to make a few payments down on a wheel chair and try it.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

IF YOUR life partner has formed an ideal concerning you why destroy it by telling of long bygone experiences which would shatter it.

If you have abandoned or overcome some of the things you did in younger years which were discreditable to you why bring them up now?

Your present companion has little of which to complain if you have traveled the right course since you have become more or less accountable to him or to her. This is, of course, if you were not guilty of doing something serious in nature.

Many young persons participate in things not positively bad, but of which they grow to be ashamed.

If you are not proud of certain indiscretions of youth, why set those who hear them against you by telling such experiences?
